

has brought Frank many friends both in town and school. He possesses excellent abilities, and should he pursue University courses of study with a view to professional life, he may be expected to gain distinction at college as well as in his profession. All are gratified that Frank has completed one important stage in his onward course, and he may be assured that the best wishes of the College follow him.

John D. McLachlan has been in Woodstock College one year, and in that period he has concentrated all his attention on the study of the ancient classics. In this department of study he has made enviable progress. He has the Christian ministry in view, and his unobtrusive piety has left a strong and lasting impression for good. McMaster University will be enriched by his life next year.

Lewellyn Thomas is another Toronto boy who has spent some years of successful student life in Woodstock College. His career has been one of even and steady progress in the development of all that constitutes the true man. His future is bright with promise. Lew's chosen life-work is in the Christian ministry, and this after the completion of a full Arts and Theological course in our own University.

Wesley West graduates to enter upon the study of the healing art. His social, kindly nature should be no disqualification in the pursuit of the noble profession that he will seek to qualify himself for. He has our best wishes, and we trust his Alma Mater will have in him a worthy son.
