A DEAD HEAR

A Love Story.

'I loved him, and was true to him living. I love him, and shall be true to him dead,' I replied.

He laughed a sneering laugh, for which I could have slain him.
"You think Gordon a hero!' he cried. will change your mind in time.' "Whatever my mind does, neither my heart nor love will ever change," I answered. And he, too, left me in was very unhappy after that. My Sear father was always displeased with me; my mother passed the greater part of her time in weeping and la-menting. Sir Aleck Glen came as much as ever, but took less notice of me. The summer was a long period of wretchedness to me; for every bird's song, every glint of golden light, every flower that bloomed, every whisper of the wind over the meadows, every ripple of the sweet green boughs, brought weet summer-

"It was not in the winter, Our loving lot was cast; It was the time of roses-We plucked them as we passed'

-and the season reminded me continually of my lover and my love; my pain and anguish rendered me blind to its beauty and deaf to its song. I watched the church and the limes when the moon shone, and it seemed to when the moon shone, and it seemed to when the moon shone, and it seemed to when the moon shone and its element to when the moon shone are its black of the church and the limes again.

"Then a terrible event happened-my dear father died. He was present at a funeral service on wet, cold day in autumn, and he took a severe chill, a cold from which he never recovered. For a few days he was languid and ill, sionate sorrow of those days, how then came violent inflammation; before strange it was that Madame Gordon we had realized the fact that he was should answer the letters of a stranger

In the meantime a new element appeared upon the scene. Sir Aleck, who had been abroad for a few months, returned, and came to Lime Cottage at He was shocked at my father's death, horrified at our poverty, and immediately renewed his offer of marriage to me. I refused it.
"'Miriam,' he said, 'will you never 'Never.' I answered. "'Listen to me. If you will marry me, I will make you the happiest wo-man in the world. I will settle a handsome income on your mother, and she shall either live with you at Atherstone Hall, or I will make Lime Cottage a little paradise; and she shall remain here, where the happiest years of her life have been spent. She shall want for nothing; she shall have every luxury. See how I love you, Mirlam.'

The admiration of the world is challenged for the heroism of the British troops who fought at the battle of Modder River for ten hours-not even stopping for luncheon.

It is not only beautiful women who hang over the mirror in the morning. Anxious women who are watching the wasting of their beauty, stand before the mirror table, cross, have by the use of Doctor Pierce's Fascription been entirely cured, and watched with delight the progress of the cure, marked by brightening eyes, reddening cheeks, and rounding form.

Woman's general health depends largely upon the local health of the organs disupon the local health of the organs distinctively feminine. Irregular periods in maidenhood, followed after marriage by debilitating drains, and the common consequences of motherhood, inflammation, ulceration, and displaced organs, ruin the general health. These conditions are entirely removed by "Pavorite Prescription," the body blossoms in a new beauty, and the mind is entirely freed from gloom and despondency. "Pavorite Prescription" is not a stimulant, containing no alcohol or whisky. "In October 1889 I gave birth to a baby and the freatment I received at the hands of the midwife left me with female weakness," writes Mrs. Cordelia Henson, of Coalton, Boyd Co., Ky. "I had no health to speak of for three years. I had another baby which was the third child. My health began to fail and I had three miscarriages so I found myself completely worn out. I had so many pains and aches my life was a burden to me and also to all the family, for I was nervous and eross and I could not sleep. Just after my last miscarriage (in 1896) I was taken with a see are pain in left side. Had four doctors come to see me but at last I found I was slowly dying. The doctors said I had liver, lung and uterine trouble. I was in bed for months and when I did get up I posked like a corpse walking about. I commenced to take Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, Eavorite Prescription, and 'Pellets,' and ever since them I have been a well woman. At my monthly period now, I have no pain. My cheeks are red and my face is whith the before it was a pellow as eating."

I have been bathing in and drinking hot water at the Hot Springs, Ark., but it seemed everything failed to do me good. After I saw your advertisement I thought I would try your pills, had sleepy, drowsy feelings; felt like a drunken man; pain right above the navel, like as if it was bile on top of the stomach. My bowels were very costive. My mouth and tongue sore most of the time. Appetite fair, but food would not digest, but settle heavy on my stomach, and some few mouthfuls of food came up again. I could only eat light food that digests easily. Please send "Book of Advice." Respectfully, BEN ZAUGG.

THE LAND OF BIG GAME,
The Intercolonial Railway is the direct route to the great game regions of Eastern Quebec,
New Brunswick and Nova Spotia. In this area are the finest hunting grounds for moose, deet, caribou and other big game, as well as unlimited opportunities for shooting wild geeze, duck, brant and other fowl common to this part of the continent. For information as to game in New Brunswick, send for a copy of
"Rod and Gun."
