PARIS DEFEATS LONDON BY 13 TO

Owing to Accident the Game Did Not Start Until Midnight.

LOCAL DEFENCE WEAK

Dispute in the Last Half Over a Goal Nearly Leads to Goal Umpire Axton Being Mobbed.

[By Jinx.] Paris, little old Paris, got even for some things that the London hockey team did to them last year, when they trimmed the local intermediates last night by the decisive score of 13 to before 1,500 rooters at the Princess Rink. There were several things in connection with the game that will make it a memorable one. Owing to an accident to the train which the Paris players were to come to London on, the game was not started until 11:20 p.m. At 8:30 o'clock Secretary Vining went out on the ice and informed the spectators of the delay, and told them that the Paris team would not arrive until 10:15 p.m. W. Peebles .... Point ..... The game would be played as soon as they got to the rink, and would the crowd please stick? The crowd didn't know whether it would not not, but finally decided that it would not. It then made a rush for the door, and the heckey management and the rink management had a lively time in handing out checks to come back in

on. Some objection was made to the fact that the money was not forthfact that the money was not forth-coming, and for a time it looked as CLINTON AGAIN WINS though trouble was brewing. The presence of two of London's "finest," however, did not lend enthusiasm to anyone who wanted to start anything, and although there was some little talk But Game Went Into Overtime Before and a good deal of crowding and pushing, the biggest part of the crowd filed
