Will Celebrate St. Bonaventure's Day.

The members of the St. Bon's Association are now finalizing measures for the due celebration of St. Bonaventure's Day, July 14th next. As the Association this year has lost by death an unusually large number of members, the celebration will take the form of a solemn Requiem Mass for the repose of the souls of all the members, especially those who "died at the front" and in the Florist disaster. Besides those, there were several of the oldest ex-pupils, including late James P. Howley, Esq., and M. K. Greene, Esq., and J. T. Fitzpatrick, Esq., who were prominent in the Association, and who were amongst the very first students of the College. The old St. Bon's boys take great pride out of their Alma Mater, and turn up in large numbers every year, and this year the attendance is expected to be larger than usual, on account of the solemnity of the occasion, as nearly every one has lost a relative or close personal friend, who will be fittingly remembered on the feast day of the College.

Should Baseball be Played This Season?

In certain circles there is some criticism, or apparent apathy, as to advisability of playing Baseball this season in view of the tragic and momentous times through which we are passing.

We think the best answer to this is to point out to our readers:—

That over 100 baseballers are in the Royal Newfoundland Regiment.

That nearly eighty per cent. of those playing this year offered their services voluntarily but were not accepted.

That the remaining twenty per cent. comprise those whose family obligations, or age, will not permit them to join up.

That since the inception of the League in 1915, all the net proceeds of baseball games have been devoted to patriotic and charitable purposes, amounting in all to $2,000.00.

That in this respect the contributions to the various patriotic funds last year were well over $700.00 and $180.00 to charity.

That it is the aim of the players and officials of the League, who are obliged to stay at home, to swell the War funds by not less than $1,000.00, and to assist the City orphanages to the extent of $500.00 by their season's work.

Of course, it will be readily seen that without the moral and financial support of all lovers of clean manly sport such could not and will not be feasible.

It may be of interest to the public to know that the baseballers offered last year were so generous that they are beginning the season with less than a hundred dollars in their exchequer to offset positive obligations of not less than five hundred, which it will cost to play the season's schedule. Yet, the aim of the players is $1,000.00 for the various patriotic funds and $500.00 for the Orphanages.

And surely it cannot be gainsaid that their endeavours deserve the whole-hearted support of the whole community.

The opening game will be played on St. George's Field, on Wednesday afternoon, next, the entire proceeds of which will be devoted to the W. P. A. at the suggestion of Miss Armorer Harris. This is the fund of all the War Workers' branches which needs the most urgent replenishing. Miss Harris has graciously consented to open the season by throwing the first ball over the plate, and in view of the worthiness of the object we feel that we need make no apology to the public generally on behalf of the League, in announcing that the admission fee (for the opening game only) will be 20 cents.

Witches' Warning.

Famous Prophecies That Have Come True.

The Empress Eugenie probably often recalls in her sad and exiled old age the prophetic words of a dervish whom she visited, veiled and disguised, more than half a century ago, when she was in the full bloom of her loveliness, the happiest and most enviable woman in Europe.

To her amazement the dervish greeted the veiled stranger with the words, "Welcome to my humble dwelling, O Empress!" and after Eugenie had expressed her astonishment that he had so easily discovered her identity, he continued:

"At your birth the stars foretold for you great power and greater sorrow, for your happiness will be only temporary, but your sorrow will last forever. You are doomed to lose your throne, your husband, and your son, and to wander alone through the world like a lost star. These events, however, will not happen at once, for the blow would kill you. To you, as an Empress, it will not be permitted to enter the land of your husband and your son, except by permission. You will have to seek a home with strangers, and the dress of woe will never leave your form; your jewels will be but tear-drops."

With what terrible accuracy every word of this prophecy has been fulfilled, the world knows.

Her Husband's Cruelty.

When the beautiful young Princess Elizabeth of Bavaria visited a village fair some seventy years ago in disguise, and in the company of her father, a gipsy woman revealed her future to her.

"I do not know who you are, young lady," the gipsy said, "but you will one day, and before long, wear the crown of an Empress. You will be one of the greatest and most envied women in Europe, but your happiness will not last long. You will have many, many years during which you will walk alone in the shadows; one great trouble will follow another until—but no, I will say no more, except that you will wear a double crown, that of an empress and a martyr."

Within four years Elizabeth had married Franz Josef, the young Emperor of Austria, and within another year her young life was laid in ruins.

Her husband's unkindness and infidelity had driven her in despair from Vienna, to begin the long period of exile and sorrow and pitiful loneliness to which death at last put a merciful end when the assassin, Luccheni, stabbed her to the heart.

Horror and Tragedy.

The ill-starred career of the late King Alexander of Serbia was foretold before his birth by an inspired peasant of Krema.

"The child who is about to be born," the peasant declared, "will have a far more turbulent reign than his father, will marry a woman from the people, and in his twenty-seventh year will cease to be king, his dynasty perishing with him."

How exactly this prophecy was fulfilled is known to the world. Alexander lost his head and heart to Draga Masein, the beautiful widow of a drunken engineer, and married her in spite of the strong opposition of his parents, ministers, and people, and his foolish act was swiftly followed by that night of horror and tragedy in 1902 when a band of conspirators broke into the palace, slew both the king and his low-born wife, and hung their mutilated bodies out of a window.
