

NEWS FROM IRELAND.

Wicklow.
Lord Waterford recently increased the rents of his Wicklow tenants, and, in some cases, the increase ran from 50 to 100 per cent. over the Government valuation! It is but right to say that in fixing the rents at this figure, Lord Waterford enjoyed the advantage of having the co-operation of the Chief Land Commissioners.

Kildare.
A largely attended meeting, in connection with the National League, was held on August 15, at Old Kilcullen. Mr. Leahy, M. P., and Mr. Harrington, M. P., were among the principal speakers. Resolutions were passed, expressing confidence in the leadership of Mr. Parnell, renewing the demand for the restoration of the Irish Parliament, calling for a final settlement of the Land question, and for the amendment of the Landlord's Act, demanding a satisfactory solution of the Irish University question, and pledging themselves to use all their power to send two National representatives into Parliament.

On Aug. 15, a demonstration was made by the laborers of the county Limerick at Kilmone. The complaints as to their condition were repeated, and resolutions demanding an amelioration of their lot, and calling upon the Irish party to support the present Government in abolishing the House of Lords, were adopted.

A movement has been set on foot in Limerick to raise a monetary testimonial on behalf of the families of John Daly and James F. Egan, who were lately convicted of treason-felony at the Warwick Assizes. Already a number of subscriptions have been received.

At the Murree Petty Sessions, on August 12, a somewhat curious case was heard, in which a caretaker placed on a farm on Lord Cloncurry's property by the Lord Corporation was charged with refusing to give up possession of the holding he was placed in care of when demanded on the part of the company. A decree for possession was granted, as also in some similar cases.

Tipperary.
At a large and influentially attended meeting held at Tipperary, on August 8, in support of the meeting to indemnify Mr. William O'Brien, M. P., in connection with the recent Castelelland trial in Dublin, a committee of twenty members was appointed to collect subscriptions, and a considerable sum was handed in.

The extraordinary regard in which his Grace of Cashel is held by the great mass of the people, even outside his own diocese, was well exemplified in the incident which took place at his Grace's house on August 10. His Grace had made a detour, in order to avoid a demonstration, but the townsfolk were not to be balked in their desire to give him an Irish welcome. They surged out in thousands towards Templemore to intercept him, and so affectionately their demonstrations, that the Archbishop found himself compelled to alter his course, and journey with them towards the town. Here an address of welcome, couched in happy terms, was read by Count O'Brien, to which the Archbishop replied in sympathetic terms. If the stranger, who is not used to the exhibition of such ties between Prelate and people, wants to find out the secret he needs only take up the report of the sermon preached the next day by the Archbishop. In that splendid oratorical effort the priest and the patriot are equally reflected. The Archbishop is an Irishman who is proud of his country and his countrymen, and he has an abiding faith in the triumph of the principles for which they are struggling. He understands them, and they him. That is the whole mystery.

Waterford.
Mr. F. H. O'Donnell, one of the cranks of the Irish Party in Parliament, is likely to lose his seat for Dungarvan if he does not get on his good behavior before the general election. The Dungarvan people want their man to work cordially with Mr. Parnell. This apparently Mr. O'Donnell is not willing to do. He gives little time or attention to Irish business in the House of Commons, but he writes long letters to the papers criticising, in a very caustic and unfriendly spirit, the policy and proceedings of his colleagues.

Antrim.
On August 11, an important meeting was held in St. Mary's Hall, Belfast, to open a fund for the indemnification of Mr. Wm. O'Brien. The subscriptions announced on the spot amounted to over £30, and included a contribution of £5 from the Most Rev. Dr. Dorrian. The fact that a Bishop of Dr. Dorrian's standing in Ulster places himself at the head of this movement is a circumstance that augurs well for its success. That the people will carry the matter to a successful issue there is little room to doubt. Northern Nationalists, of all men, have most cause to understand and appreciate the character of a Belfast Orange jury.

Arrangah.
The political situation in Ulster is gradually resolving itself into a stand-up fight between the Tory faction and the National party. The Whigs are politically dead. Thus in Arrangah for the coming revision sessions a large number of claims, while the Whigs are taking no part in the registration battle.

A good-looking young lady, twenty-one years of age, who had expectations of a considerable fortune, has eloped with a laborer double her age, who was employed by her aunt at Arrangah. The two met at the railway station, and took tickets for Glasgow, where they were married. The young lady then acquainted her friends by telegram of the step she had taken, and was told in reply that aunt, who had promised to leave her property to her, had cast her off and would not give her a penny.

A great National and Home Rule demonstration was held at Lurgan, on August 15. The local band met the Belfast Band, who came for the occasion.

Here is a striking proof of the steady progress of popular opinion in very unexpected quarters in the North. On August 9th, the Ballymena Board of Guardians adopted, by a large majority, a strongly worded resolution of the Youghal Board of Guardians in favor of local self-government in Ireland!

Newcastle, on Aug. 15th, was the rendezvous for an excursion of Nationalists of the surrounding districts. The total strength of the gathering may be fairly estimated at between three and four thousand persons. The following bands accompanied the various contingents, viz.—Castellellan Young Blood Brass Band, Downpatrick St. Patrick's Flute Band, Ballee St. Joseph's Flute Band, Anasloy Star of Freedom Flute Band, Ballydonnan St. Malachy's Flute Band. There was a slight drizzling rain while the excursionists marched through the town and during their stay. There was no speechmaking, but notwithstanding this there was no sign of torpidity among the members of the excursion.

Monaghan.
A great demonstration was held, on August 15th, at Monaghan. Canon Healy presided, and among the speakers were Messrs. Healy, Sullivan, O'Brien, and Biggar, M. P's. A banquet took place in the evening. Mr. Healy was the central figure in a demonstration which may well be regarded as marking an epoch in the history of popular gatherings in the North. Priests from the four corners of the county, magistrates, merchants, traders, and the representative men of every class headed the farmers and laborers of Monaghan, who crowded in to hear their members' first formal account of his stewardship. Such a magnificent meeting would be a striking manifestation of popular power in any part of the country, but it is signally so in the Province of Ulster and in the shadow of Lord Rossmore's mansion. Of course that spirit of nobility and his pen-and-ink legions were prevented from putting in an appearance by "circumstances over which they had no control." Having brayed his bay in the newspapers against Mr. Parnell, the decay of England, and the Church of Rome, Lord Rossmore wisely allowed his terrific threats and reserved himself for another occasion and another manifesto.

Derry.
Where, and oh! where have the glories of the Twelfth of August gone? In Derry the absurd annual ceremony called "the shutting of the gates" was gone through as usual; but, though the "Prentice Boys" had been reinforced by some Orange lodges from county districts, when they went to hold an open-air meeting on the old wall near Walker's Monument, they could not muster up even a hundred persons, nor could these be warmed up into enthusiasm.

Donegal.
Good news from Greedore! The evicted tenants are in their former homes again. They are as yet only caretakers; but their good priest, Father McFadden, has hopes that, with the assistance of patriotic and charitable friends, he may be able to long to bring about their reinstatement as ordinary tenants. In the performance of this task the worthy pastor will doubtless experience no little trouble; but, with a heart that never falters, he has determined to accomplish his purpose; and he will succeed.

Galway.
The revelations in reference to the Maamtrasna tragedy have excited intense interest throughout the district. The police authorities have been unusually prompt in instituting inquiries, with what object or what result, however, remains to be seen.

Sligo.
The government have behaved shamefully to Mr. Fitzgerald and the Tubercular prisoners. Six of them have been released on bail, after the most strenuous efforts by the Irish Party, but five are still confined in prison and will be detained there for another two months without bail in spite of the solemn pledge of the Solicitor-General that they should be arraigned at the Summer Assizes. What reliance can be placed on the pledge of an Irish Minister when Mr. Walker's promise in the House of Commons can be over-ruled at the dictation of some irresponsible local official? Still it may be, after the confessions of Philbin and Casey, that Mr. Fitzgerald and his comrades will not lose by the delay, as even a Dublin jury must not be slow to accept the testimony of murderer and highwayman Delany. When the informers in the Maamtrasna case declare that they were obliged to send an innocent man to the gallows to escape punishment, even special juries may reflect that a convict undergoing a life sentence would hardly hesitate about being the means of getting men sent to penal servitude merely for ten years in order to save himself.

The Cunard steamer, which arrived at Queenstown, on August 11, from Boston, brought Patrick Leyden, his wife and five children, who were sent back by the Massachusetts authorities, being unable to take charge of themselves, and about to become a burden on the taxpayers. The circumstances connected with this family are very heartrending. On landing, it appears, Leyden had 10s. which defrayed his expenses for one night, and he, with his family, made towards the railway terminus, and on the roadside made a bed, placing his five children thereon, a box or two and other small traps being placed around to protect the children. A large crowd congregated, uttering words of sympathy, but no one in authority or of half of the Local Government Board or the poor-law institutions came forward to give them a night's lodging. Leyden states that he emigrated to America about six years hence, and in the month of May, last year, his wife and five children were assisted to emigrate to Worcester, Mass., from the Boyle Union, county Roscommon, contrary to his wishes, as his small wages were only sufficient to maintain himself. After his wife and family had joined him he sustained an injury to one of his legs, which incapacitated him from laboring for their support. The man was engaged at railway work when he met the accident. However, they managed to eke out a living for a little time until they had become a public charge, and then the authorities sent them back, procuring a free passage by the ocean steamer. Owing to the humane exertions of some gentlemen at Queenstown, and notably, Mr. Fitzgerald, P. L. G., the Leyden family were relieved from the necessity of living in the streets all night. A collection was set on foot, and a sufficient sum was procured to enable Leyden and his family to obtain food and lodging.

THE STAGE-DRIVER'S STORY.

How General Scott's Life was Saved and How His Driver Twice Escaped Death.

The traveler of the present day, as he is hurried along by the lightning express, in his buffet cars and palace sleepers, seldom reverts in thought to the time when the stage coach and packet were the only means of communication between distant points. It is rare that one of the real old-time stage drivers is met with now-a-days and when the writer recently ran across Fayette Haskell, of Lockport, N. Y., he felt like a bibliographer over the discovery of some rare volume of "forgotten lore." Mr. Haskell, although one of the pioneers in stage driving (he formerly ran from Lewiston to Niagara Falls and Buffalo), is hale and hearty and bids fair to live for many years. The strange stories of his early adventures would fill a volume. At one time when going down a mountain near Lewiston with no less a personage than General Scott as a passenger, the brakes gave way and the coach came on the heels of the wheel horses. The only remedy was to whip the leaders to a gallop. Gaining additional momentum with each revolution of the wheels the coach swayed and pitched down the mountain side into the streets of Lewiston. Straight ahead at the foot of the steep hill flowed the Niagara river, towards which the four horses dashed, apparently to certain death. Yet the hand never relaxed its hold nor the clear brain its conception of what must be done in the emergency. On dashed the horses until the narrow track was reached, the river bank, when by a masterly exhibition of nerve and daring, the coach was turned in scarce its own length and the horses brought to a stand still before the pale lookers on could realize what had occurred. A purse was raised by General Scott and presented to Mr. Haskell with high compliments for his skill and bravery.

Notwithstanding all his strength and his robust constitution the strain of continuous work and exposure proved too much for Mr. Haskell's constitution. The constant jolting of the coach and the necessarily cramped position in which he was obliged to sit, contributed to this end, and at times he was obliged to abandon driving altogether.

Speaking of this period he said: "I found it almost impossible to sleep at night; my appetite left me entirely, and I had a tired feeling which I never knew before and could not account for." "Did you give up driving entirely?" "No. I tried to keep up but it was only with the greatest effort. This state of things continued for nearly twenty years until last October when I went all to pieces."

"In what way?" "Oh, I doubled all up, could not walk without a cane and was incapable of any effort or exertion. I had a constant tremor, both day and night, and although I felt like passing a gallon every ten minutes only a few drops could escape and they thick with sediment. Finally it ceased to flow entirely and I thought death was very near."

"What did you do then?" "What I should have done long before: listen to my wife. Under her advice I began a new treatment."

"And with what result?" "Wonderful. It unstopped the closed passages and what was still in my head fell out. My appetite returned and I am now well and good for twenty more years wholly thanks to the aid of Warner's Safe Cure that has done wonders for me as well as for so many others."

"Mr. Haskell's experience is repeated every day in the lives of thousands of American men and women. An unknown evil is undermining the existence of an innumerable number who are not realizing the danger they are in until health has already departed, and then it is too late to start the race. To neglect such important matters is like drifting in the current of Niagara above the Falls."

Hardened Liver.
Five years ago I broke down with kidney and liver complaint and rheumatism. Since then I have been unable to be about at all. My liver became hard like wood; my limbs were puffed up and filled with water.

All the best physicians agreed that nothing could cure me. I resolved to try Hop Bitters. I have used seven bottles; the hardness has all gone from my liver, the swelling from my limbs, and it has worked a miracle in my case; otherwise I would have been now in my grave. J. W. MOREY, Buffalo, Oct. 1, 1881.

Poverty and Suffering.
"I was dragged down with debt, poverty and suffering for years, caused by a sick family and large bills for doctoring. I was completely discouraged, until one year ago, by the advice of my pastor, I commenced using Hop Bitters, and in one month we were all well, and none of us have seen a sick day since, and I want to say to all poor men, you can keep your families well a year with Hop Bitters for less than one doctor's visit will cost. I know it."—A WORKINGMAN.

Mrs. A. Nelson, Brantford, writes: "I was a sufferer from Chronic Dyspepsia for eleven years. Always after eating, an intense burning sensation in the stomach, at times very distressing, caused a drooping and languid feeling, which would last for several hours after eating. I was recommended by Mr. Popplewell, Chemist, of our city, to try Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure, and I am thankful to say that I have not been better for years; that burning sensation and languid feeling has all gone, and food does not lie heavy on my stomach. Others of my family have used it with best results. Sold by Harkness & Co., Druggists, Dundas St."

A Strong Endorsement.
The Clergy, the Medical Faculty, the Press and the People all endorse Burdock Blood Bitters as the best system-renewing, blood-purifying tonic known. Its work bears out their best recommendation.

Few are the remedies whose beneficial qualities and real merits have made them so popular with the public, and increased from year to year their consumption, which, whilst possessing the most valuable remedial properties, are yet so simple in their composition, and so easy to take, as the Quinine Wine, prepared by Northrop & Lyman of Toronto. This article is prepared from the pure sulphate of Quinine, combined with fine Sherry Wine, and choice aromatics, which relieves the Quinine of its bitter taste, and does not impair in the least degree the efficacy of its action upon the patient; while small doses, frequently repeated, strengthen the pulse, increase muscular force, and invigorate the tone of the nervous system, and thus, by the general vigor which it imparts, creates an appetite, which gives to the stomach tone and energy, and fortifies the system against all infectious diseases. Ask for Northrop & Lyman's Quinine Wine. Sold by all druggists.

Respect Age.
Age should always command respect. In the case of Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry it certainly does, for 25 years that has been the standard remedy with the people, for Cholera, Morbus, Dysentery, Diarrhoea, Colic and all Bowel Complaints.

An Ex-Alderman Tried It.
Ex-Alderman Taylor, of Toronto, tried Hagar's Yellow Oil for Rheumatism. It cured him after all other remedies had failed.

GOOD THE YEAR ROUND.—National Pills are a good blood purifier, liver regulator, and mild purgative for all seasons. Orion Catlin, 49 Pearl Street, Buffalo, N. Y., says: "I tried various remedies for the piles, but found no relief until I used Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil, which entirely cured me, after a few applications." Since Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil has become celebrated, unprincipled persons are imitating it. Get the genuine.

The Signs of Worms are well known, but the remedy is not always so well determined. Worm Powders will destroy them.

Worms often cause serious illness. The cure is Dr. Low's Worm Syrup. It destroys and expels Worms effectually.
