THE PRODUCE MARKET

A lower and weaker tone was noticed in the chesse market to-day, due to the weaker prices ruling on the country beards yesterday afternoon. There was a little more demand coming forward over the chile at the decline, but the English buyers are still asking for lower prices. Several large dealers reported cables enquiring for finest western colored on a basis of 12%. interest in London.

Interest in London.

Interest centres for the time being around the London anction sales, which have started off with the usual firm tone that has prevailed all year. Demand is good, with intelling principally in crossbreds. Fine greesy advanced at the opening from 5 to 7% per cent, under buying from this side of the water. It is expected that merinos, because of the small supplies of fered, will show advances of at least 5 per cent. The total London offerings are 145,000 bales, of which 107,000 are New Zealand crossbreds.

In connection with the preliminary advances in fine crossbreds, it is interesting to note that at the last midweck offerings at Melbourne, the demand for these wools was conspicuously strong. Americans being unable, amount of wool wanted.

Chicago, July lower to-da the title that are operating in the wool market, as the woolien mill busines is raint that are operating in the wool market, as the woolien mill busines is raint the light and spotty. Worsted mills will probably become more agressive when the pending goods season's opening is out of the way. Demand for dotter that the pending goods season's opening is out of the way. Demand for dotter that the pending pools are still ruiling high, but which are not being pushed by dealers. There is something of a deadlock on fleece wools.

The demand for foreign wools is fair that the pending of the lightweight goods season which is now overfule. The channes all seem to favor a worsted season, and if buyers will meet the higher level of prices nained by the mills an active manufacturing period with a further heavy demand for wool is assured.

ment Will Continue.

General trade in cottons is quiet, although certain of the more popular brands continue in fair demand, but practically no large orders on any sort of goods are being placed. There is still a small demand for, fine, sheer white goods, such as lawns, ratines, pluues, organdles and certain staples in checks and stripes, the demand for which has been very good of late. Business in staple cottons shows little improvement, but the outlook is more encouraging than for some time. Prices for staples hold steady and concessions on practically all lines have been hard to get for the past week or so.

Some Novelties Active.
