active, especially for new-milk goods.

For these, as high as 24c., wholesale, is being paid at times, although 231c. to figure. For old stock, 22c. is an outside price, and the range is down to 19c. No new dairy in yet, and stocks of old butter of all kinds getting low. The make of new creamery is light as yet, and the active demand for it has kept prices high rather undecided. Little or no cheese left in stock here, of last year's make, and values are in the vicinity of 134c. to

Hay-The market shows very little change, hay having been remarkably firm and steady all season. There is some talk of a lighter crop the coming summer, owing to the fields having been exposed to the frosts, in certain sections, for a considerable period last winter. We quote $8 to $8.50 per ton for No. 1 timothy, $7 to $7.50 per ton for No. 2, and $6 to $6.50 for clover mixture, shipping hav.

Grain-The market for grain shows very few changes. The firm tone in oats has, perhaps, developed a slight advance. sales having been made at 38c., 39c. and 40c., for Nos. 4, 3, and 2, store, respectively, and several holders insisting upon getting that much. "Each man has his own vocation. The talent is the call. There is one direction in which all space is open to him. He has faculties silently inviting him thither to endless exertion. He is like a ship in a river; he runs against obstructions on every side but one; on that side all obstruction is taken away, and he sweeps serenely over God's depths into an infinite sea. This talent and this call depend on his organization, or the mode in which the general soul incarnates itself in him. He inclines to do something which is easy to him, and good when it is done, but which no other man can do. He has no rival. For the more truly he consults his own powers, the more difference will his work exhibit from the work of any other. When he is true and faithful, his ambition is exactly propotioned to his powers. height of the pinnacle is determined by the breadth of the base. Every man has this call of the power to do somewhat unique, and no man has any other call."

Only the quiet, secluded sanctuary of the family can give back to us the welfare of mankind.

In the foundation of every new family, the Heavenly Father, eternally working out the welfare of the human race, speaks to man through the heaven he has opened in the heart of its founders .-Friedrich Froebel.

Disraeli's memory is revived on April 19th by the celebration in England of Primrose Day. The statue in Parliament square is decorated, and people of all classes wear a small bunch of primroses in the buttonhole. This yearly evidence of the statesman's popularity is a curious phase of English politics. Without the solid attainments of Lord Salisbury, Disraeli's personality made a deeper impression on his party and the nation at large. The probability is that his long and courageous struggle for the Premiership, against odds that would have dismayed another man, touched the imagination of the people who love the qualities of endurance pluck and steadfastness as being typical of England itself. Strange as it may seem, the more recent loss of Salisbury stirs the English Conservatives less . than the death of Disraeli, a quarter of a century ago.-[Ex.

MIGHT AS WELL HAVE IT IN STYLE. " Ma wants a package of dye, and she wants a fashionable color," said a little girl to a druggist.

"A fashionable color?" echced the pharmacist. "What does she want it for: eggs or clothes?"

"Well," replied the girl, "the doctor says ma has stomach trouble, and she ought to diet. And ma says if she has to dye it, she might as well dye it a fashionable color."
