

6,000 CURES ARE CLAIMED FOR FRENCH HEALER

Breathes on Affected Parts Until Exhausted; Then Prays for Intervention

WITNESSES TESTIFY TO SUCCESS OF METHOD

Committee of Scientists to Examine Into Tests by Farmer.

PARIS, April 3.—The little village of Avignon, near Toulouse, has suddenly become a centre of interest to thousands of incurable invalids in France owing to reports of the wonderful healing powers of Jean Besiet, a local farmer. Since Besiet first discovered his powers nearly six years ago he has won a great reputation in his country, but it is only recently that the general public has heard of him, and now his fame is spreading so rapidly that an average of 100 patients visit him on each of his tri-weekly consulting days.

Besiet's method is a combination of magnetism and faith healing. First he breathes with all his power on the affected part of the patient's body, continuing this breathing until he is momentarily exhausted. Then, laying his hands on the spot, he prays in a loud voice for divine intervention to effect a cure.

On the testimony of many disinterested witnesses, he has already effected in this way some 6,000 cures, many of them of cases described as incurable by doctors.

Began in 1919.

He began his healing work in curious circumstances in 1919. A woman neighbor had a daughter who was lustrous, and for some reason which she has never been able to explain the conviction grew upon her that Besiet could cure the girl by touching her. Besiet, after long hesitation, decided to humor the woman, and did so with surprising results, for soon after he had laid hands on the girl she became calm, and within a week her reason was restored.

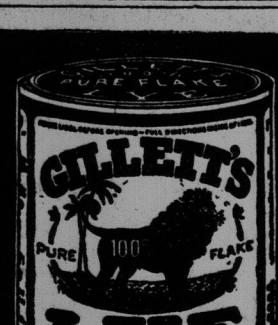

The story of the miracle quickly spread, and Besiet successfully treated in similar fashion other cases of insanity, tuberculosis, cancer, deformity, and paralysis. Some of the cures in his register are vouched for by medical men. He is now to submit to tests under the control of a committee of scientists of repute.
