

MY SONG.

If, having swooned upon the shore
Of time, and tasted death,
You wander back to life once more
And feel returning breath,
While memory recalls the strain,
Triumphant, sweet and strong.
That came with death, that ended pain,
You'll understand my song.