

Session Report, 1892.

In God's good providence it devolves upon the Session of this congregation briefly to review the work of the past year.

As in former years the Elders have called upon the members of the congregation in their various districts preceding each communion season. It is hoped that such visits are a bond of union, and that the people will take advantage of them to discuss the affairs of the congregation and give and accept hints as to any way by which our strength and usefulness may be increased. The pastor has also paid his annual visit to each home in the congregation, as well as many calls made during the year upon the aged and those who have been laid aside through illness, some six hundred visits in all having been made by him. There are, however, some few in the congregation whom it is hardly possible for him to meet, and he desires all to understand that, unless there is some special call made upon him, he is at home Thursday afternoon and evening of each week, and will be pleased to meet with any of his people.

There is much that has been satisfactory in the progress made by the congregation during the year, the details of which will be found in the various reports. There have been a great many changes in the membership, but notwithstanding many losses by death and removal there has been gain in the number upon the roll.

The Session emphasize the necessity of every one connected with the congregation showing faithfulness in the discharge of personal responsibility. It is by each one doing a little that, under the blessing of God, prosperity is attained.
