

consultation between government, the private sector and the community. It is recommended that consideration be given to ways in which the Canadian experience in consultative policy development can be shared with Indonesian colleagues.