Visit of King and Queen to Canada in 1939 gave to millions of Canadians a sense of personal acquaintance.-

- impossible to over-estimate impression
made by that visit.
  - enabled people to see for themselves the persons of the sovereigns.
  - made real and personal the sense of affection
long felt.
  - enabled all Canadians to see and appreciate in a personal way the sincerity, simplicity, and devotion to public duty of which they had been well aware, but in a less personal manner.
- Have been happy to see that visit to Union of South Africa last year has had like result.
- feel sure same will be true of visit to New Zealand and Australia in 1949.
