Exaps and degeneration follow the excessive use of the senses, without due intervals of rest for repair. In order to maintain the worted energy, the foreexpended, whether of body or mind, must be restored. When the expenditure of brain matter and other nervous elements is continued by overwork, the early extinction of life itself may be looked for as the result of such degeneration. The ingredients composing, Fellows'. Our pound Syrup of Hypoghosphites, are such as will constitute healthy blood, restablish sound nerves and senses, and will consequently not only prevent this exhaustion, but in most cases restore such as is lost.
