president and directors of the Western Fair take extreme pleasure in welcoming you and Lady Aberdeen to this our annual exhibition. We feel assured that we express the sentiments of the people of London and the Western Peninsula, of which this city is the metropolis-and of whom tens of thousands will assemble on these grounds and in these buildings during the present week-when we say that never since Canada became a self-governing colony has her Majesty been represented here by one who has taken a deeper personal interest in the welfare and progress of our people than has your Excellency. Having traveled over the length and breadth of this Dominion, your Exellency has been enabled to learn for yourself the nature of our industries, the vast extent of our natural resources, the incomparable richness of our agricultural territory, and the self-reliant and enterprising character of our citizens. For these reasons we take pride in according to you the freedom of this the pioneer independent exhibition of the Dominion, feeling that your Excellency, with the will prove of interest to you. You this section of the Dominion is fully

LORD ABERDEEN. Lord Aberdeen replied with his usual fluency and aptness. He said: "Mr. President, Mr. Mayor, Ladies and Gentlemen, I thank you heartly for this loyal, cordial and publicspirited address. It is quite evident from what you mention regarding this great exhibition, and from the general view which I have already had of its extent and character, that our present visit will furnish a very notable feature, and an important step in that process of education through which I am at present passing; for undoubtedly, one of the first duties of a Governor-General is to educate himself regarding the resources, and the various characteristics of all parts of this great Dominion. (Applause.) "So extensive is this country, and so numerous are its resources, that you may be pretty sure that this process of education will occupy the entire period of his term of office. He thanked them for their "hearty and melodious" reception, and said he hoped he would fill the certificate of character which they had given him in song. The spirit of loyalty he found manifested with not only undiminished, but with increasing vigor, because no one could fail to observe the heartiness and vitality of the principle of loyalty, and what it comprehendedattachment to the mother country (Cheers.) The speaker referred to the growing favor of Canada in Great Britain, and alluded to the Canadian victories in the Bisley matches, which he said, were greated with pride by the mother country. It was natural she should be proud of her handsome daughter. He said he was learning every day more of the true meaning of the word Canada. He thanked his entertainers warmly for the excellent repast, so practical in its character duration and arrangements, and said it was one of the proofs of the admirable nature of the programme which they were carrying out. He hoped they would, after his departure, inscribe no such record as was found in the journal of a Hudson Bay office, in a remote part of the country. It read: "This day the Governor-Genera and his lady left us. Good riddance. (Laughter.) It is highly interesting, not to say amusing, for it has its funny side, to watch the expression of some of the exhibitors at the Western Fair. Any observer of human nature can read the story in words plain as printers' ink could trace them! Dissatisfaction, Failure, Pleasure and Success! Expectations unrealized! Hopes Fulfilled!

A glimpse at the Bell Plano stand tells its own tale. We select this as an example, as being one of the most attractive and at the same time one of the most talked-of on the grounds. No need to ask what results Happy, smiling faces within and with-out! The very vicinity seems to be contagious, and the crowds throng around. Who can explain it? Has the beautiful picture, "Lot," anything to do with it? What about the sweet strains that seem to drop like crystals from the tips of the blind planist's fingers? Does that explain it. Or, consider, if you will, the pleasing harmony of color arrangement that greets the eye, coupled with the gentlemanly, courteous bearing of those in charge. Do you understand it now? Not altogether, my friends, you must look deeper. Success is there, that is evident; but the fundamental basis of it signifies a tribute to Canadian brains and skill, as having produced an instrument that would do credit to any country in the world, in short. look further.
