Mr. Anglin attacked the construction of the Intercolonial and the management of the road, and the payments on Section 5.

Mr. Palmer spoke on the Government side. He claimed that the Government should, in the public interest, be unrestricted in dealing with contractors when stricted in dealing with contractors when they failed through unforeseen circumstances, such as the rise in wages, &c.

Burpee of St. John said the Commissioners should have given the contract to men experienced in this class of work. A certain percentage should have been reretained by the Commissioners on the contract for the protection of the country. The Government was not to blame except for sustaining the Commissioners. He regretted voting against the Government, but, viewing the matter from a business and commercial stand point, he felt that the work had not been conducted properly. He must vote for the resolution.
