EARL BALFOUR'S NOTE.
LONDON, Aug. 4.
To-day's debate in the House of Commons on Inter-Alleed debts and German reparations, which it has been expected would bring out further interesting facts respecting the recent note of the Earl of Balfour on the subject, and regarding Great Britain's international obligations, proved disappointing. It is apparent that Premier Lloyd George, Chancellor of the Exchequer, Mr. Herbert S. Asquith, one of the Liberal leaders, and other speakers made a studied effort to say nothing which would embarrass open and impartial discussion of the subject at next week's important conference in London between the Allied leaders. During the five hours of debate there was constant iteration of Great Britain's intention to repay her resistance, largely caused through strain and overwork.

APPEAL DISMISSED.
LONDON, Aug. 3.
The court of criminal appeal has heard and dismissed the appeals of Joseph O'Sullivan and Reginald Dunn sentenced to death for the assassination of Field Marshal Wilson. The appellants were not present at the hearing.

If You Were Locked In a Closet.

If you were locked in a closet and had to continuously rebreathe the same air, it wouldn't be long till you'd die. Brains die just as surely, if you rethink the same old round of thoughts again and again--if you hold the same viewpoints to-day that you did last year and ten years before that. We need new ideas to save us.

One Hundred Years Of Camera History.

A Frenchman named Nicéphore Niepce is regarded as an inventor of photography. He was the first man to obtain a permanent picture with the aid of a light. Born in 1765, at Chalons-sur-Saône (France), he joined the army, but ill-health and failing eyesight compelled him to resign his commission. He was appointed Administrator for the district of Nice, and held this post for several years before he returned to his birthplace, where, with his brother Charles, he began to make experiments in chemistry and mechanics. Gradually he turned his attention to the art of lithography, and eventually the idea of forming sun pictures occurred to him.

A Great Discovery.
There are certain resinous and bituminous substances which, when exposed to thin films the action of light and air become insoluble in oils. In his process of picture-making, Niepce coated a silver plate with a varnish consisting of a solution of bitumen of Judaea in oil of lavender.

When dry this was exposed for six or seven hours in a camera provided with a lens. The image was developed by immersing the plate in oil of lavender, which dissolved the portions of the bitumen unaffected by the light, leaving a picture in insoluble bitumen. After experimenting with various materials, Niepce made his bitumen process known in 1825, but which was never used to any extent. Another Frenchman, named Daguerre, had also made experiments in photography, and in 1829 he entered into partnership with Niepce. When the latter died Daguerre continued the experiments. The outcome was the process known as the daguerreotype, which was popular for many years.

A Recipe for Achievement.

Keep your mind on the great and splendid thing you would like to do, and then, as the days go gliding by, you will find yourself unconsciously seizing upon the opportunities that are required for the fulfillment of your desire, just as the coral insect takes from the running tide the elements that it needs. Picture in your mind the able, earnest, useful person you desire to be and the thought you hold is hourly transforming you into that particular individual. Thought is supreme, and to think is often better than to do. Preserve a right mental attitude--the attitude of courage, frankness and good cheer. Darwin and Spencer have told us that this is the method of creation.

When the Sun Explodes.

The sun's surface is not always as clear as it appears to the unaided eye. Seen through a telescope it presents usually a considerable number of dark spots. Sometimes these patches are so big that they can be seen by the naked eye when the sun's brilliance is dimmed by the passing of a light cloud. This happened recently, when a gigantic spot made its appearance.

These spots are produced by explosions of extraordinary violence in the interior of the sun. Vast masses of gases are hurled outwards, and as they go they expand and cool, forming dark patches amidst the terrific heat of the rest of the sun's surface.

The coolest sunspot has a temperature of something like 30,000 degrees, enough not merely to melt the toughest steel, but to reduce it to gas! Sunspots come and go in waves. Every eleventh year they reach their maximum. Then they decrease in size and number for five and a half years, afterwards slowly increasing until the greatest point is reached again.

Every Woman Should Know

That cheap soaps and even some dear soaps will ruin her clothing, also good soap costs less than good clothing; therefore, when a woman buys cheap injurious soap, she loses more than she gains, because cheap injurious soap will rot her blouses, dresses, etc., and will also rot her husband's and children's clothes. Again cheap soap will hurt one's hands, will take the paint off doors and spoil linoleum. Every woman KNOWS that Sunlight Soap is the very best kind of soap, it is so good and so pure that it won't hurt a baby's tender skin. Sunlight Soap is made with the purest materials procurable. Clothes washed with Sunlight Soap will outlast clothes washed with injurious Soap. Tell your washerwoman to use Sunlight Soap. It will be good for her hands, good for your clothes and in the long run will be best for your husband's pocket.--Jy7.t

Just Folks

By EDGAR A. GUEST.
HER DAY'S WORK.
Small tasks of ceaseless mending. The window curtains washed and hung once more. Unaccounted things recovered from the door. The wreckage left by children at their play. How many footsteps mark a mother's way. Hers is a path forever trampled. A bed to make, a peddler at the door. Small wonder that her hair grows quickly gray--And yet how fair the dream she's working for!
The man shall rest when he comes home tonight. Shall toss once more his hat upon a chair. The children in wild rapture of delight. Shall fling their shoes and stockings here and there. And her tired hands shall pick them up again. And never hint that love has caused her pain.

Fashions and Fads.

Lace capes are worn over crepe and georgette dresses, and fall back prettily over the shoulders. Black tulle or four-cornered hats, draped with black lace, are worn with gowns of metal tissue. The newest models among coats feature straight standing collars of chinchilla, beaver or ermine. A French evening gown of charming simplicity is of pale blue crepe satin, with a train of silver tissue. Panels of caracul or embroidery are used down the center of the sleeves of wrap-up coats and capes. A frock of pongee has its neck, hem and scalloped sleeves bound with bias strips of dark brown organdie. Insertions of white net add interest to a frock of lemon-yellow organdie, worn over a slip of yellow silk. To be truly in league with Dame Fashion, one should have one's monogram embroidered on blouse or skirt. Gowns featuring the draped skirt often have the skirt lifted to a becoming short length on the undraped side.

almost entirely covered with loops of silk braid. Fringe is also extensively used. Many chic women appear with small hats trimmed with fan pleatings or ribbon and quills placed at a smart angle. A summer frock of pink handkerchief linen has an organdie collar rather deep in the back, and a front panel of the organdie edged with embroidery. All-white dresses of crepe brocade are very smart, and are trimmed simply at the neck with black monkey fur.
