Flock of the most approved type. We offer good animals at reasonable prices.

W. D. MONKMAN, BOND HEAD, ONT.

A London urchin ran into a baker shop, and, placing a half-penny on the counter, asked nervously and timidly: "Mister, 'ave you a 'alf-penny buster (bun)?"

"Yes, my little man, here is one quite hot."

"Thanks, mister, would you mind a-shovin' it down my back?"

"Down your back, my little man! Why down your back?"

"Cos, sir, I'm only a little 'un, and if those chaps outside know I've a buster they'll take it, and I am so 'ungry, I am."

"Dear me; how wrong of them! Come around here, my little chap. There—there, it is down your back."

The boy ran off. In an instant another entered—a bigger boy.

"I say, mister, 'as a little boy just been in 'ere?"

"Yes."

"And did 'e buy a 'alf-penny buster?"

"Yes."

"And did 'e ask you to shove it down 'is back, as us big fellows would take it?"

"Yes."

"Yah! Where's your watch and chain? 'E's got 'em; 'e's just around the corner."

Out rushed the baker. In a trice the big fellow collared the till and bolted.

The shopman never saw the comic side of it at all.

THE ESSENTIALS OF A GOOD COW TIE.

The method of tying cows is important. A satisfactory cow tie is one that will secure the cow safely, keep her clean, and get at the same time allow as much freedom of the head as possible. There are two general means of tying cows in the stable, one is by a chain hooked about the neck, and either fastened to the manger board, or, preferably, sliding up and down on a rod or pole; the other is by means of stanchions. A chain tie properly arranged allows considerable freedom to the cow. She can move the head up and down readily enough, and do most of the other things which a cow tied up needs to do, but it has a number of disadvantages, chief of which is that by allowing the cow to move forwards and backwards it increases the chances of soiling her bed. On the whole, the chain tie does not seem to be so much favored nowadays as the stanchion.

A swing stanchion, fastened at the top and bottom with a short chain, answers every requirement for convenient, safe and comfortable tie, and can be installed at a moderate cost.

NEW JERSEY STALLION BILL.

Governor Fort, of New Jersey, has signed a bill appropriating $20,000 for the improvement of horse-breeding in that State. A commission, whose personnel must combine integrity, intelligence and a practical understanding of the subject, has been appointed to put the law into effect. An examining board has been selected from among these gentlemen, whose duty it is to inspect all stallions standing for service—either public or private—and rendering a decision as to their fitness for breeding purposes. Stallions not approved by this board will be condemned as regards their employment for breeding purposes. The violation of the law as laid down in this bill will result in a fine of $50 for the first offence, and $100 for the second, according to a recent issue of the Rider & Driver. This is a very progressive stride for the breed of horses in the State of New Jersey—and is one worthy of emulation in States where horse-breeding is either a prospective or established industry. It is also hoped that this will have a tendency to increase interest in the breeding classes of horse shows and other exhibitions.

PHOSPHATE FOR HOGS.

The farmer who has provided himself with a few bags of raw ground phosphate rock will find it an excellent thing to sprinkle a little on the floor of the pen every day. The hogs will root for it greedily. Two years ago, says Hoard's Dairyman, we studied the phosphate experiment made with pigs at the Wisconsin Experiment Station. It was most convincing of the truth of the statement we have made. Three pens of pigs, of three each, were taken for the experiment. One lot was fed as farmers ordinarily feed hogs; the second lot was fed the same as the first, except that a little phosphate was added to their food daily. The effect was astonishing in the increased vigor and strength of the second lot. But it was with the third lot that the full truth was unfolded.

This lot was fed food from which all the phosphate had been extracted, but the process left all other elements, such as the nitrogen and potash, in full strength. The effect of this loss of phosphate on these pigs was very striking. They were stunted in size, though well covered with fat, and at the stage of the experiment we saw them they could not stand on their legs a minute. Get one of them upon his feet for a moment and he would commence to falter at once.

Here was a lesson in the principles of nutrition that was very valuable to the man who can take it in. Phosphorus is one of the most important elements we have for the support of the brain, nerve and bone in animal life, and for seed growth in plants.

We have always noticed that our own hogs will at once commence to root in and eat the ground phosphate when we sprinkle it on the floor of their pens. A small handful each day to each hog is valuable for the animal and the greater efficiency of the manure.
