A Nourishing, Laxative Food for Growing Children

It solves mother's food roblem. Roman Meal is much more nourishing than wheat or oats used alone, and is twice as nourishing as corn; it is so thoroughly and easily digestible that even a baby of eight months or over thrives

You notice that entire berries of wheat and rye are used—im-portant. Modern cereal foods are light in color because they are mostly starches, which so often ferment and cause trouble.

Roman Meal retains the dark

Roman Meal retains the dark parts of the grains because they build up muscle, brain, nerves, organs and blood. These dark parts also contain the salines which keep the blood non-acid. They contain the flavor, too—the sweet, nutty flavor of the grains?

Roman Meal is an ideal food for children; it takes the place of is nothing but a simple, absolutely drugless combination of entire berries of wheat (30%), whole berries of rye (35%), flax-seed rendered tasteless and odorless by electricity (25%), and 10% wheat bran. That's all. This simple mixture is porous because it is granulated, thus letting the digestive juices reach every particle and pre-

Flaxseed is the most nourishing seed known. In Roman Meal it prevents the irritating effect of bran on the lining of the bowel, and lubricates the digestive tract. It is laxative and keeps the skin clear.

JIMMY COON STORIES

JIMMY COON'S COUSIN MAKES HIM A VISIT.

ADVERTISER PATTERNS

ADVERTISER PATTERN DEPT.

Jimmy Coon had never seen his Big Cousin of the Great Wood, Mr. Black Bear, But he had heard his parents speak so much about that dear Big Cousin Bruin, that Jimmy felt very proud of ais wonderful Cousin. And Jimmy told all of the little folks of the Great Forest about his famous relative who was coming in to make them a visit.

And one day when Jimmy Coon was quarreling with Teddy Possum, Jimmy cried out, "You'd better look out what you say to me, for when by Big Cousin Bruin and all the Coon family Bruin comes he could swallow the whole Possum family at one bite!"
And Jimmy saw the shivers run down the backbone of Teddy Possum, and he shuddered and stopped teasing Jimmy Coon. And one day the little people saw a big giant, dressed in a beautiful long black fur overcoat, which reached to his feet, walking on his hind legs like a man. And he walked up to the verands of the Hemiock Apartments and stood looking up to the windows of the Coon residence, on the twentieth floor.

MAKES HIM A VISIT.

the little Coons were still afraid of this big black shaggy giant; and they all ran and hid under the bed. Cousin Evul man hid under the bed. Cousin Bruin wan hid under the bed. Cousin the bed. Cousin Bruin and hid under the bed. Cousin Bruin and he began to stretch himself out on the porch to rest. But the veranda or teached and seemes datout to fall. So Father Coon came out and suggested, with many blushes and excuses, that they all go downstairs to their summer dining-room.

And lit was a funny sight to see Big Cousin Bruin and all the Coon family backing down the Big Cousin Bruin and all the Coon family backing down the Big Cousin Bruin said. "You will excuse me, but I had no time to get a lunch on my trip here, so I'm awfully hungry."

And all the family opened wide their mouths to see Cousin Bruin eat, And they were so astonished to see him take such big mouthfuls. And he passed his plate so often that before you could say "Jack Robinson!" everything on the table had disappeared down. And of the province of the provi

mrs. Coon was very much ashamed that their front door was so small,

And Cousin Bruin put his immense arms around the trunk of that big tree and began to climb. When the monster was half-way up to the Coon residence, the neighbors saw him, and they were almost scared to death.

All the Possom family stuck their heads out of their windows, and they were almost scared to death.

All the Possom family stuck their heads out of their windows, and they all yelled, "Bloody Murder!" And they began to climb out of their front windows, and to scamper, screaming, in svery direction.

When this racket was heard the Coon family game to their window, and when they saw Cousin Bruin climbing their front stairs, to make them a visit, they shouted with Joy.

And Fousin Bruin smiled a very shouted with Joy.

And Cousin Bruin smiled a very broad smile, indeed, when he reached the Coon plazza, and showed all his very long teeth, and answered: "Cousin Coon, I'm delighted to see you; but I had no idea you were such high-livers. Why, I never saw any of our relatives live in such high life as you do! I'm afraid you'll put on too many airs for me!" And Cousin Bruin chuckled in a very low, big bass voice. And at his loud voice, all the little Coons shivered, and hid behind their mother's skirts.

And you would have been tickled if you could have seen Cousin Bruin shake hands with Father Coon, and trying to get into the door! And all he could possibly do was to stick the end of his nose in the door!

Mrs. Coon was very much ashamed that their front door was so small, and she made many excuses. But all kinds of bites and stings), it would have relieved the pain. For those who suffer from throat or asthma, try a teaspoonful castor oil and a teaspoonful honey. We do not want to think of colds this lovely weather, but the cold comes. I have had a tickle in my throat and honey set it all right.

I was reading where you said the cosmos was your fancy flower. Everyflower is so sweet to me I cannot tell which I like the best. There are sweet peas, rose of Sharon, hily of the valley, Christmas rose, primrose, tea rose, sweet william, tulips, asters Johnny-jump-ups, maid of the and sympathizing tear. All are very lovely. The summer is gone, the flowers are faded, the song birds are gone, the mists have gathered, the vale is chilly. That just puts me in mind of Kilworth. It is lovely, but give me dear old London. The dearest and best years of my life were spent in dear old London. This London is lovely, too. I must close, with best wishes to all readers of C. G.'s Corner, and Miss Grey. AN OLD FRIEND. Ans.—I do not think I said the cosmos was my favorites. I am like you, "Old Friend," fond of so many members of the flower family it is difficult to set one on a pedestal above all the others. We love one for sweetness, another for purity, another for coloring, and some, perhaps the dearest of all, because of tender memories associated with them.

Now, don't stay away so long next time, please.

Women As Hog Raisers. Dear Miss Grey,-Here I come for the cond time. You didn't invite me back, but you didn't kick me out, so here I am back again, though under a different pen name.

I saw in yesterday's paper where the food controller has been making a speech and has asked the men of Canada to get their women folks to raise hogs. Oh joy! I think he and some of the big guns down at Ottawa are going to set the example in hopes that we will follow suit, and so we will if they make the start. Wouldn't it be fun to step along some day about 10 o'clock, when they have been disturbed in their beauty sleep, have donned their, ahem—double—
