

A pretty story is told of citizen Elizabeth N. J., who went to the cars on Thanksgiving Day to see her daughter off. Having secured a seat for her, he left the car and went round to her window to say a parting word. While he was passing out the daughter left the seat to speak to a friend, and at the same time a young-looking lady who occupied the seat with her moved up to the window. Unaware of the important changes inside, our venerable friend hastily put his face up to the window, and hurriedly exclaimed: "One more kiss sweet pet." In another instant the point of a blue cotton umbrella caught his seductive lips, accompanied by the passionate injunction "Seat, you grey-headed wretch. He's sent."
