Only a few hours now remain before the final wind-up of the money-raising campaign, instituted by the Young Women's Christian Association for $500,000 and devoted for three days towards securing $50,000 for the Young Women's Christian Association.

At 12:30 to-day the last luncheon will be held, at headquarters in the Lumsden Building, to receive reports from the captains of the various teams as well as from the young women's committee, who made a canvass of more than 10,000 persons yesterday. As far as possible, every factory that employs women was visited during the day, and those in whose interest a portion of the new program is designed, are giving of their substance to help the cause along.

Only $40,000 is required to complete the amount which is to place this great undertaking for women on a permanent basis.

Rev. W. F. Wilson, speaking at yesterday's luncheon, said that 20,000 young women were scattered throughout the factory districts of the city, and did not enjoy the comforts of a home or the advantages of a Christian environment. It was a work of great consequence for the moral and social welfare of the community.

In the Y. M. C. A. campaign there were about 950 subscribers; 10,000 subscribers were wanted so there was a splendid opportunity for a great many citizens to become tangibly interested in the biggest combined philanthropic movement that Toronto has yet undertaken.

It is only $40,000 more and those who are not solicited can send their subscriptions in.

The Spirit That Wins.

This is what a Porcupine miser wrote to J. M. Godfrey:

"I notice you are hustling money for the Young Women's Christian Association. As you know, I am not very strong on religion, but when anybody starts in to do anything for the women and the kids, count me in. I have just had the smelter-returns from the little test shipment we made."

SEPARATE SCHOOLS DRAPED BUT NOT PUBLIC SCHOOLS

Orangemen Inclined to Blame Socialist Tendencies of Chairman Simpson For Omission.

DUKE OF CONNAUGHT MAY BE NEEDED IN ENGLAND

Suggested That He May Have to Remain Until Young Prince is Older.

"If, as I am told by leading citizens, socialism is running the board of education, it is certainly not running the city council," said Controller Church last night in criticizing the neglect of the school board to have the public schools draped in honor of the dead King. The omission is made conspicuous by the fact that the separate schools have been bedecked in black and purple.

At several Orange Lodge meetings last night speeches were made hotly denouncing the school board for its tardiness in showing the marks of loyalty, and criticisms of James Simpson, the Socialist chairman, were uttered. Controller Church will, at to-day's meeting of the board of control move that all public halls, fire stations, libraries and entrances to parks be decorated at an expense not to exceed $10 in each instance as in other cities.

LONDON, May 11.—The position in regard to the governor-generalship may be taken to be as follows. In fact King Edward expressed the wish that the Duke of Connaught should be the next governor-general, but no appointment then or since has been made. The question of Earl Grey's successor has, up to the present, not been officially considered. The demise of the crown, however, may render the fulfillment of His Late Majesty's wishes difficult.

At any rate the question is still unsettled, and will not be further discussed until the arrival of the duke in London. He is now coming home from East Africa.

In this connection it is suggested that concerning the appointment of the governor-general, the duke in England may be deemed necessary until the Duke of Cornwall, the King's eldest son, is able to take part in high ceremonial of state.

The McLachlan Tragedy Scene of the alleged murder; the accused husband and daughter

M'LACHLAN NOW FACES TRIAL FOR LIFE

Uxbridge Tragedy, Which It is Alleged Was Triple Murder, Before Jury—Crown Contends Deliberate Poisoning and Arson by the Accused.

WHITEBY, May 11.—(Special.)—Is it natural that man should forget in which bedroom his wife and two children were sleeping, after escaping from a burning house, with an infant in his arms? Is it natural for him to stay around while the firemen and neighbors were fighting the flames and make no effort to assist even after it has been called to his attention that his "loved ones" may be perishing within? Is it natural that he should make no move toward removing the dead bodies when they have finally been rescued?

These are circumstances brought out to-day in the trial of Archibald McLachlan, charged with the murder of his wife and two little sons, Harold and Gordon, at Uxbridge about midnight Oct. 29 last.

The presence of strychnine in the woman's stomach is another suspicious circumstance, and on this point the crown will receive expert medical testimony of Dr. Arthur James Johnson, chief coroner, Toronto, and Prof. Ellis of the provincial analyst's department.

The court-room was packed to-day when Justice Testart accented to the bench at the request of counsel for the defence, all witnesses were excluded. McLachlan, who looked pale and the lines of whose face were tensely drawn, took a keen interest in the proceedings and conferred with his lawyer several times during the selection of the jury.

Mr. Blackstock concluded his outline of the case to the jury by saying that a fair trial for the prisoner, "Blackstock," he went on, "a fair trial is not hunting around by weak-minded men if they can get rid of an unpleasant duty. If a crime has been committed, then it is the duty of everyone concerned to see that the perpetrator is brought to justice."

Crown's Case Outlined.

Mr. Blackstock outlined the case to the jury in an hour's address. After telling of McLachlan's marriage nine years ago, his family of two boys aged 4 and 6 and girl aged 5, his employment at Uxbridge as bookkeeper for a year, and his discharge, to take effect the day the fire occurred, Mr. Blackstock told of the tragedy.

"People coming home from work saw smoke coming from the house," said the counsel. "They shouted loud enough for anyone in the house to hear them, and when the door of the door the prisoner came out wheeling the little girl in a baby carriage. He did not pay any attention to them. They wheeled the carriage over to the fence. The neighbors asked him where his wife was, but he didn't answer them. They tried in vain to get from him any kind of knowledge as to where his wife and children were."

"The prisoner was asked for some explanation of this disaster. He said he found his wife and little girl in the house. He was looking after the girl. Now it will be shown to you she was not ill. The prisoner was fully dressed, with exception of shoe laces unfastened."

Believes Woman Was Dead.

The crown believed the woman was dead, but that, had McLachlan given any assistance, the children might have been saved for the cry of a child had been heard.

"The household was not a happy one," said Mr. Blackstock, and the responsibility for this rests entirely on the prisoner. The woman was an industrious, sweet-natured kindly woman. However, negligence was the cause of the tragedy.

He referred to McLachlan's friendship for Miss Alma Nix, an attachment of which he had openly boasted. Letters had passed between them, and Miss Nix had written that she did not want to come between him and his wife. Evidence would be presented to show that McLachlan had wanted her to elope.

"Mrs. Watson, a relative, will tell you that apparently to annoy his wife he would refer to Miss Nix as his girl or sweetheart. At that time his wife treated this as a bit of bad manners, but the prisoner had formed a strong regard for that woman," said Mr. Blackstock.

Indications in the house were that something on the floor had been burned.

WORRY OVER POLITICAL SITUATION ONE CAUSE OF KING EDWARD'S DEATH

Should Not Be Lost Sight of Say Royal Physicians in Statement as to His Majesty's Illness.

LONDON, May 11.—Parliament paid a tribute to the memory of King Edward to-day, adopting addresses of condolence and congratulations to the new King, Premier Asquith, and the house of commons, and the Earl of Crewe, in the house of lords, delivered eulogies on Edward VII., and both showed great emotion.

The day was chiefly devoted to recording the nation's official condolences to the royal family. King George and the Queen Mother received at Marlborough House and Buckingham Palace, respectively, deputations from the lords and commons, bearing the royal wreaths in procession would be inconspicuous.

Among the numerous functions abandoned or postponed owing to the King's death, is the royal military tournament.

Worry a Contributing Cause.

The King Edward's death was partly due to worry over the political situation is officially declared in a statement regarding his illness, which his physicians, Sir Francis Laking, Sir James Reid and Sir Richard Douglas Powell, are publishing over their signatures in The Lancet to-morrow.

The statement says: "His majesty had for some years suffered from emphysema with attendant bronchial catarrh; signs of which were permanently present at the bases of the lungs. On several occasions digestive disturbances had caused his medical attendants to realize that his majesty no longer had the reserve constitutional power which had stood him in such splendid stead after his serious operation in 1902, and that any intercurrent catarrhal or bronchitic attack, with such reduction in cost as a serious kind would at once call upon both heart and lungs for their fullest effort."

"It must be here said that those around him knew how earnestly concerned he was at the present strained position of political affairs, and this fact should not be lost sight of in an all-round consideration of the King's health."

The Biarritz Attack.

Referring to the King's recent visit to Biarritz, the statement says: "The first night in Paris his majesty had a severe attack of acute indigestion, with subsequent dyspepsia (shortness of breath). On his arrival at Biarritz this developed into a bronchitic attack, causing his physicians great anxiety. This passed off, and his majesty returned better in every way, but he contracted a chill at Sandringham while inspecting the gardens."

"On his return to London, the statement continues, 'from May 3 the attacks of dyspepsia increased, although the King insisted upon attending to business of state as late as Thursday, May 5.'

"On that day," the physicians add, "the attacks became more frequent and distressing, and with increasing cyanosis, gravely suggestive of threatened cardiac failure. With the King's permission the doctors issued the first bulletin on Thursday night, but not until it was seen by his majesty, who somewhat modified its terms."

"From Friday morning his condition rapidly became worse. There were several dangerous attacks and his majesty was unconscious for several hours."

UNMUZZLE INNOCENT DOGS.

Why keep the innocent dogs of Ontario muzzled? Why not have a provincial officer who could, on examination, pass a dog as being free from suspicion of rabies? Owners of dogs would gladly pay a round fee and go to unusual trouble to have their pets certified as innocent and harmless. The un-muzzling of Ontario's dogs would be most popular with both owners and dogs. Can't Mr. Hanna be persuaded to do it?

NEW TEXT BOOKS AT ONE-THIRD OLD PRICE

Robt. Simpson Co. to Publish New Ontario Public School Arithmetic, and Gage Co. the Grammars — 25 Cent Books for 9 Cents.

Another marked decrease in the prices of public school text-books for the province was evidenced yesterday when tenders were opened for the new arithmetic and grammar.

The World Intensive Sir James Whitney, who happened to be in conversation with Hon. R. A. Pyne, minister of education, and the following announcement was received:

"The public school arithmetic, consisting of 215 pages, formerly retailed at 25 cents. The new one, consisting of 240 pages, will retail at 9 cents.

"The old public school grammar of 150 pages retailed at 25 cents. The new text-book on a basis of 224 pages will be sold at 8 1/2 cents.

"There will also be a discount of 20 per cent. off the retail price of the new books."

Sir James also announced that the successful lowest tenderers for the new books are:

Robert Simpson Co., Limited, for the arithmetic and grammar.

Holland Lined Paper Co., for the grammar.

"The issue of these books is consonant with the policy of the educational department to bring all high school and public school text-books up to date at such reduction in cost as will insure to the advantage of the people of the province."

FOOT RUN OVER

Young Man Tried to Get Aboard a Moving Car.

Attempting to board a moving car coast William Pipher, aged 24, his left foot at 6:40 last night. He tried to get on to a west-bound King-street car at Princess and King-streets, but failed to get a proper hand-hold, falling under the trolley. He was taken in an automobile to St. Michael's Hospital, where Dr. Harrison attended him. The leg was amputated just below the knee. He will probably recover.

Half an hour earlier, at the same corner, Morris Couston of 400 Logan-avenue was struck by a car and rendered unconscious. After being attended by a doctor, Couston was taken home. His injuries were slight.
