COMIC TRIVIA

Longest-Lived Comic Strip

The most durable newspaper comic strip has been the Katzenjammer Kids (Hans and Fritz) created by Rudolph Dirks, first published in the New York Journal on December 12, 1897, and carried on by his son.

The earliest strip was The Yellow Kid which first appeared in the New York Journal on October 18, 1896. The most widely syndicated is "Peanuts" by Charles Schulz, which is syndicated by United Features Syndicate in 26 languages in 2,012 newspapers in 68 countries with an estimated circulation of 78.5 million daily. It began in October, 1950. In 1986, the income from his comic strip brought Schulz an estimated $1 million per month.
