Prizes, owned by Dr. Gilchrist, Norton, won from Honest Dan, owned by W. S. Fairweather, in a matched race, in 1:14 1/2, 1:11 3/4, 1:13 and 1:14.

Syracuse Races
Syracuse, N. Y. Sept. 17.—Three amateur and three professional races made up the programme of the closing day of the Grand Circuit meeting at the state fair this afternoon. Although no records were broken there were several surprises, chiefly among which was the victory of Lisie Brown in the 2:09 trot. Finishing sixth in the first heat Valentine took the pay trotter out in front in the next three heats and was never headed, although Murphy with Mirthful was a contender all the way.

THE GODDESS is now in New York. Chapter No. 4 on Monday will show our innocent and strangely-garbed heroine in the crowded thoroughfares of the great city. Both Tommy Barclay and Prof. Stilleter are with her, lest harm should come to her at the hands of either. The populace does not know what to make of her. They laugh and jeer, and fresh youths "kid" her. This is really the beginning of Celestia's imagined mission, that of reforming the world.

OUR VAUDEVILLE next week will be sweet and dainty. It will be a pretty little "sister act"—dancing and singing. The Wilton Sisters are mere children and travel in the care of their mother. They have a splendid record as refined entertainers in the best houses belonging to our Keith affiliation and their youth, beauty and vivacity—to say nothing of pretty frolics and furbelows—will win everybody's favor, we think. Our last dancing act was greatly enjoyed, and we expect this one will please also.

MAMAUX, SENSATIONAL YOUNG PIRATES' PITCHER

(From the October Baseball Magazine)
The October issue of the Baseball Magazine has an article devoted to Mammaux, the sensational young pitcher of the Pirates. We quote from the article: In the summer of 1911 Mammaux played semi-pro ball with Lafayette club, one of the strongest semi-pro teams in the city of Pittsburgh. And he did such good work that his reputation gradually spread far beyond the limits of his home burg. In the fall of that same season the Wilkesburg team of the County League needed four games to win the flag of their circuit. They secured Mammaux. He pitched all four games and won them all.

Mammaux was ambitious. He has always been ambitious. And he wanted to play baseball. So Fred Clarke, being apprised of the youthful talent which slumbered in the very shadow of his own ballfield, took Mammaux south with him in the spring of 1913 for a trial. Here the youngster showed up very well indeed. But on returning north Clarke thought he could stand a little more seasoning, so he sent him to Fort Wayne, the Centre League. He stayed here but two weeks, going thence to Huntington, West Virginia, where he established an enviable reputation for himself, playing in the outfield when not needed on the slab.

The following season Pittsburgh kept him on the bench a good deal of the time, but he got into several games, winning five and losing two. His season Clarke figured Mammaux would be a very valuable second string pitcher to bolster up the work of his first string men, such as Harmon, Adams and McQuillan. But Mammaux thought otherwise. He had lately become of age, passing his twenty-first birthday in May, and it was evident to him that his chance had come.

As we go to press Mammaux virtually leads the National League in percentage of victories, having won seventeen out of just four games. His percentage is even a bit better than that of the famous Alexander, which is certainly a record for any pitcher to aim at. And he shows no signs of faltering by the way, but rather a renewed ambition and ability to establish his name as one of the greatest pitchers in the history of the sport.

Mammaux has defeated every club in the circuit, most of them several times while his losses are rare indeed. More than that, he has shut out, at least once, the greatest pitcher in the National League. But, like most twirlers, he does have a hoodoo, and the particular club which has been hardest for him to down has been St. Louis. Not that the Cardinals have grown fat at his expense, but rather, a strange thing has happened. Miller Huggins' band is the toughest combination he faces on the circuit.

Mammaux has all that a pitcher requires; a good curve, excellent control and a speed to make the batters sit up and take notice. Furthermore, he has that innate confidence in himself and his arm which enables him to win many famous pitched games. He has called the most valuable gift of all.

TWIN FOLKS GET FAT ON THREE MEALS A DAY

Tells Why Food Does Not Always Produce Flesh and What Thin Folks Should Do to Gain Weight.

Most people who are thin and underweight eat just as heartily as do folks who are stout and well built but they cannot seem to gain in weight. They finally think it their nature to be thin and nothing can make them fat. But this is not necessarily true.

While flesh and fat must of course come from food nourishment it has been proved time and time again that most thin people have defective powers of assimilation and that the bulk of the assimilating elements of their meals is passing right through their bodies, never reaching the blood at all. Naturally, therefore, they stay thin.

By a simple correction of the assimilative functions this condition rapidly changes and thin people take on new flesh and weight at an amazing rate. A preparation known as Sargol offers a splendid means for accomplishing this purpose. Sargol is an ideal combination of well known assimilative agents. A single concentrated tablet eaten with meals has, according to reports received in many cases within a short time been the means of adding from ten to thirty pounds of solid, healthy flesh. It does not make flesh of itself but it aims to stop the leakage and waste of fatty nourishment and to prepare the flesh building elements of food into a form which the blood can readily absorb and distribute throughout the body. The effect of this aid to nourishment in weight increase is remarkable. Thin folks can easily and safely make this test for Sargol is harmless, pleasant to use and inexpensive and many leading druggists agree to sell it on a positive guarantee of weight increase or money back. This guarantee, plainly printed, is found in every large package.

Simple Way to Have Beautiful Wavy Hair

Lustrous, fluffy, wavy hair plays an important part in the scheme of beauty. A heated iron should not be used to give the desired wavy effect, for it destroys the life, lustre and suppleness of the hair. It is far better to use plain liquid silmerine, which curls the hair more effectively, more lastingly, and at the same time keeps it beautifully soft, "light" and glossy. It is beneficial instead of harmful, and it is such a simple thing to apply the liquid before retiring, using a clean tooth brush for the purpose and drawing this down the hair from root to tip. Very different from the treacherous, fussy, odorous curling iron method.

Pure silmerine in liquid form may be found in any drug store and a few ounces will last a very long time. It is neither sticky nor greasy and leaves no sediment, spots or streaks. The hair will be quite manageable, no matter what the style of coiffure and it will stay in curl even in damp or warm, perspiring weather.

BISLATERED MAGNESIA

For dyspepsia, indigestion, souring of food, gas, and hyperacidity of the stomach (acid stomach). A teaspoonful in a fourth of a glass of hot water usually gives INSTANT RELIEF. Sold by all druggists in either powder or tablet form at 75 cents per bottle.
