

THE EVENING GAZETTE is published every evening (Sundays excepted) at No. 55, Canterbury Street, Saint John, N. B.

THE EVENING GAZETTE will be delivered at any house in the cities of St. John and Portland for a month for thirty-five cents.

ST. JOHN, N. B., WEDNESDAY, MAY 8, 1889. Owing to the large increase in our subscribers within the past few months we have been obliged to send new carriers, and to alter the boundaries of the carriers districts.

IT WOULD BE A DISMISSAL. The Telegraph takes up three quarters of a column of editorial space this morning in an attempt to show that the removal of Mr. Peters from the position of Police Magistrate and the appointment of Mr. Ritchie to that office was a dismissal.

The removal of Mr. Peters from the position of Police Magistrate and the appointment of Mr. Ritchie to that office was a dismissal. The removal of Mr. Peters from the position of Police Magistrate and the appointment of Mr. Ritchie to that office was a dismissal.

There is no room for doubt. The language is plain, clear and mandatory. The police magistrate shall be appointed by the governor in council. He shall be sworn in before the day of his appointment.

PROHIBITION IN MAINE. Mr. W. H. Rogers, formerly inspector for Nova Scotia, having returned the Amherst papers to a morbid condition by his long-winded letters in their columns, is now turning his attention to the St. John press, and appears desirous of making the Sun a victim of his desire to ignore in print, Mr. Rogers's last, in an attempt to show that prohibition is not a failure in Maine but a conspicuous success. This statement he seeks to prove by four separate propositions which we give below:

1. Maine has for many years had a much larger percentage of her children attending school than any other state in the union, and consequently has less illiteracy.

2. She has less criminals according to population than any other state. The same is true of her poor.

3. While a liquor license state such as Ohio, with a population of 4,500,000, has but $14,000,000 in her savings banks, Maine with but 600,000 people has $41,000,000 in her savings banks.

4. In Maine, during the years of prohibition, the mortgages on her farms have been reduced from 15 to 10 per cent.

The only proper answer to the first proposition is that it is not true. The school population of Maine last year was 172,774, the number scholars enrolled 145,300 and the average attendance 102,313. The scholars enrolled were 66 per cent of those of school age, and the average attendance was only 48 per cent.

The State of California did better than this for of its 2,724,848 children of school age 136,907 or 72 per cent were enrolled in public schools, and 129,297 was the average daily attendance. Maine is not making no better showing in regard to schools than a dozen other states, and if it did there is no proof that prohibition has anything to do with the result.

The small number of illiterates in Maine is due to the fact that there are no large numbers of immigrants coming to this state. It is not true that there are fewer criminals and fewer paupers in Maine according to population than any other state. The census of 1880 showed that Maine with a population of 699,000 had 2,211 paupers while California with 864,084 inhabitants had only 1,674 and Illinois with 5,067,471 people had only 473 paupers. What then becomes of this second point?

If Ohio with a population of 4,500,000 has but $14,000,000 in her savings banks and Maine with 600,000 people has $41,000,000 in her savings banks who can say this is due to prohibition? Let us take a richer state than Ohio, which with six times the population of Maine has only had 2,867 of the same class. It would be as easy to show that greater progress had been made in Maine due to prohibition, as it is to believe that the money in the Maine savings banks is due to that cause.

As to the reduction in the number of mortgages in Maine, we shall require some better authority than that of Mr. Rogers to show that the figures are correct; but even if they are correct, no sane man would loan money on a Maine farm at the present time, so that the reduction in the number of mortgages may be easily accounted for; all those in existence years ago having been paid off, and no new ones made. The fact that a farm has a mortgage on it implies that a capitalist is engaged in some business, but a Maine farm is no longer of any value in the eyes of moneyed men.

The fact is that prohibition has been a failure in Maine, and it is a significant fact that Maine and Vermont, the two states which have tried prohibition more than thirty years, are the most unprogressive in the union. In both States the growth of population has practically ceased. We do not say that prohibition has caused this, but it would be quite as reasonable to assert that it has as to the amount of money in the Maine savings banks or the lessening of the Maine farm mortgages to those who have been paid off.

There has been a large increase in the street sales of Tin Cans during the past few days. The independent and honest course of Tin Cans in connection with important questions, has made Tin Cans the most popular newspaper in St. John and has caused a boom in both circulation and advertising. A daily increase of 100 copies, in street sales is something that no other St. John newspaper can boast of.

A NOTE OF WARNING. The Telegraph informs its readers this morning that Mr. Peters is to be dismissed from the position of Police Magistrate and Mr. Ritchie is to be appointed, on the 15th of May. Mr. Peters will become Magistrate of the City by act of the legislature, and if the government exercises their undoubted power of removal and appoint Mr. Ritchie in his room no man, whether he be a lawyer or a layman, whether he has been accustomed to construe statutes in a legal sense or not, will treat the removal of Mr. Peters otherwise than as a dismissal.

We do not wish to say anything harsh in regard to the editor of the Telegraph, but what we do think of the removal of a man who will argue, as he does, that Mr. Peters, under the act, cannot be police magistrate of the new city without a new appointment? What are we to think of a man who will contend as he does that this office stands in the same position as that of the Mayor of the new city, who is continued in office until an election takes place? In the one case, while the governor and council have the power of dismissal and re-appointment there is no time specified when it must be exercised, and, in point of fact, it never has been exercised, while in the case of the Mayor it is specially provided that an election shall be held at a certain date. Yet the editor of the Telegraph can see no difference in the two cases. It is well known that the clause containing the Police Magistrate and Chief of Police in office was introduced to enable the government to avoid the difficulty of removing Mr. Marshall and thereby offending the Methodists. Mr. Peters being a churchman, if he is removed, it would seem that the government feel themselves strong enough to defy the resentment of that respectable and wealthy body of Christians.

OUR SPECIAL NUMBER. On Saturday, May 18, The Gazette will recognize the amalgamation of the cities of St. John and Portland by the publication of a double number dealing with the past history and future development of the cities. Among the subjects that will be treated are: THE PAST DEVELOPMENT AND SETTLEMENT, its romance and hardships. THE SETTLEMENT by the English including the founding of St. John by the Loyalists.

The growth of Portland from its earliest settlement to the present time. THE FUTURE DEVELOPMENT of Saint John and Portland. INCIDENTS THAT HAVE PASSED AWAY and are forgotten.

THE COURSE OF ST. JOHN. Its past, present and future. SOCIAL LIFE IN ST. JOHN. How and where our people spend their leisure hours. ST. JOHN A CENTRE. Hence, what the city will be like and the territory it will embrace.

This bill of fare is certain to make attractive reading for the people of the city. A limited space has been reserved for advertising and as this special issue of the Gazette will possess more than ordinary historical value the advertising will be more than usually valuable.

The billiards in Dakota continue to flourish at a rapid rate, and it looks as if they will be the major part of that territory might be blown away before it becomes a state or two states, as contemplated by the recent legislation of congress. The latest Dakota storm appeared at Fargo yesterday. It was preceded by a lightning storm and the usual roaring sound.

The Globe is as dumb as an oyster in regard to the police magistracy. On Saturday it attempted a grand standstill on the subject, and made a brilliant effort to be on both sides of the question at once. It has not had a word to say since in regard to it. If the Globe of this evening does not say something on a matter which every man in St. John is talking about, the conclusion of the people will be that it is afraid to speak.

Eleven of the bodies of the victims of the recent Grand Trunk railroad accident have been buried in the city yesterday in one grave. This is the climax of this dreadful affair. Their names are: James A. Smith, John W. Smith, John W. Smith, John W. Smith, John W. Smith, John W. Smith, John W. Smith, John W. Smith, John W. Smith, John W. Smith.

Little Rastus Wiman, who is preaching commercial union through Canada, seems to have been seen in St. John last night. It is the proper way to treat the little Lord of States (his name) if he is to be taught to mind his own business.

There are those who are continually harping on the world's lawlessness and immorality. It is lamentable, but it is as well to shut our eyes to the fact that the human race is peculiarly sensitive to the trifling advances of civilization. Still I question if among a given number of men of today there is less of virtue or patience than there was in the days of the patriarchs. We can therefore take courage from the thought that even though goodness makes little or no headway, she is able to hold her own.

Whoever disobeys the laws of a city or a state profanes himself the center of the infamy of the world. It is ready to his fellow citizens with the laws by which his fellow have agreed to be governed. For this reason it is that no man who is obedient to the law should be dealt with by the law and not by the newspaper, the pulpit, or the platform. If he is so sensitive as it is supposed to be, why should it be allowed to abuse itself upon the words through these channels?

A spirit of perversity dwells within us, every one. They tell me of an old gentleman who many years ago lived in the shadow of the gall. The old gentleman was feeble and it was rare that his walks exceeded a few rods from his own door. Misfortune came upon him and he was placed upon the then limited limits of the gall. When he was brought upon him for freedom to go where he would. The sun shone brighter beyond the gall than he could not pass. At last he was able to sustain himself no longer, and whenever he could do so unobserved he treated himself to a few steps on the gall of liberty.

That familiarity with evil which is the fruit of "many words" is not, promote of morality. I do not know how it is, but if you placed your garden wall with the sign "TALK" every passer by will try to his finger to satisfy himself whether it is a fresh paint or not. Swing a danger signal over an excavation, and every body in the neighborhood will rush out to see whether it is really dangerous or not. Just so with many of the impressions we want to learn experimentally whether they are actually improper or not. It is the old story of Adam and Eve that has been repeated over and over since the days of the garden.

If I were the head of a family I would keep my boys and girls in ignorance of the snares and pitfalls of the world, of the degradation to which humanity sometimes falls, until their own maturing reasons would lead them to seek safety. They should understand that the secular evils which fester in large cities, and which unfortunately they hear of them all, are not imaginary, but are real. Such families believe exist and such I believe are the salt of the earth.

A line in an old skating song, says "There is fun upon the ice, but many admit that fact for the season when the ice is broken, there is fun upon the ice." In the same way, there is fun upon the ice of the old story of Adam and Eve that has been repeated over and over since the days of the garden.

There are some persons who can be lively in a graveyard. Veritable Mark Tapley's. There is some persons who can be lively in a graveyard. Veritable Mark Tapley's. There is some persons who can be lively in a graveyard. Veritable Mark Tapley's.

there are lots of funny pictures to be seen in a crowd if one but looks out for them, and there are numerous studies of human nature offered at the same time. Take for instance the crowd that gathers round the doors and in front of the ticket office of the Mechanics Institute on any occasion of more than ordinary interest, the uneducated and the refined, the noble and the sordid, the patriotic and the selfish, the pharisee and the hypocrite are all represented there and the prominent characteristics of each are historically perceptible as they are impelled by a common desire to procure the piece of memento that gives admission to the hall.

Let us enter the Hall before the joints are full and leisurely make a mental note of the funny incidents that present themselves as the patrons arrive, and there is such a fine of entertainment offered as well establishes the truth of dear old Will Shakespeare's remark: "All the world's a stage." Style, fashion, facial beauty and physical beauty, manner, deportment, refinement, ignorance, education, carelessness, selfishness and unselfishness are contrasted to the quick eye of the observer. Then there are also to be seen specimens of the article known in modern life as the "dude" and there is also the "masher," the heavy card of life and the rustic youth who probably has taken advantage of the favorable season of the year to visit the city with his best girl, and who takes her to the "show" regardless of the cost no longer as she has enjoyment. His devotion is undoubted even if they fall behind the pillars and locate in the wrong seat. An instance of this kind occurred at the theatre the other evening when a young man whose countenance radiated the happiness he was experiencing, accompanied by his wife, and quickly proceeded to the right place. The youth caught the lady's eye, and quickly proceeded to the right place. The youth caught the lady's eye, and quickly proceeded to the right place.

A convict named Labadie, who was under a three years sentence for larceny in regard to the St. Vincent de Paul Society, attempted to handkerchief to the bars of his cell.

The Old Doctors. Drove blood, modern doctors cleanse it; hence the increased demand for Alteratives. It is now well known that most diseases are due, not to over-abundance, but to impurity, of the blood, and it is equally well attested that no blood medicine is so efficacious as Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

Recommended. Give all orders, we send it with marvellous results. The more heated and morbid and irritable, readily returned. - J. J. Armstrong, Westmor, Texas. I find Ayer's Sarsaparilla to be an admirable remedy for the cure of blood diseases. I remember it and it does the work every time. - E. L. Foster, M. D., Massachusetts, Kansas.

ROYAL INSURANCE COMPANY OF LIVERPOOL, ENGLAND, REPRESENTING THE Largest Net Surplus of Any Fire Insurance Co. in the World. J. SIDNEY KAYE, GENERAL AGENT FOR NEW BRUNSWICK. Office, No. 8 Pugsley's - - - Building, Saint John, N. B. Selections from the Poets. SIR WALTER SCOTT. Breathes there a man with soul so dead, Who never to himself hath said, "Why doth my wife so fret and frow?" I'll make her smile on my own nose, Till I have made her smile no more. And lay the blame on a headless ghost, If such there be, to make him woe. In him no dry goods postage sell, Hath thought or felt, but his wife, Besides his wealth, serves his wife, Unless he come to number nine. He is an evidence of sin. Despite his collar, hat and gait, The wretch conceals all in self. Living shall forfeit fair renown, And doubly forfeit that fair name, To the vile dust from whence he came, Unwept, unknown, and unname.

Despite his collar, hat and gait, The wretch conceals all in self. Living shall forfeit fair renown, And doubly forfeit that fair name, To the vile dust from whence he came, Unwept, unknown, and unname.

ROYAL INSURANCE COMPANY OF LIVERPOOL, ENGLAND, REPRESENTING THE Largest Net Surplus of Any Fire Insurance Co. in the World. J. SIDNEY KAYE, GENERAL AGENT FOR NEW BRUNSWICK. Office, No. 8 Pugsley's - - - Building, Saint John, N. B. Selections from the Poets. SIR WALTER SCOTT. Breathes there a man with soul so dead, Who never to himself hath said, "Why doth my wife so fret and frow?" I'll make her smile on my own nose, Till I have made her smile no more. And lay the blame on a headless ghost, If such there be, to make him woe. In him no dry goods postage sell, Hath thought or felt, but his wife, Besides his wealth, serves his wife, Unless he come to number nine. He is an evidence of sin. Despite his collar, hat and gait, The wretch conceals all in self. Living shall forfeit fair renown, And doubly forfeit that fair name, To the vile dust from whence he came, Unwept, unknown, and unname.
