THE GOLF WIDOW.

Pleaded Her Cause. For several years now the golf widout she gets very little sympathy from any one save the other golf widows, and they are too busy sympathizing with themselves to feel an theer's woes. The attitude of the general public toward the stricken one is: "Serves her right. Any one who is fool enough to play the game deserves any hard luck she gets." Your true zealot is proverbially hard-hearted.

A married woman to-day must play golf or give up her nusband. Even Mr. and Mrs. John Tape, of High-gate, visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. S. G. Crouch last Saturday.

Miss Victoria McKenny has returned to St. Catherings after a pleasant vacoat across a far bunker; but that is something. It's a devoted and selfsacrificing man who plays golf with his own wife, save at rare intervals. when no man friend is in sight or when he feels inclined to show his proud superiority by a little valuable instruction. Flattery, judiciously administered, will also bring the family together on the links occasionally. If a wife can only seduce herself to a condition of awe-struck appreciation, and knows just enough about the game to wonder and adore in technical sporting terms, she may be allowed to trail around the links with her husband, but it takes tact to achieve this proud distinction. The most she can hope for under ordinary circumstances is to lunch or dine with her golf-smitten the leaving examinations when twelve years of age. Toy was noted for his musical abilities. may prevent complete and final estrangement. and he really doesn't have time to go home at all save for purposes of sleep. Yet, after all, the city man does the same thing, and it is harder for his wife to follow him to the links than it is for the wife of the commuter to follow him, so perhaps honors are easy. The business man doesn't go A large crowd from here took in the excursion to Belle Isle last Wednesday.

"Over at home," says Willie, (every well regulated and warranted golf professional is a Willie, though there is some slight variety in our names), "no one wad think o' stopping for a Scotch mist, and any Scotch mist is a deal worse than this bit of drizzle."

And the American devotees of the ancient royal game turn up their coat collars, take a grip upon their clubs and their stiocism and paddle around the links, warmed by the thought that they are living up to Scotch tradition and that the quality of the clubhouse 'Scotch" is beyond reproach.

So only a summer of continuous and pouring rain can restore the golf-ing husband to the arms of a non-golfing wife, and, if there is anything in prayer, it's a lucky thing for the gen-eral public that the golfers are praying for fair weather as earnestly as the golf widows are praying for foul, and that the former class outnumber the Local denying that a day on the links is a tremendous physical invigorator for man confined to an office during the week, and when one gets into the morals of the problem the issues are sadly complicated, but there's the golf wid-ow. Some concession ought to be made to her; but, up to date, no silvertongued orator has pleaded her cause. On the whole, the hest thing the deserted wives can do is to get into the game, whether they like it or not They may hate violent exercise, and the sun may give them headaches and ruin their complexions, and they may find golfing so fatiguing and timeconsuming that it leaves no time or energy for social duties or care of home and children; but, if they are going to leave all things and cleave, to their husbands, they will have to de heir cleaving on the golf links.
