London, Nov. 3.—The apathy of British public men in regard to the Canadian preference to South Africa

s astonishing. Several officials of the Colonial Office, when asked by a representative of the Canadian Associated Press to-day for an opinion, replied languidly that they supposed it was a good thing for Canada. When the great significance to the empire

the reply would be, "Oh, yes, but we are too busy with the fiscal fight to think of such things." Hon. Mr. Lyt-tleton's private secretary refused to al-low him to be disturbed to express an opinion.

Sir Charles Dilke, speaking yesterday at Normanton, said in Canada the effect of a preference upon wheat would weaken the Imperial tie by interesting the already rapid rate and

Dr. Graham Bell'Seems to Have Attained Success.

New York, Nov. 2.- The Herald republishes from The National Geographic Magazine an article by Gilbert H. Grosvener, in which he says in part :-Dur-ing the last four months Dr. Alexander Graham Bell (who was born in Scotland and lived for a number of years in Brantand lived for a number of years in Brantford, Ont, has been seeking to construct a giant man-lifting kite, or flying machine, that could acquire by itself sufficient momentum to rise unadded from the ground or surface of a lake. His belief is that his machine in rising would have to imitate the start of a large and heavy bird—that is, glide along the surface for some distance with constantly increasing speed until fit rose of its own momentum. It may be said that Dr. Bell has been successful, and that he has developed a form of gigantic kite, or flying machine, which has this faculty of starting unaided.

LDBER Detroit, Mich Sketch of Young Leader of Macedonia

Possessed by an hereditary hatred of the Turks, which has been inflamed by the arrest, imprisonment and banishment of his father and grand-father for alleged revolutionary actions, Boris Sarafoff, the young leader of the Macedonian revolutionary movement is a personality of leader of the Macedonian revolutionary movement, is a personality of interest at this time, when the eruption of volcanic matter from the crater of the Balkans is a little more menacing than usual. He was born in the Turkish village of Ljubjechovo, the home of his ancestors for more than 200 years. He succeeded in entering the military academy at Sofia at the age of eighteen, and, passing his examinations with honor, he received a commiswith honor, he received a commis-sion as Licutenant of the 1st Buision as Licutenant of the 1st Bujarian Infantry Regiment at the age of twenty. For three years, until 1895, when the Macedonian question began to attract the attention of the world, he retained his commission. Then he became restless, and resigned, to take part in the Macedonian movement. Gathering about donian movement. Gathering about him a hundred men of his own age, he began to drill them. On July i he crossed the frontier with eighty men on his way to Melnik. He and his followers slaughtered half of the garrison of one hundred men. Making a fiery speech to the inhabitants assembled in the market place, he announced a new movement against Turkey. The entire Christian population accompanied him to the local Greek church to give thanks for his success. Sarafoff and his following were obliged to retreat soon from success. Saraion and his clowing were obliged to retreat soon from Melnik, for a large body of Turkish troops was on its way toward the place. His knowledge of the country enabled him to escape. Saraion try enabled him to escape. Sarafoff continued his raids over the frontier, capturing garrisons, stirring up the people, and escaping before an effective pursuit could be organized. The Turkish Government set a price of 100,000 francs on his head. He organized the Macedonian committee, which is se well known, with many local committees, and an executive headquarters at Sofia. At the age of thirty Sarafoff's ambition is to organize a great rebellion, seize Constantinople, and, after dethroning the Sultan, establish a new Macedonian State, with himself at its head

A Story of President Diaz.

A stery of President Diaz.

An army man who has been in Mexico tells a story of how President Diaz got rid of an objectionable gang and sayed his zon-in-law, who was a member of it. This gang had a regular meeting place, which became so unsavory that Diaz determined to break it up. One afternoon when the crowd was to meet Diaz sent word to the young man by an aid inviting him to dine at the President's country villa, a few miles out of the city. More than this, the President refused to accept any excuses, and, as a matter of fact, an invitation from Diaz is a command not to be lightly disobeyed. The son-in-law attended the dinner, and afterward Diaz asked him to play billiards. Finally the telephone bell rang, and the President was called up. He remained in conversation for some time, and as he hung up the receiver he turned smilling to his son-in-law and said:

"You may return to the city now.

he turned smiling to his son-in-law and said:

"You may return to the city now. I have just been conversing with the chief of police, who informs me that he has made a most successful raid upon that questionable resort which you so often frequent. All your companions have been arrested, and they will start at daybreak for the southern frontier, where they will enter the army and probably die of disease. If you had not been my guest to-night you would have been among them. Good-night. them. Good-night.

Willcocks' Next Great Work. Willeacks' Next Great Work.

Sir William Willcocks, the wellknown British expert and late director-general of the irrigation works in Bigypt, now proposes to restore Chaldea to its ancient productiveness and glory by means of irrigation. The Tigris River bears much the same relation to Chaldea that the Nile does to Egypt, and might be made now, as it undoubtedly was in ancient times, the great resource of the country. Bagdad lies about 500 miles up. try. Bagdad lies about 500 miles up the Tigris, and from it to the Per-sian Gulf spreads a desolate barren ry, which was one of the mos country, which was one of the most fertile districts in the east. At Opis, on the banks of the Tigris, are the ruins of the great Nahrwan which fertilized an area of 4,600 square miles. The Tigris was gradually diverted from its old bed, the mouth of the canal silted up and the country became a desert. It would require an outlaw of $40,000,000 to require an outlay of $40,000,000 to reclaim about 1,250,000 acres of the best of this land, which would, ac-cording to Sir William Willcocks, produce a rental of $19,200,000.
