Quote of the Week

"You need to keep your composure to win basketball games."

—That's what Maine Central Institute's head coach Max Good told his basketball team in the gold-medal game of the Rod Shoveller Tournament. Minutes later, one of his players was ejected after throwing a punch in the last minutes of the final, costing Maine the championship.

L'enseignement dans le programme d'immersion française

- · Vous détenez un diplôme universitaire?
- · Vous possédez des compétences en français oral et écrit?
- · Vous vous intéressez à une carrière dans l'enseignement?

Si vous avez répondu par «oui» à chacune de ces trois questions, nous vous invitons à considérer le programme de formation des enseignants en immersion offert par l'Université du Nouveau-Brunswick. Notre programme, unique dans les Provinces de l'Atlantique, comporte soixante unités de valeur portant entre autres sur les fondements de l'éducation et sur la didactique des langues secondes dans une situation d'immersion. Le programme comprend également des stages pratiques dans les classes d'immersion.

"You need composure to win basketball games." That was Maine Central Institute's (MCI) head coach Max Goode's advice to his players. However, his players didn't seem to listen as MCI took an ejection and two players were fouled out in the second half. Dalhousie's Jeff Mayo showed the Huskies how it's done as he remained composed and focused despite an offensive charge and an ailing back. The 6'0" third-year guard from West Northfield paced the Tigers with a game high of 36 points including a three-pointer in the last seconds of the game. He was rewarded with tourney MVP honors. "You have to respect his speed," Goode told his team. Goode used

Mayo as an example, hoping his players will learn from Mayo perform-"You can learn from 23 (Mayo)," said the former NCAA coach. "He plays smart."

It took the Dalhousie women's volleyball team less than an hour to defeat cross-town rivals, the Saint Mary's Huskies at Dalplex last Tuesday. Dal swept SMU 3-0 with game scores of 15-10, 15-6 and 15-4.

"We executed the game plan perfectly," said assistant coach Mark Burley. "We worked all week for "Everything came together for us," agreed Dalhousie's Jenn Parkes.

The top performers for the Tigers came from the middle blockers including Kim Sheppard with 8 kills. Alicia MacFarlane and Cherie Campbell with 7 and 5 kills respectively. Dal, ranked fifth in AUAA, is away this weekend to face the University of Prince Edward Island Panthers. The Tigers are looking for big wins from the winless Panthers who are 0-7 this season. Look for the Tigers at home at the Lawton's Vollevball Classic on January 20-22.
