THE STORY OF THE FIGHT AS RELATED

actacking column in mass of about fifty files front. This was formed under the fire of the few regular artillerists I had in a little redoubt in Coffee's front, and that of some cannon taken from a man of war, placed in a battery on the river and served by sailors. Coffee, seeing the direction of the attack, which was intended to turn his flank, dashed forward and said to his men: "Hold your fire until you can see their belt buckles." The riflemen were formed in two ranks benind the works mentioned, and when the first rank fired the second was loaded and ready. There were about eighteen hundred men behind this frail cover, all of whom were dead shots, and each had of whom were dead shots, and each had 100 bullets in his pouch and the necessary powder in his horn. The British troops came up to within 100 yards of as though they were on review. At 100 yards' distance the order was given them to charge. With a cheer and at a double quick they came forward. They were about sixty yards distant when a long blazing flash ran all along our line. It was as pretty volley firing as I ever heard or saw. The smoke hung so heavy that for the moment I could not make out just what had happened,' said Gen. Jackson. 'In another instant there was another sharp ringing volley that proved it came from the riftemen. I called Tom Overton and Duncan, of my staff, and we galloped over to Coffee's line. Just then the smoke rose, and I saw that the head of the British column had literally melted away. In front of our lines lay one writhing, ghastly mass of dead and dying red-coats. The column recoiled and fell back to the canal, where they had started from, and where they reformed. This time the charge was led by Gen. Pakenham in person, gallantly mounted and riding as coolly and gracefully as if he were on parade. I have always believed he fell by the bullet of a free man of color in the fight, who was a celebrated rifle shot from the Attakapas country of Louisiana.'"

Church when they know so little about it.

Among the many things told me before my conversion was the worshipping of idols; we were classed as heathens. Since that time I know what it is to be a Catholic, to feel a reverential awe when going into the sacred house of God, and to know and feel that I can help to serve at Mass.

Did it alter my thinking faculties or the conformity with the nature of the deed. Church when they know so little about it. and feel that I can help to serve at Mass.
Did it alter my thinking faculties or change my looks? No. It gives a man freedom in religious thoughts. He can read his prayer book, and a feeling of rest comes over him, the tares of every day life are forgotten for a time and his mind is filled with something more holy. I hope the time is not far distant when the whole world will know the only true religion, which the writer was so long in finding out. If these few lines reach the eye of any one of my young Protestant friends who is in doubt about his religious position I would advise him to lay his troubles be-fore a priest, who will set his mind at ease and give him a better understanding

Eily O'Connor's Grave,

A pleasure party of poor players were recently sojourning in the County Clare when they learned that they were in the vicinity of the grave of the Colleen Bawn. They took a jaunting car and drove about ten miles over the mountains. At last they arrived at the primitive, but picturesque, little graveyard situated beautifully on a hill overlooking the river Shannon, and backed by the ruined church of "Borrane." Though in the midst of a lovely scene, the churchyard itself is drear beyond measure, being crowded with rough gravestones, intersected with weeds, and the rude headstone that once marked poor Eily's resting-place, has been broken and carried away piece by piece by relic-hunters from all parts of the globe, until very little remains. If Boucicault knew the condition of his heroine's grave, he would gladly erect a fitting tablet to her

The story of the Fight as related by Old Hickory Himself.

Gen, Harney has exploded one tradition that was long connected with this fight, which was that the Americans fought from behind breast-works of cotton bales. Says Gen, Harney, "I asked Gen. Jackson, Gen. Adair and Gen. Coffee, the latter having the immediate command of a brigade of the Tennessee and Kentucky sharpshooters, whose long rifles mainly did the work of death, if there were any cotton bales used at all, and they all answered that the only works the Americans had were of earth, about two and one-half feet high, rudely constructed of fence-rails and logs laid twenty-four inches apart and the space between them filled with earth, and if there had been any works constructed from cotton bales they must have known it. In 1825 I was promoted to Captain in the First Infantry and sent to Nashyille, Tenn., to recruit for my regiment. While there I met Gens. Jackson and Coffee very often and obtained from the former many details of the battle of Chalmette that are not in print. There was a very heavy fog on the river on The Morning Of THE FIGHT, said Gen. Jackson, 'and the British troops were actually formed and moving before I had my arrangements made. But the instant I saw their formation, I said to Cottee, "By—, they are ours in Coffee's part of our line was on the flank, which extended into the swamp. About a quarter of a mile from it there was a huge plantation drainage canal, such as are common in the Louisiana lowlands. Here Gen, Pakenham formed his first attacking column. His formation was a column in mass of about fifty files front. This was formed under the fire of the few regular artillerists I had in a little redoubt in Coffee's front, and that of the few regular artillerists I had in a little redoubt in Coffee's front, and that of the few regular artillerists I had in a little redoubt in Coffee's front, and that of

THE MASON & HAMLIN COMPANY, long the most famous manufacturers of reed organs in the world, have commenced the manufacture of Upright Pianos, having effected an improvement which they regard as the most important introduced in many years. An ingenious arrangement fastens the strings directly to the iron plate of the instrument, giving greater clearness and purity of tone, with absence of all mere noise. At the same time it renders the instrument more durable, less liable to get out of order. The Mason & Hamilin Planos are certainly exquisite instruments, and, coming from these thoroughly well-known makers, may be depended upon to be all they represent them.—Boston Journal.

Yellow Oil is par excellence the remedy for Pain, Lameness, Rheumatism, Croup, Deafness, Burns, Frost Bites, Stiff Joints and all Flesh Wounds. Any medicine dealer can furnish it. R. C. Bruce, druggiet, Tara, says : I have no medicine on my shelves that sells faster or gives better satisfaction than Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, and the sale is constantly increasing, the past year being the largest I have ever had. One of my cus-tomers was cured of catarrh by using three bottles. Another was raised out of bed, where he had been laid up for a long time with a lame back, by using two bottles. I have lots of customers, who would not be without it over night.

"I wish to express my appreciation of the valuable qualities of

as a cough remedy.
"While with Churchill's army, just before the battle of Vicksburg, I contracted a revere cold, which terminated in a dangerous cough. I found no relief till on our march we came to a country store, where, on asking for some remedy, I was urged to try AVER'S CHERRY PECTORAL. "I did so, and was rapidly cured. Since then I have kept the PECTORAL constantly by me, for family use, and I have found it to be an invaluable remedy for throat and tung diseases. J. W. Whitley."

Thousands of testimonials certify to the prompt cure of all bronchial and lung affections, by the use of AVER'S CHERRY PECTORAL. Being very paratable, the youngest children take it readily. PREPARED BY
