Time used is Atlantic standard.

An illustrated lecture was given last evening by Mr. Jacks in the vestry of the Central United Baptist church, under the auspices of the Young People's Society on "Palestine, Past and Present."

An interesting entertainment was given last night by the staff and friends of Evangeline Home at the Salvation Army Citadel, in Charlotte street. The city corps and bands as well as the Boy Scouts and Girl Guards, assisted.

James Peacock, his two daughters and George and Carl Peters were before Magistrate Adams at Brookville yesterday afternoon in connection with the disorderly house in the Red Head road. The prisoners were remanded pending arrangements for caring for the two girls.

The St. John Conservative Club held a smoker last evening in their rooms in the Market building. Those taking part in the programme were James Sprout, John Tongue, Thomas Stack, Hon. J. B. Baxter, W. Ricketts, Albert E. Glick, James Lewis, Walter Logan and Commissioner Wigmore.

A tremendous blaze consumed a barn in East St. John last night. The barn is situated with the property of Rev. James Ross. The hay in the barn amounted to about fifty tons, and was the loss of the Young People's Society of $1,200. How the fire started is unknown.

W. S. Fisher was the host at his home in Orange street last evening for the regular meeting of the Fortnightly Club. About twenty members were present. W. K. Haley read a very interesting paper on the Hudson Bay Company. Rev. Mr. Fleming told of his personal experience in the country where the company is active.

At the annual meeting of Chambers Lodge, No. 1, Royal Guardians, in their hall last evening, the following officers were elected, and then installed—H. D. Everett, master; George James, vice-master; John Baisley, secretary; E. S. Hennigan, secretary and treasurer; J. L. Thorne, secretary and treasurer; A. J. Armstrong, inner warden; C. E. Lordy, outer warden; and J. J. Rowan, past master guardian.

SEEK TO OVERTHROW VON HOLLWEG AGAIN

Failure of Peace Overtures Arouses Ruthless Submariners Against Chancellor

Doomed to Failure—Expected German Chancellor Will Weather Storm as He Has Several of Like Nature

Information reaching Washington regarding the political situation in Germany is to the effect that failure of the German overtures to the Entente for a discussion of peace at this time will be marked by resumption of the campaign of his opponents for the overthrow of Dr. von Bethmann-Hollweg, imperial chancellor.

Movements for the removal of the chancellor have been initiated repeatedly during the last two years. Especially since the German government gave its pledges to the United States in the Sussex case regarding the manner in which it would conduct submarine warfare against merchantmen, belligerent and neutral, have the advocates of the so-called ruthless submarine warfare aimed their shafts at Dr. von Bethmann-Hollweg in the hope that through his downfall the military and naval establishments would ride into power and force the adoption of the policy of indiscriminate submarine warfare as a weapon against the Entente.

Efforts Have Failed

These various efforts to force the retirement of the imperial chancellor have failed, and he has emerged from the fray with flying colors. In the last attempt to effect his downfall it is understood that the situation was shaped very materially in favor of his retention by the attitude and friendship of Field Marshal von Hindenburg, who supported the stand of both the Kaiser and the chancellor in favor of adherence to Germany's solemn pledges it had given to this government. Von Hindenburg took the situation in hand and refused to be a party to a situation of extreme necessity.

The von Tirpitz propagandists are again preparing to force the retirement of the imperial chancellor, and are endeavoring to secure the necessary support for the adoption of the more vigorous submarine policy which they advocate. They are represented by a number of influential persons whose names have failed, that the Entente reply to the German overtures was a rejection which must be interpreted as reflecting a determination by the Entente to crush German militarism, that this means a final fight on land and sea, within the power of Germany against the Entente nations.

In Tautou's opinion there is apparently the belief that the imperial chancellor will be able to weather the next attack his political opponents may launch against him. In any event it is not believed in well-informed quarters here that the overthrow of the chancellor, if effected, would give the von Tirpitz element any greater control than at present over the submarine policy of the German government.

Tirpitz as Chancellor

Recently it was intimated in some unofficial cablograms from abroad that Grand Admiral von Tirpitz would be elevated to the imperial chancellorship, in the event of the retirement of Dr. von Bethmann-Hollweg. These intimations are not viewed seriously in Washington, where it is believed no such move would be made until it is necessary to issue a virtual declaration of war to the United States, Spain and other neutral nations which have protested against indiscriminate submarine attacks on commercial vessels.

In the event of the overthrow of Dr. von Bethmann-Hollweg after a popular recognition in Germany of the failure of his peace efforts it is expected that his successor would be Dr. Karl Helfferich, the German imperial vice-chancellor, and secretary of the interior. This expectation is based on the assumption that the chancellorship would not at this time be turned over to a member of the military party, and because Dr. Helfferich, who is considered one of the greatest men in modern Germany, is known to have won the admiration of the German emperor to a very high degree, and is considered eminently qualified for the chancellorship. Helfferich was formerly professor of social economy in the University of Berlin, afterward becoming a director of the Deutsche Bank before being made vice-chancellor. The best information reaching Washington is that Dr. Helfferich is in sympathy with the agitation in Germany for a ruthless prosecution of the submarine campaign regardless of Germany's pledge to the United States. It is asserted that Dr. Helfferich is a man so schooled in the art of looking at almost every German problem and interest from the standpoint of Germany's future economic, social and financial welfare that he is too sensible and sober-minded to be willing to risk the injury of Germany's commercial welfare after the war through complete alienation of the friendship and neutrality of the United States as a consequence of violation of the principle involved in the pledge given to the United States government in the Sussex case.

The head of a certain family was recently approached by his son, just nearing his majority.

"Father," said he, "I want to have a talk with you concerning my future. I have decided to become an artist. Have you any objections?"

The old man scratched his head reflectively and said: "Well, no, son—provided, of course, you don't draw on me."

J. M. McClelland, of the publishing house of McClelland, Goodchild and Stewart, in answer to the query reprinted "Fair Play, Fair Play," above all others, has never forgotten and never will forget.

"While I cannot very well refuse to sell any of these to customers who want to be just a little ahead of everybody else it cannot be expected that I should discount these originals. They are made in the very newest patterns from the British looms," said Mr. A. C. Hollis.

PUBLIC MEN TELL WHAT THEY OWE THEIR MOTHERS.

Prominent Toronto Business Men Confess How Their Mothers Have Been Responsible For Their Success.

"Back in the early days of joy and hope, there was some one thing which our mothers saw in our character that needed care and inspiring suggestion to bring it to fruition, and when this had been accomplished, we found that we attained a better balance of character and were thereby better enabled to battle in the whirlpool of life."

So thinks Owen E. McGillivuddy, a well known writer. He has voiced his confession, together with those of other prominent business figures, in an article in January's Everwoman's World, headed "What I Owe My Mother."

"Most of us," he says, "as we look back upon the days of our early youth catch a deeper meaning of what motherhood has done for us. We have been the recipients of that unalloyed love poured forth from a heart which measured not its capacity to give, and therefore, was sweetest in the giving."

"Mothers' declares Mr. McGillivuddy, "can impart information and instill sound truths which will last in after life as luminous motives to mark the way, no matter how dark that way may be."

Considering this, the writer decided to obtain the opinions of some men in Toronto who had obtained a modicum of success in their respective callings. Here are a few:

Herbert J. S. Dennison, a well known patent attorney, says: "A phrase which I remember very distinctly as being frequently used by my mother is, 'You must never touch a pin's point which does not belong to you.'"

Good Old Home-Made Family Cough Remedy

Much Better than the Ready-Made Kind—Easily and Cheaply Prepared.

If you combined the curative properties of the best known cough remedy, you would hardly have in them all the curative power that lies in this simple and effective remedy. It takes only a few minutes to prepare. Measure any drug store's quantity of Pinex (50 cents worth), pour it into a quart jar, add 1/2 pint of water, 1/2 pint of granulated sugar syrup, the total cost is about 54 cents and gives you 18 bottles of really better cough syrup than you could buy ready-made for $2.00.

This Pinex and sugar syrup preparation is a cough remedy that is really effective. It loosens the phlegm, stops the nasty throat tickle and breaks the sore, irritated membranes that line the throat, chest and bronchial tubes, so readily and easily that it is really astonishing. It acts upon the mucous membrane of the ordinary cough and for bronchitis, croup, whooping cough and bronchial pneumonia. It is a really better cough remedy. Pinex is a most valuable concentrated cough remedy. It is a cough syrup extract, combined with guaiaacil and has been used for generations to break up severe coughs.

To avoid disappointment, be sure to get your drug store's quantity of Pinex with full directions, and don't be deceived by cheap imitations. For absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded, get the genuine Pinex. The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.
