HE TOUCHED LIVE WIRE

A Maple City Mail Carrier Has A Narrow Escape From Violent Death

THE DANGER IS REMOVED

If it had been raining Thursday there would have been one less mail carrier in the city to-day, and a government position would have been vacant. At first sight seems rather strange, but nevertheless one of the city's mail carriers owes his life to the favorableness of the elements.

It happened in this way. He was walking down Prince street when he saw an electric wire dangling on the street, which he correctly considered to be a menace to the life of pedestrians. It had evidently been blown down by the wind, and it remained stretched across the sidewalk. He acted upon his first impulse and that was to remove the cause of the danger.

The result was that as soon as he touched the wire he felt himself being hurled rapidly through space, and when he finally realized what had happened, he was lying on the ground about six feet from where he had last remembered that he was. His second impulse was to notify an electrician, who knows something about wires and electric currents, and if this thought had only come to him earlier in the game, he might have been saved a very painful experience.

The incident, however, has taught him a valuable lesson, and he is now taking the mail on a round about route where there are no telegraph poles along the street.

"If the weather had been damp," was the comment of the electrician who afterwards repaired the wire, "he would never have known how he met his death. There would not have been any delay as far as results are concerned."

It is the same old story of people arriving in business they know nothing about. Electricity is one of the most dangerous agencies to tamper with, and the most careful experience should be a lesson to others to avoid meddling with live wires. The only thing to do when wires are down and interfering with the safety of pedestrians, is to notify some electrician immediately.

One thing to remember is that a wire heavily charged with the deadly current looks no different than a common wire, but there is a great difference in its effect upon humanity.

SPLENDID LAKE RESORTS VISITED BY MR. McKEOUGH

One Of Chatham's Most Intelligent Travellers Gives Graphic Account Of A Two Weeks Tour—Chatham Is Proven A Cool Place

Mr. W. B. McKee, of Chatham, who has just returned from a two weeks tour of the most beautiful lake resorts of the West, has given a graphic account of his trip. The tour was made for the purpose of seeing the most beautiful lake resorts of the West, and he has returned with a wealth of information and experiences in a style most interesting and instructive.

THE ARRIVAL OF KITTY

This Excellent Production Appears Here Monday Evening

SOME PRESS NOTICES

Kitty arrived at the Casino yesterday on schedule time. She was greeted by one of the largest crowds of the season, considering weather conditions. To be more explicit, Kitty is the leading role in the high class comedy drama, entitled "The Arrival of Kitty."

There are enough good things in the line of sparkling comedy and catchy music pulled off in the first act to satisfy the ordinary theatre-goer. The other acts are fully up to the standard set in the first and the climax came with a rush just before the fall of the curtain.

Miss Evelyn Dunmore, who plays the part of Kitty so charmingly, is a young woman of considerable note. In this place she is fully up to the standard set in the first and the climax came with a rush just before the fall of the curtain.

Miss Dunmore looks good, acts well and above all sings well. She takes a above high O'Connell a good deal of tone. Among authorities in music the ability of Miss Dunmore to sing unusually high notes with either chest or head tones is considered very much out of the ordinary. To be more explicit, she is fully up to the standard set in the first and the climax came with a rush just before the fall of the curtain.

Hal Johnson has a hard part to carry out in impersonating Kitty. His makeup is unusually good, and his voice and general expression. The full of the comedy play hinges on the work of Miss Dunmore as Kitty and Hal Johnson in the impersonation. When Kitty and her double arrive together in the last act, there is certainly a great deal of fun to be had. The comedy play hinges on the work of Miss Dunmore as Kitty and Hal Johnson in the impersonation.

The play is somewhat of a variation from the farce comedy attractions seen at the Casino for the last few weeks and possesses a goodly share of real merit. Those who think a good clean show, with none of the coarse horse play, will be well pleased with "The Arrival of Kitty." The lead role, Monday, Aug. 27, '06.

GOOD PRECEDENT

Two fur thieves who made their way from the United States into Canada have just received heavy sentences for bringing stolen goods into the country. That is a much more satisfactory conclusion to their trip into this country than if there had been a long struggle for extradition. Immigration of criminals is a kind that Canada wishes to discourage as much as possible, even when thieves bring along their plunder to spend in this country. When they are promptly sent to prison instead of being able to prolong judicial proceedings for months the example may have a good effect on others of their kind. Woodstock Express.
