The three words that tell the whole story of a perfect cup of coffee, from plantation to breakfast table— "SEAL BRAND" COFFEE.

In %, 1 and 2 pound tins. Whole-ground-pulverized-also fine ground for Percolators. Never sold in bulk. 187 CHASE & SANBORN, MONTREAL.

COUNDS a bit ladylike, you say? Not at all.

Don't forget that the men in khaki shake thousands of tins into their shoes to make marching easier. Here's the idea:

Therefore, so long as you've a skin, you've a use for talcum—or, if you've much walking to do you'll find it cool, restful to your feet.

If you are human and perspire in summer, Mennen's will refresh you and keep you feeling cool and clean. A dousing with Mennen's after your bath is as good for you now as when you were a baby—and probably as soothing to your disposition now as then.

After shaving is the big time when every man's face feels better for a dust o' Talcum, and so Mennens have produced a Talcum for Men that has a natural tint. It is antiseptic Men that has a natural time. It is aimsephic and protective. It retains all the high stan-dards of Mennen Quality plus the distinctive color, perfume and a package that makes a hit with the masculine.

Of the hundreds of Talcum Powders on the market, maybe two or three are as good as Mennen's. But it's just as easy to be sure by getting Mennen's.

MENNEUZ TALCUM FOR MEN

MENNEN'S TALCUMS—all with the original borated formula the has never been bettered include a variety to satisfy every need: Borated, Violet, Flesh Tint and Cream Tint, each charmingly perfumed; and the new Talcum for Men, a boon after shaving, with a neutral color that leaves a face free from the paller of a pure white powder.

HON. DR. PUGSLEY SPEAKS ON CRISIS AS IT NOW STANDS

Ottawa, June 7-In response to The Telegraph's request for a summary of the political situation as it now stands, Hon. William Pugsley this afternoon gave your correspondent the following statement:

What many of us have feared has happened. There is to be no coalition. The correspondence between Sir Robert Borden and Sir Wilfrid Laurier shows the following important facts, namely:

That when the prime minister approached the Liberal leader his professed desire was to avoid an election during the war. He knew that there was a very strong sentiment in Canada, not by any means confined to Quebec, that conscription should not be enacted by this parliament without a referendum, so as to get the opinion of the people upon the question; yet, without making any offer of referendum, the proposal of the prime minister as formulated is that general election.

In other words, instead of getting the opinion of the people in a manner which would enable them to vote upon conscription as was done in Australia, free from all the passion and prejudices which a general election would arouse, he proposed that Sir Wilfrid should, by joining the government, commit himself to inscription and then plunge the country into the turmoil of a general election in the midst of the war, thus inflicting on the people the very evil which he, the prime minister, at first professed his desire to avoid.

In my opinion to have taken the view of the people by a referendum would have been infinitely the better course and one which should commend itself to every patriotic advocate of compulsory service who would desire to see it successfully carried out, and to have a united Canada rather than have the people torn asunder by political and racial differences. In Sir Wilfrid's statement to the prime minister he, Sir Wilfrid, uses this language:
"AT THIS AND PREVIOUS INTERVIEWS I ALWAYS STATED TO YOU THAT WHENEVER CONSCRIPTION WAS ADOPTED AFTER A CONSULTATION OF THE PEOPLE I WOULD CERTAINLY URGE IN EVERY POSSIBLE WAY OBEDIENCE TO THE LAW."

This should have appealed to the good judgment of the prime minister and induced him to offer a referendum; when, if conscription was favored by the electors, all the people of Canada, as well those against conscription as those in favor of it, would, I am sure, have cheerfully yielded to the will of the ma-

Sir Robert Borden has, it seems to me, lost a glorious opportunity of bringing about a united feeling among the people of all the provinces as to the best methods to be taken for winning the war and for entering upon that high and mighty purpose which would inspire the souls of a united nation. It seems most lamentable that the glorious record written by our Canadian boys at the front should be marred by the spectacle of national divisions and racial dis-

FIFTH DIVISION

A letter received in the city yesterday from England states that the fifth Canadian division has been broken up to provide re-inforcements for the four divisions already in the field. In England, it was stated, men of the army service and ambulance corps have been incorporated into infantry training depots, showing the great need of men. Local Officers Honored

In addition to Colonel Massie and the other St. John men recently honored appear the names of Capt. J. Oliphant, Capt. F. W. Wickwire and Capt. C. P. Ermatinger, all of whom have been mentioned in despatches. Capt. Oliphant was one of the very first to cross. He went with the Army Service Corps in the first Canadian contingent and crossed in the first months of the war. Before joiring the army he was secretary-treas-urer of the British North American Construction Company and was well known in the city. Captains Wickwire and Ermatinger, while not St. John men, were quartered here for some time in the No.

A slow but steady stream of recruits is coming forward in St John. Yesterday six men signed their names to Canada's honor roll. Some promising re-cruits were lost when required to wait for medical examination, as there are not enough doctors at the local recruiting stations. Those who signed on yes-terday were: Watson Weaver, Spring-hil, N. S., and Miles Moxon, Mauger-ville, N. B., for the Canadian Engineers. H. E. McDonald, West St. John, and John Ferguson, Lorneville, for the For-estry Battalion, and H. W. Joyce, St. John, and E. V. Turnbull, Digby, N. S.,

At Cross Creek, on Sunday last, Mrs. William Foreman died, aged forty-four years. She was a daughter of the late James Stickles of St. Mary's. She is survived by her husband, two daughters,
