LINES BY MILTON IN HIS OLD AGE.

sublines and affecting production was but intely discovered the remains of our great opic post,—and is published in the Oxford edition of Milton's Worky:

f am old and blind! Men point at me as amitten by God's frown; Afflicted and desorted of my kind; Xet I am not cast down.

I am weak, yet strong; murmur not that I no longer see; Poor, old and helpless, I the more belong, Father Supreme! to theo.

O merciful One! men are farthest, then Thou art most near, friends pass by, my weakness shun, Thy chariot I hear.

Thy glorious face ag toward me; and its holy light a upon my lonely dwelling-place, And there is no more night.

On my bended knee ize thy purpose, clearly shown; on Thou hast dimm'd that I may see Thyself—Thyself alone.

I have nought to fear; larkness is the sindow of Thy wing; th it I am almost sacred, here Can come, no evil thing. This dar

O! I seem to stand Trembling, where foot of mortal ne'er hath beer, Wrapp'd in the radiance of Thy sinless land, // Which eye hath never seen.

Visions come and go; Shapes of resplendent beauty round me throng; From angel lips I seem to hear the flow Of soft and holy song.

It is nothing now, When heaven is opening on my sightless ayes— When airs from Paradise refresh my brow The earth in darkness lies.

In a purer climo My being fills with rapture—waves of thought Roll in upon my spirit—strains sublime Break over me unsought:

Give me slow my lyrc! I feel the stirrings of a gift divine. Within my bosom glows unearthly fire, Lit by no skill of mine.

(From Boswell's Poultry Yard.) A SPLENDID POULTRY HOUSE.

A SPLENDID POULTRY HOUSE. The most magnificent poultry place, perhaps, that has ever been built, is that of Lord Pearkyn, at Winnington, in Cheshire. It consists of a handsome, regular front, extending about 140 feet, at each extremity of which is a neat parilion, with a large arched window. These pavilions are united to the certre of designs by a colonnade of small cast iron pillars, painted white, which support a cornice, and a slate roof, covering a paved walk, and a variety of different conveniences for the poultry, for keeping eggs, corn, and the like. The doors into these are all of a lattice-work, also painted white, and the framing green. In the middle of the front are four handsome stone columns, and four pilasters, supporting, likwise, a cornice and a slate all of a lattice-work, also painted white, and the framing green. In the middle of the front are four handsome stone columns, and four pilasters, supporting, likwise, a cornice and a slate parloar, beautifully papered and furnished, and at the other of the colonnade a very neat kitchen, so excessively clean, and is a with high order, that it is delightful to view. The front is the diameter or chord of a large semicircular court behind, room which there is also a colonnade, and a great variety of conveniences for poultry. This court is meally payed, and a circular pond and pump are in the middle of it. The whole friendar pond and pump are in the middle of it. The whole friendar pond and pump are in the middle of it. The whole friends works a rich little paddeck, in which the poultry have liberty to walk about between meals. At one o'clock a bell in the beautiful gate is opened. The poultry buy of the bell that their repast is ready for them, fly and run from and quarters, and rush in at the give, every one striving which eage the first share in the scramble. There are about 600 number, the semicircular court is kept so very neat and clean, that not a speck of dung is to be seen. DESIGN FOR THE GREAT EXHIBITION BUILDING AT NEW YORK.—A design by Sir Joseph Paxton, for the intended Exhibition of the Industry of all Nations at New York, was on view, Wednesday, in Clarges Street, Piccadilly. The plan is upon a similar principle to that of the Crystal Palace in Hyde Park, and the materials consist of glass, iron, and slate. The length of the building is intended to be 600 feet, and the breadth 900 feet. These are two conteneors one at each end and length of the building is intended to be 600 (set, and the breadth 200 feet. There are two entrances, one at each end, and the construction of the door ways is somewhat similar to that of the transept entrance to the Exhibition in Hyde-park. The roof is to be of slate, in order to resist the weight of snow to which it may be exposed in the United States. The structure will be built upon arches, and the galleries will be supported by brackets, which will add materially to the strength of the building and render it better adapted for permanent use that the "great original" The design is, on the whole, remarkable for its simplicity and practicability, and is another proof of Sir Joseph Paxton's great skill in this department of art.

FOUNDATION AND SOURCE OF NATIONAL GREATNESS.—The celebrated Da Tocqueyning in the following paragraph clearly reveals the cause of American success and intelligence :— It is by the attention it pays to public education, that the original character of American civilisation is placed in its clearest light. Schools were established by law in every township, obliging the inhabitants, under pain of heavy fixes, to support them, Schools of a superior kind, were founded in the same manner in the more populous districts. The municipal authorities were Sound to enforce the sending of children to school by their parents; they were empowered to inflict fixes upon all who refused compliance; and in case of continued resistance, of these neural rights which he used to so had a purpose. At this very time (in the year 1650), these principles which were future creed of a great-people. The holdest theories of the human reasons were put into practice by a community schumble, human reason were put into practice of a thend to it, find a legis-tation without a precedent was produced off-hand by the im-agination of the citizens.
