FUNERAL OF FIELD MARSHAL MONDAY

Full Military Honors at St. Paul's Cathedral

Statements on Assassinations Issued by Craig, de Valera and Irish Army Dissidents—King Sends Sympathy to Lady Wilson.

London, June 23.—The funeral of Field Marshal Sir Henry Wilson will be held on Monday at St. Paul's cathedral, the emeral military pantheon. The body will be interred in the north transept, beside the grave of Field Marshal Lord Roberts. Full military honors will be accorded the dead soldier. Except for the portion of the cathedral reserved for relatives, members of parliament and other prominent persons, the whole of the vast edifice will be thrown open, without tickets, to the general public.

Over the long route from 21st Place, the home of Field Marshal Wilson, to St. Paul's, others will have opportunity to pay their last respects. Little has been added to the identity of the motives of the assassins, except that they proved to be former soldiers and one of them was employed as a doorman in a government office. The expressions of horror and indignation over the assassinations are not confined to England. Today they extend virtually over the whole of the world. Many messages of condolence reached Lady Wilson from sovereigns, great soldiers and cabinet ministers in various countries.

Statement by Craig. Belfast, June 24.—The assassination of Field Marshal Wilson will not assist in reconciling North and South Ireland, but rather will serve to harden hearts and to widen the breach, declared Sir James Craig, Ulster premier, in a statement to newspapermen yesterday. He declared the shooting was "the worst deed" but that nobody's nerve in Ulster would be affected by what he pronounced the most savage atrocity since the Phoenix Park murders. Ulster's policy would remain unchanged. In two words it was "no secession."

King's Sympathy. London, June 24.—Lady Wilson has received the following telegram from King George: "I can find no words to express my feelings of horror and grief at the appalling tragedy which robbed you of your beloved husband, and the country of one of its most distinguished soldiers. Speaking for the queen, as well as for myself, I can only say our heartfelt sympathy goes out to you in your great sorrow and irreparable loss."

General de Valera, chief of staff of the British army, paid tribute to Field Marshal Wilson, saying: "By the murder of Field Marshal Wilson the world sustains an irreparable loss. He was one whom all ranks loved, and he served us well. His wisdom in council, his teachings at the staff college, his cheerful outlook on the darkest situation, set an example to the army which to his honor and memory we shall do well to follow humbly."

De Valera. Dublin, June 24.—Eamonn de Valera in a statement to the press disavows any knowledge of the assassins of Field Marshal Wilson or their motives. "I do not know who they were who shot Sir Henry Wilson or why they shot him," he said. "From latest press reports it would appear that they were British soldiers. But I know that attitude of mind which a campaign of outrage and aggression against which there seems to be no recess, can beget in the minds of the community against which the campaign is waged. I know that bold men, abandoned by the organized defense of the state, will be driven by the force of desperation to seek to defend themselves by deeds of desperation for the nationalist minority in Belfast and its neighborhood. The domestic Irish question, to partition Ireland, could be settled in less than five years, for peace and an end to all horrors, it is only necessary for statesmen to have the will to be fearlessly just."

From the Dissident Army. Dublin, June 24.—The shooting of Sir Henry Wilson was not done at the instigation of the dissident army, it was the fact, says a statement issued by the publicity department of the dissident army at the Four Courts headquarters. The death of Wilson is to be deplored, the statement continues, "not because it occurred apparently at the hands of Irishmen but because he was a victim of the imperial policy pursued by the British government in Ireland."

"There is no use trying to saddle the responsibility on Ireland or any group of the Irish people. The responsibility must rest where the inexorable finger of history will place it, on the government that has tried to carry the policy of Great Britain has continuously and consistently adopted in its relations with Ireland for centuries, to partition Ireland into a north and south; to win the allegiance of the north by making it over-seer in the work of imperial endeavor; to gain the allegiance of the south by threat of the iron heel to panper and oppress the other and make one appear the natural enemy of the other."

"These have been the British methods in the past; they are their methods today. The scenes of outrage and carnage in the north are the result of British insatiable British connivance and British duplicity."

"In all this, Wilson played a part that time will define, and he played it not for Ulster but for his imperial masters. It

LAND QUESTION IN OTTAWA HOUSE

Ottawa, June 24.—(Canadian Press.)—"I want to serve notice on this committee that, so far as I am concerned, I intend to resist the incorporation of the bill, in the clause to the limit. This declaration was made by Hon. Charles Stewart in the house last night in regard to a section of a bill to validate the cancellation of leases of dominion lands in the past, rendered before the date of the passing of an amendment had been inserted to set aside as a preserve an area of coal lands near the junction of the Muskogee and Smoky rivers, in Alberta. Mr. Stewart insisted that the clause providing that the lands in question should not be sold, leased, or otherwise disposed of except under the authority of an act of parliament be struck from the bill. He moved an amendment to this effect, which was carried by the casting vote of Deputy Speaker Gordon. The final clause of the bill was amended so as to provide that nothing in the act should affect rights or judgments of the act or under any report or suit instituted before July 1 of the present year. The bill was then reported and received third reading.

Peter Veno being left a fortune," said the reporter. "Has he lost a rich aunt—or some thing?" "Oh, no," said Hiram. "Peter don't haunter after money. All he wants is a chance to spend it—an' here comes the floods—just when he was wonderin' where he'd break out his boots and start for a raft—or paddling out roads an' bridges to the town of $150,000—just to help Peter out. These are the days of red sport, for everybody's ready to start for the settlement. Did you float down on a log this morning—or a bunch of shingles?" (Canadian Press) New York, June 24.—Another home run barrage was laid down yesterday in the major leagues. Fourteen circuit blows were recorded, five going to the American League men and the others to the National leaguers. The Phillies defeating Boston 10 to 9, in ten innings, were helped by five homers, two of them being hit by Fletcher, the others by Williams, Walker and Lee. Boeckel hit one for the Browns.

Wheat, of the Dodgers, counted the only run for his team against the Giants, with a homer. For the second straight time, ten to six, knocked his 12th homer of the season and Collins, St. Louis catcher, also connected for one. Hooper's homer in the tenth carried a six to five victory for the White Sox over Cleveland. Shelly, Chicago, first sacker, gathered another. Goebel, Washington right fielder, got a homer for one of the three runs of the Senators. Incidentally Walter Johnson shutout the Athletics, 8 to 0. It was the 96th shut-out game of his career.

Carl Mays weakened in the seventh inning against the Red Sox and the Yankees dropped another game, 5 to 4. The Cardinals dropped a hard hitting game to the Chicago Cubs, 5 to 2, while Hornsby had a perfect at bat, four hits in four attempts. The Reds, taking advantage of loose fielding by Pittsburgh, won 8 to 2.

As a result of the games in the American League, Cobb's Tigers are but one game behind the Yankees, who are in turn, still one game and a half behind St. Louis.
