OBITUARY.

DR. FREDERICK S. WADE.

The Yarmouth Telegram of May 27, has the following obituary notice:

"A telephone message to the Herald from Port Maitland at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon, stated that Dr. F. S. Wade had passed away a few minutes previously.

Dr. Wade had been ill for several months, and it was hoped that he would rally and again be able to resume his practice. His illness was caused by overwork and exposure, and his system had become so weakened that he was obliged to give up his duties. Although he was attended by several of his brother practitioners, he gradually weakened until the end came.

By his death Port Maitland loses one of her most valuable and highly esteemed citizens, and the medical fraternity of Yarmouth County one of its most active, useful and successful members.

Dr. Wade was a native of Granville Ferry, and was 42 years of age. He leaves a widow, one son and four daughters. He took up the practice of his profession at Port Maitland 18 years ago.

He was a prominent and energetic Oddfellow, having held several of the most important offices in the gift of the fraternity.

The funeral will take place on Sunday afternoon at 2.30, from the Methodist church, under the direction of Orion Lodge, I. O. O. F. His father is expected to arrive in Yarmouth from Philadelphia, on Saturday morning, to be present at the funeral.

Minutes of the Twenty-fifth Session of Teachers' Institute for Dis. No 4.

The teachers of District No. 4, Annapolis and Digby, gathered in session at Middleton on May 25th. With them were many representatives from Lunenburg, Kings and Hants. In all, the enrollment included 175, a number surpassing all previous records.

On Wednesday evening an entertainment, in which pupils of the Consolidated School took large part, was presented to the visitors. Addresses of welcome and replies were exchanged, and Prof. Robertson also briefly addressed the assembly.

THURSDAY MORNING.

After watching the arrival of the children in the vans from the outlying sections, the teachers met with the pupils of the school in their Assembly Hall, where the opening exercises were conducted in accordance with their usual form. A special feature was the singing of the school song set to the strains of "Soldiers of the Queen." The full flood of music, as well as the words, carried a tribute of gratitude and appreciation of the munificence of Sir William MacDonald and their beloved Prof. Robertson. Next, in their own departments, lessons by the different teachers of the school were heard with interest by the visitors. An exhibition of Physical Culture Drill followed, after which, upon returning from the grounds without, the teachers were called to order in the Assembly Hall, Pres. Morse occupying the chair. W. H. Longley was appointed Secty.-Treas. Minutes of last meeting read and approved. After giving opportunity for registration meeting adjourned to meet at half-past one.

THURSDAY AFTERNOON.

At the opening of the afternoon session Miss Kinney, of the primary department of Bridgetown school, taught a lesson in reading to children of Grade I. This lesson was considered as a practical and instructive example to teachers of that grade, and was highly interesting to all. Discussion being postponed, Principal Smith proceeded to conduct a lesson in Literature. The development of the lesson noted that the heroine of "The Princess" is not Ida, but the child, Aglaia, which proposition was supported by actual study of the child's relation to the plot as shown through the different references to it. The significance of the intercalar songs was noted, and here one was sung as a chorus and two others as solos by members of the class. In the discussion which followed, Prin. Soloan considered the peculiar merit of the lesson to lie in the fact of its dealing with the "feeling" of the poem. Prin. Shields joined with him in commending the musical rendering of the songs as having a vivifying effect upon the imaginations of the students of the poem.

A paper on school-room Ethics was then read by Miss Primrose Elliott. Points suggested were: that desirable traits of character should be cultivated in the pupil, and those that are undesirable uprooted under the supervision of the teacher; that no virtue not found in the teacher need be expected to thrive in the pupil; the pupil should be taught his usefulness and necessity in a great and beautiful universe; and finally teach duty, systematic exactitude and love of beauty, cultivating the pupil's whole nature to develop tendency to action approaching this result through notice of his peculiar aptitude. In the discussion following upon this paper, Dr. J. B. Hall and Mr. Outhit joined, the latter observing that in inculcating the love of truth the teacher should beware smothering the love of fiction; that, in short, there should be a distinction between the fictitious and the false.

After a lesson on "The Formation of Acids by Direct Union of Elements," by Prin. Graham P. Morse of Mahone Bay, (a lesson, by the way, which showed an accurate knowledge on the part of the teacher of the fundamental facts of chemistry) the meeting adjourned, by motion, to meet at 9 a.m. Friday.

THURSDAY EVENING.

A large audience assembled in a public meeting and were addressed by the Superintendent of Education, Rev. J. J. Sullivan (Inspector of the French Schools of Clare and Argyle), Prof. Robertson and others. Both Dr. MacKay and Prof. Robertson spoke particularly in reference to relation of Consolidation to Education, the former confining himself mainly to the purpose of the movement in making weak sections strong and extending nature work, and also noting methods by which the expense of operation might be greatly lessened. The latter spoke more broadly upon the general principles which are included in education, viz.: intelligence, personal ability, and unselfishness or public spirit. He also spoke with reference to the essentials of a good school and made announcements with respect to additions made to plans of operating the school.

FRIDAY MORNING.

After calling the meeting to order the President called upon Miss Hunt of Digby Academy, to read a paper prepared by Prin. Layton of that school. It dealt with "Method in the Teaching of Chemistry."

First.—The teaching of chemistry should proceed along natural lines, not be a presentation of the fact and theory of the advanced student to beginners. Again, the facts should be presented to the pupils in the same light in which they came to the original investigators, not bound up in the antiquated system of classification. The first part of the course should consist of experiments leading the student to a recognition of chemical action. Next: heat, light, acid and alkali, agents in chemical action, should receive attention. Quantitative work should be given, with stress laid on the bye-products of an experiment. Nothing but the most careful work should precede the discussion of the Atomic Theory and the statement of the law of multiple proportions. It is well to use as far as possible, compounds and re-agents with which the student is familiar and which may be derived by him from common substances.

Prof. Brittain, late of the New Brunswick Normal School, now travelling instructor in the same province, working in the interest of the MacDonald schools, taught a lesson on "Respiration in Plants and Animals." The ease with which the attention of the class was held, and the skill of natural ability, coupled with years of faithful practice in his chosen profession, resulted in a lesson which doubtless will heighten the ideal of many teachers who have never before had the privilege of observing such an object lesson, so instructive in method.

Prin. Soloan made announcements with respect to the Summer Course in the School of Agriculture at Truro, followed by Prof. Robertson, who gave explanation with regard to advantages offered by the MacDonald Fund and the Provincial government to teachers who should take three months' course of instruction in Nature Study at the MacDonald Institute in Guelph, Ont.

Miss Kirk followed with a geography lesson to Grade VI; subject, "Day and Night." The lesson proceeded on practical lines, illustrating causes by the use of diagrams and a small revolving globe.

Miss Laura Marchant, in a paper of considerable literary merit, outlined her own views and practice in Nature Study in the common schools.

The last lesson and paper provoked the first general discussion which had taken place in the Institute. The questions before the meeting were: first, What is the best division to make in the school in the giving of nature lessons? And, What is the best time for the class? That division was necessary in the miscellaneous school was agreed, and while teachers were giving the lesson directly after the opening of the morning or afternoon session, or after recess, the common idea was, have the lesson just after the children have come in from outdoors, so that they may have gathered their different specimens and have them fresh at hand. Another question proposed by Inspector MacIntosh, which was answered by suggestive silence, was: "How many teachers in a miscellaneous school can afford twenty minutes for a geography lesson?"

After thanking those who had consented to prepare lessons or papers for this meeting, Prin. Ruggles moved that Prin. G. B. McGill be Vice-President for the ensuing year, which motion was carried.

On motion of Prin. Ruggles, the following were appointed as members of the Executive Committee: Prins. A. W. L. Smith and R. F. Morton, and Misses Mary FitzRandolph, Helen M. Kirk and Primrose Elliott.

On motion, meeting adjourned to meet at 1.30 p. m.

FRIDAY AFTERNOON.

Mr. A. DeW. Foster taught an admirable lesson to pupils of Grade VII, his subject being the "Fishing Industry of Nova Scotia."

After a general introduction to the industries of the province, he developed the thought that Nova Scotian fish represent in value one-third of the total catch of the Dominion; showed the value of the capital invested in the industry and the large percentage paid on the investment. An attractive and valuable feature of the lesson was the introduction of models of the lobster trap and other articles of the fisherman's equipment.

The lesson was commended by Inspector MacIntosh and others, as one calculated to be the basis of an understanding of patriotism. It was suggested by Prin. Soloan that all the figures necessary for similar lessons on the other industries might be found in the statistical year book of Canada, furnished on application to the Librarian of the Bureau of Statistics, Ottawa.

On motion the matter of appointment of delegates to Provincial Association was left in hands of the Inspector.

Prin. Ruggles extended an invitation to the Institute to meet in next session at Bear River, which on motion was left, with the question of time, in the care of the Executive.

Moved and carried that bills presented be paid.

Moved and carried that the thanks of the Institute be tendered to all citizens of Middleton and teachers, and others who by their efforts had contributed to the pleasure and profit of the session.

On motion Institute adjourned sine die.

W. H. LONGLEY,
Secretary.

HYMENEAL.

RISLEY—GRAY.

Quite a notable and agreeable wedding occurred at the pleasant home of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Leach, on Wednesday, at 3 p. m., when their niece, Miss Laura M. Gray, was united in marriage to Rev. Carl S. Risley, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church at Mackinaw City. Miss Gray has been visiting her aunt here this winter, and has made many warm friends. She is the daughter of William A. Gray, who was present, and granddaughter of Rev. William Gray, a highly respected octogenarian, who was happy to give the young couple his blessing. Miss Adah Gray, of Jackson, played the wedding march, and Rev. W. W. Lamport was the officiating clergyman. Miss Gray is a refined young lady and the groom a preacher of influence, having a flourishing congregation in Mackinaw City. It seems an auspicious event for a young couple to be wedded at a time when nature is arrayed in a garb of rosy snow and adorned like a bride. When,

Earth weareth heaven for a bridal ring
And the sweet promise of coming spring
Blends with winter's pearly offering.

Following the ceremony a dainty two-course luncheon was served, the tables being decorated with ferns and roses, at which thirty friends and relatives joined. Mr. and Mrs. Risley left on the evening train for their future home, followed by the best wishes of their admiring friends.

NOTE:—The above is taken from a Leslie, Mich., paper, and the bride was a former resident of Belleisle and granddaughter of the late Charles W. Parker of that place.

I consider it the best liniment on the market.
