Ambiguity means telling the truth when you don't mean to.

An anachronism is a thing a man puts in writing in the past before it has taken place in the future.

Why Men Sleep in Church.

A Milwaukee preacher has made a wonderful discovery. He says that the reason men fall asleep in church is because they take such intense interest in the sermon and the preacher that they really hypnotize themselves—and so fall asleep. The women, he says, escape because they do not take such intense interest in the sermon. The point seems to be that the less interest one takes the more likely he is to stay awake, i. e., the sleepers are really the most interested listeners.

Evidently the Milwaukee man has slipped a cog somewhere in his argument, but it is a good thing to have such a charitable construction placed upon what is, to most preachers, such a heinous offence.—Christian Guardian.

DISGRACE AND ARREST.

It was not until they had reached the railway station that Richard Duvall roused himself from the stupor in which he had sat ever since he and his wife had driven away from Dr. Hartmann's. When their baggage had been deposited on the platform, under the care of a solicitous porter, and the cabman had been paid and gone his way, Grace asked her husband concerning their destination.

"Shall we go to Antwerp?" she said listlessly. "We can get a steamer there, or cross to England?" She awaited his reply without interest. It seemed so matter very little where they went, now.

Duvall turned to the waiting porter. "When is the next train for Paris?" he asked. The man answered at once, glancing at the clock in the waiting-room.

"In forty minutes, monsieur. You will have time for rolls and coffee."

"Paris!" exclaimed Grace in much surprise. "Why should we go to Paris, dear? I don't care about the things I left there. We can telegraph for them. Oh, Richard, I can't go back and face M. Lefevre now." She looked eagerly at his face, but its expression told her nothing.

"I must make my report to the prefect," he answered. "It is my duty."

Over their simple breakfast he was uncommunicative.

"Don't worry, dear," he said once when she had plied him with questions and attempted to change his decision by arguments.

"I cannot afford to run away. M. Lefevre has given me a duty to perform, and I must at least tell him my story. After that we can go to America, but not now."

She could get no more out of him, and with tears in her eyes, followed him to the compartment in the Paris train which the porter had secured for them. There were few people travelling at this early hour. They had their compartment to themselves. Duvall rolled himself in his overcoat and lay down upon one of the seats.

"I am very tired, dear," he told her. "I have suffered a frightful strain. My eyes hurt so that I can scarcely see. I am sick for want of sleep. There is a hard task before me when I get to Paris. I must have a little rest."

He turned his face away from the light and lay quiet, breathing heavily.

Grace sat huddled up in a corner of the opposite seat watching him, a great tenderness in her eyes. After all, she thought, he was her husband, the man she loved, and if he had appeared to her the part of a traitor to his country, it was only because she, by her weakness, had given him, had forced him to do so.

As the train started, he had the air of a man whose thought had been saved from disgrace and disaster. He had given the blame for his own weakness to his own country.

Read What A Satisfied User of a B-L-K Has To Say:---

Ottawa, Ont., Nov. 4, 1913.

Messrs. D. Derbyshire & Co., Brockville, Ont.

Gentlemen: Re your favor of recent date asking for a report of results on my "B-L-K" Milker, would say: I am still perfectly satisfied with same. I have been using the machine for about eight months, and have not lost a single milking, and would not think of going back to the old method of hand milking.

I may add that previous to making my decision in choice of machines I had another make in on trial for thirty days, but had no hesitation in making a decision in favor of the B-L-K as it suited me best in every way.

Wishing you every success with the machine.

I remain,

Yours truly,
(Sgd.) E. A. PARSON.

P.S.—If you know of any person in my district who would like to see the machine working I should be pleased to take him out to my farm and show him all.—E. A. Parson.

The object of a milking machine is not simply to draw some of the milk. Almost any kind of a sucking or squeezing device will do that. A successful milker must continue to get all the milk and do it in such a way that the milk giving ability of the cow will be developed and the maximum yearly yield of milk be obtained.

A good milker must be simple, easy to keep in order and to operate, and so constructed that the milk is kept free from dirt.

Every one of these requirements is fully met in the present Burrell-Lawrence-Kennedy Milker

To those interested we shall be happy to send circular matter describing our "Simplex" Link-Blade Cream Separators, "Simplex" Regenerative Pasteurizers, "Simplex" Combined Churn and Butter Workers, "Simplex" Cream Ripeners, Facile Babcock Milk Testers, and other apparatus and supplies for Dairies, Creameries and Cheese Factories.
