during domestic occupations, such as arranging flowers, is not nearly so liable to be spoiled as the school frock whose owner is just at the age when a single drop of ink is sufficient to smudge the face, hands, and garments, and is also at the time of life which, above all things, detests aprons.

A very useful style for these difficult ages is the pinafore, now varied by the kimono. It consists of a loose blouse with a low, square-cut yoke and loose sleeves. The square top, the skirt, and the sleeves are all edged with a pretty band of silk or veivet in a darker shade of the material matching the waistband, and it is worn over a blouse of white or some lighter color. This gives an appearance of brightness and smartness, and allows the dress to be of a dark and durable color and material. It also has the advantage that old bleuses which have worn under the blcuses which have worn under the arms can be worn with it. The prettiest mode for the skirt is to have it arrang-ed in flat pleats, stitched for a few inches below the waist. The fullness on the top of the arms can be drawn into tucks arranged in just the same way.

LOBSTERS TRAVEL IN STYLE. Dominion Government "Party" for the Pacific Hatcheries. MONTREAL, April 12.—A shipment fering which of a somewhat different character, but of violence. which might come under the new set-tler heading, arrived in Montreal yesterday morning, when 1650 lively lobsters were taken thru Montreal on a special car, all being ticketed thru to Vancouver, where it will be their business to get into the Pacific Ocean and start a lobster colony off the British Columbia coast. The lobsters are traveling under the auspices of the Dominion government, which is anxious to increase the value of its western ocean resources by adding this form of crustacean luxuries to its products. At present there are practically no lobsters on the British Columbia coast, that is in the ocean, and it is thought that the breed might be profitably introduced there. With that object in view the present cargo of well developed lobsters has been secured from the Atlantic breeding grounds and they will be placed in the Pacific in specially prepared hatcheries, in the hope that they will take kindly to the warmer western waters and start a new colony there, that will prove pro-fitable to fishermen as well as a delight to epicures. Elaborate precautions had to be taken to see that the lobsters traveled in comfort. Their marine existence had not hardened them to the difficulties of railroad travel, so that every care had to be taken lest they should get tired of it and die. The creatures were packed in large boxes of special each crate weighing about five hundred pounds. These were divided off into a number of small compartments by wire netting, and each berth was provided with a bedding of seaweed, on which the lobster passenger was placed. On top of each set of compartments was a corrugated zinc shield, which was well packed with ice, so that as it melted packed with ice, so that as it melted the cold water would drop on to the lobsters below, and keep them from dying of heat, care being taken by the attendants that the temperature of the compartments should be kept at least as low as 40 degrees.

It is expected that about 95 per cent. of the lobster colony will reach Vancouver alive.

BERKMAN, ANARCHIST

Refers to Recent Deeds of Violence and Blames Economic Conditions as the Cause.

A revival of "Krousemeyer's Alley," with that inimitable and original comedian Billy Watson as Phillip Krousemeyer, will be presented at the Star fhis week. Mr. Watson has long been known as the nestor of comedians in the burlesque field, and is without an equal in his line of comedy.

Those who like real comedy, without vulgarity, will enjoy themselves this week at the Royal Alexandra Theatre, where a splendid production of H. T. Byron's amusing comedy, "Our Boys," will be presented. This is the play which had such phenomenal runs in London and New York. It was written solely for the purpose of providing light amusement for theatregoers and was successful. Mr. Stallard, the popular comedian, will be seen in his famous character of Perkyn Middlewick. Matinese will be given on Thursday, Saturday and Good Friday.

This is the position towards deeds of violence committed by individual anarchist as taken by Alexander Berkman, an associate of Emma Goldman, and one of the leaders of the anarchist movement in the United States. He was addressing a meeting yesterday aftermoon in the Labor Temple, held, according to the handbilis, under the auspices of "The Gruppe Freedom of Toronto." He was speaking more directly of the murder of the priest in Denver and the recent bomb-throwing in New York, with which the New York police tried to connect him.

In explaining his position, Mr. Berkman used an allegory. He pictured a scientist endeavoring to explain the condition of the atmosphere which caused lightning. As he was explaining, a flash of lightning came and killed three people standing near. A bar-caused lightning. As he was explaining, a flash of lightning came and killed three people standing near. A barbarian rushed up to him and asked him if he could justify the action of the lightning, but he could neither justify nor condemn because his business was to explain. That also was the position of the anarchist

The Italian who had shot the priest in Denver, Berkman explained, had been out of work, without friends and without sufficient food for weeks. The psychological condition had to be considered. Some men in such a condition thought of suicide. Others, like this sidered. Some men in such a condition thought of suicide. Others, like this man, thought of murder. So, his mind unbalanced the hells seemed to call him into the church and, entering unbalanced the bells seemed to take him into the church, and, entering him into the church, and, entering ped. "We always have peace and order as long as the police do not interfere," said Berkman in way of preface to his interpretation of anarchistic philosophy. It was a philosophy, he said at the outset, which was the subject of much wilful misrepresentation. President Roosevelt had stooped to a conscious falsehood in classifying anarchists with criminals, and had forgotten that Payne, Jefferson and Franklin, if not thoro-going anarchists, had expressed many anarchistic ideas.

The producing classes, Berkman continued, were the support of the social life, but enjoyed very little of what life, but enjoyed very little of what they produced. The capitalist class controlled the necessary means of production, and were thus able to exploit their fellow-men. The government existed to support this class. The armed and violent means which every government possessed to carry out its mandates constituted its authority.

Thursday night, April 2, the third flat of our building was burned out. Our rugs and Oriental goods were on the first and second floors, so that while a few valuable rugs were scorched and soaked, most of our stock was not really injured at all, though pretty well wet, as is usual in such circumstances. No smoke, to speak of, got into our principal stock rooms; the rugs are as good and fresh as new, aside from being damp. However, this is enough to make it necessary to sacrifice values, just as much as if the stock was damaged.

Free-for-All Race for Rugs

We are forced to make immediate sales of a large quantity of goods to get enough capital to meet the extra expense of repairs and restocking. We know we cannot ask full price, though the rugs ar enot injured. We are going to make the prices so low that it will clear out a great amount of our stock. This is the first fire we ever had, and probably will be the last, so take advantage of this unique opportunity of getting the finest Oriental rugs at prices that will not be sufficient to see us out of a big loss.

We Want Your Help. Do You Want Rugs? During this week we will offer you the biggest bargain chances you ever saw. This is the rarest opportunity for rug buyers, so come in and make a personal selection.

A government was not necessary to enforce such conditions. It was needed only to support present conditions.

Anarchism would not mean a carnival of crime, for the causes of crime would be largely eliminated. Under the present system, with all its laws, crime was increasing.
"Do they punish the real criminals?

Is a Rockefeller or a Morgan punished? A man who has stolen a loaf of bread is sent to prison, but a man who has stolen 100,000 acres of land is honored and respected."

Prison Spoils Criminal.

Speaking from his own experience, Berkman said that the prisoner did not come out of prison reformed, but orse than when he went in. What anarchists wanted was a fair hearing. If they got that their ideas would take root and their ideals would appeal to all men. Their philosophy was the negation of violence and government was organized violence. But it existed because the majority of people still believed in it and the an-archist sought to change these ideas. the crisis was that production was for sale and not for use.

The bomb-thrower in New York had said that he had been brutally treated by the police. It was just another case of violence causing violence, and the man, tho perhaps unconscious of it, was simply making a protest against the miserable conditions in which he had been forced to live.

Blames Social Conditions.

"Social conditions are responsible for the deeds of violence," Berkman declared. "There lay the blame and not on the anarchists, who are trying to explain those conditions. Our methods of violence, a man who had the responsibility to be given the opportunity to be men.

The bomb-thrower in New York had the crisis was that production was for sale and not for use.

"How abolish government and private property?" he continued. "A very simple matter."

It could be done, he claimed, by simply applying the principle that a man had the right to enjoy what he produced, and that only the man who been forced to live.

"How abolish government and private property?" he continued. "A very simple matter."

It could be done, he claimed, by simply applying the principle that a man had the right to enlighten people as to what their conditions were and what were the causes of these conditions. Their methods, therefore, could not be the bomb and the dagger. Occasionally deeds of violence were committed by anarchists, but regicides had been found in all parties and in all classes. All parties had had men who would occasionally commit some deed of violence.

The lecturer himself looked little like an apostle of violence, a man who had served 14 years in prison, or who a few days ago was held by the New York police for a few days as a party to the bomb outrage in Union-square. Etc., Etc., Etc. he said, after the lecture. It was no secret that I was an anarchist, and they had no other evidence against me. The magistrate was an intelligent man and said that to be an anarchist was not a crime, and remanded me until the next day on my own recognizance. I returned to the court next day, and when the police still had no more evidence against me, the magistrate released me. Making a Mistake.

"The United States Government is making a big mistake in trying to keep Emma Goldman out of the country and frying to suppress anarchism. It is simply the suppression of free speech, and they tried that in Russia, and you know the result. They have and you know the result. They have more revolution there than in any country or at any time in the world."

Of his own actions which led to his own imprisonment in Pittsburg for an attempted assassination. Mr Berkman was not inclined to speak. Of his experience in prison he was more compensative.
