OPERA HOUSE SHOW

ONE OF THE BEST YET

A good audience saw and appreciated "A Daughter of the People."

The Partello Stock Company opened the second week of its engagement here last evening when it presented the thrilling four act melodrama, "A Daughter of the People."

The Opera House was well filled and an appreciative audience greeted the good work of the players. Great credit is due the whole company for the splendid manner in which they presented this difficult play.

Each individual proved himself or herself master of the part which he was booked to perform. The elaborate and well planned scenery lent much to the effect of the play.

The play forms a story in which the first scene presents a room in the famous Bank of Monte Carlo. Those present represent many nationalities and the plot opens with the planning of a gambler to lure a Russian refugee and his daughter back to Russia where a reward is offered for their capture.

The refugee falling heavily in debt, suicides, and by doing so leaves his daughter in the clutches of the gambler who holds a promise of the girl should he die not be paid.

She is saved by the appearance of a young Englishman who gets her out of the hands of the treacherous gambler. The Englishman plans on taking her to the home of his sister in England but by the deception of a woman accomplice of the gambler, she is taken to Russia. Her rescuers follow and through the jealousy of the gambler's accomplice she is saved from a horrible death.

The play is filled with much clean, wholesome comedy which gives a variety to the presentation. The son of an American manufacturer and the daughter of a German baroness fall in love and completely get the better of their parents in the end.

Ralph Chambers, a young Englishman, played his part exceedingly well and deserved the applause given.

Miss Alice Kennedy, as the refugee's daughter, took her part very impressively and held the audience in all her earnest speeches. Norman Houston, as the Englishman's friend, was ably assisted by Violet Mahar, as the daughter of the baroness. Earl Mayo and Ernest Kost, as the gamblers, played their parts well and were aided by Jessie Lyons, taking the part of the accomplice.

Elizabeth Johnson, as the baroness, and John Dugan, the American manufacturer, kept up the well planned comedy. The remainder of the cast played their parts exceedingly well and added the success of the presentation.

During the evening the "Three Winesome Harmonists," gave the audience a delightful programme of instrumental music. This trio has a splendid vocabulary of pieces and received the hearty applause of the audience.

The attendance and the appreciation of the audience show the increasing popularity of the company. During their stay the list of productions to be played rank among some of the shows played here recently at high prices. These will be given by the Partello Stock Company at popular prices and each night should find the house well filled to take advantage of this chance to see these plays.

Before the last act it was announced from the stage that all ladies attending the Wednesday matinee would receive a pound box of chocolates as a souvenir.

Red Cross Campaign.

A meeting of the local Red Cross Society was held in the Mayor's office yesterday afternoon. There were three ladies present. The object of the meeting was to deal with the appeal for assistance from the British Red Cross Society. It was decided to send $1,000 for this purpose. The ladies feel that the local branch is doing all that it is possible to do at this time and are of the opinion that the people have been asked to contribute so many funds that it would not be feasible to make any effort along these lines at this time. Royal Standard Chapter, I.O.D.E., will give a silver tea at the residence of Mrs. J. E. Moore, Germain street, on Thursday the 21st inst. Tea will be served from 4 p. m. to 7 p. m., and a silver collection will be taken at the door. The proceeds will be given to the British Red Cross.

According to the wise sage of old "It's an ill wind that blows nobody good," a fact well exemplified at the Lyric Theatre yesterday when it was found that the special feature "Wildfire" was lost in transportation and the Broadway Universal Star feature "Jewel" was secured to take its place. Aside from the inconvenience caused to the management by the hold-up, nobody lost anything as "Jewel" is surely one of the sweetest and prettiest stories seen on a local screen for some time. It presents the capable and winsome star, Miss Ella Hall, who portrays the part of a little girl, in a manner that leaves no doubt as to the wonderful ability with which she is endowed. Her acting is the predominant feature throughout the entire five acts of the story, and it is safe to say that each and every patron was charmed with her artistic work. The supporting cast is an excellent one. The story has to do with the power of a child over the hardened old man of the world, and how by her ingenuity and sweet nature she wins his affection and creates happiness where dissatisfaction once ruled. It is not the story so much as the clever way in which it is exploited that appeals to patrons of all classes and creeds. Special vaudeville was provided by West and Tate, who in feats of strength commanded the attention and admiration of every patron.

BASEBALL GAMES

AT UNIQUE THEATRE

Excellent programme at popular house — The Champions in action.

The enterprise that characterized the first showing of the first game in the world's series between the Boston "Red Sox" and the Philadelphia "Nationals" at the Unique Theatre yesterday, reflects the greatest credit on the management of the theatre and the manufacturers of the film. This subject which is, of course, only a portion of the Universal Weekly is a very clear showing of the first game played in Philadelphia for the championship of 1915. It is decidedly worth while, and although short, is of such interest at the present moment especially, that it cannot help but appeal to all lovers and followers of the sport. War scenes and other notes of timely interest were also pictured. "The Governor Maker," a production released under the Bison brand found instantaneous favor with the large audiences present and created no end of comment for the excellent manner in which the thrilling and highly sensational story was produced. The scene wherein the fire is depicted, is possibly one of the finest of its kind that has been seen on the screen for some time. In the L. K. farcical play "A Mortgage on His Daughter," real unadulterated fun wages warm and fast. The great ruby mystery, Gold Seal feature will be shown Wednesday and Thursday.

Besides his wife, who was formerly Miss Mary McArthur of St. John, he is survived by two children, six brothers and three sisters, and his mother, all residing in Lower Millstream.

He was well known and much respected by all who knew him and the news of his death was received with much regret by all who had had the pleasure of knowing him.
