Marsden, placing the letter in his pock-etbook, left the office. There was a farewell visit to Marjorie, followed by visit to a cheap outfitter's shop, and when the night train pulled out for the west Marsden was a passenger.

I'm going on to the rest of my holdings in New Mexico as long as I'm out here. As you are going to be put in charge of my mining interests when we get back to New York, you'd bet-ter combine a honeymoon and a business trip."

The Sitters in Stations.

"I wonder what all these people do that sit in the various railroad waiting rooms," said the observant man.

"You see them in the Grand Central station, in the waiting rooms at Jersey City and Hoboken, sitting down and apparently waiting without end. You see the same types not only in New York, but in any of the railroad waiting rooms of the big cities. They don't seem to have anything to do; write Marjorie, lest he work upon her sympathies, seemed particularly hard, but Dufford was a hard man, and if large part of them are not even enter taining themselves by reading. Fishes in aquariums when first placed in captivity are likely to be wild and to seek constantly to escape. Sooner or later they quiet down, and Sooner or later they quiet down, and often they become very tame. They feed well and grow and seem quite settled and content in their new bome. But it may be that some fish, after a year of this quiet, routine life, are suddenly seized again with a desire to escape and go wild in their efforts, roaming the tank incessantly and finally killing themselves by running blindly or recklessly into a wall. Fishes are sometimes greatly disturbed by parasites. But fishes that are perfectly sound take on sometimes in this manner, and their actions seem attributable only to the awakening of an inble only to the awakening of an in-tense desire to be free again.

A Poor Rule Then. Elderly — Persevere, my boy, persevere! There's only one way to accomplish your purpose, and that is to "stick to it."

Casey was more companionable. He deftly elicited information as to Jim's place of halling and other facts as he made it apparent that Mr. Travers was right when he said that it was not merely a question of shoveling coal.

CORNWALL CANAL BLOCKED. Jonia Strikes Gates and Tears Them

From Fastenings.

Cornwall, July 6.—Navigation in the Cornwall Canal was blocked last night by the wrecking of the two upper gates of lock 17 by the steam barge Ionia of Picton, owned by Capt. Ham of Ottawa and loaded to a depth of 10 feet with pulp wood, consigned from Three Rivers to Fort Erie.

The Ionia had entered lock 17 and as the lock was being filled she surged ahead and struck the south gate with great force, tearing it from its ed ahead and struck the south gate with great force, tearing it from its fastenings. The weight of water in the level a mile and a quarter long tore the other gate loose and threw the steamer stern first against the lower gates. Fortunately the fireman, hearing the shouts of the lockmen and signals of the captain turned on full steam ahead and thus relieved the pressure on the lower gates, which, although damaged, did not give away.

As soon as the matter was reported, Frank Lally, overseer of the Cornwall Canal, mustered a large force of men, and after sending down Diver Walter Gallagher to clear away the wreckage and gravel in the bottom, started work with the lockgate lifter to replace the gates. He hopes to have the canal fit for navigation early in the morning, unless something unlooked for occurs. thing unlooked for occurs.
