MANY CASES IN COURT

Magistrate Starnes Had Busy Morning Session

Several Nominal Fines Imposed - Cropper May Get it in the Neck.

S. Johnson was brought up again at the police court this morning, in the case of selling from a room without a license in which decision was reserved at yesterday's court for the opinion of the city solicitor. Mr. Donaghy was in attendance and said that as the accused had since taken out a license a small fine might meet the case.

Albert Smith, a white waiter, and Sam Cropper, the colored janitor of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, had a little scrap on Front street this morning and were charged with "d. and d." Smith, on advice of counsel, pleaded guilty. The officer who made the arrest said he ordered the two men to move on and then Smith struck the colored man and knocked him down. Smith said that last fall Cropper had cut his prisoner's finger to the bone with a razor, and he had been waiting for a chance to get even. He was given 15 and costs or five days.

Cropper said they had some trouble last year and this morning Smith "done struck me and knocked me out. I never knew I was arrested until I woke up in the lockup. Drunk! No, sir; not no more not I am now." Magistrate Starnes said there seemed to be nothing against him in the present case, but as he had previously been in court he was cautioned, "If you ever come here again you will get it in the neck."

The case of the King vs. Leonard L. Ginsberg, a charge of perjury, was called but it was reported that the defendant had not been served. Later he walked into the court room and requested a continuance until Monday, which, after some discussion, was agreed to. The accused is charged with having committed perjury in two particulars: first, in having made a representation of work done on claim No. 1, Milk gulch, the prosecution claiming that no such work was done, and secondly with swearing to the same in the gold commissioner's court. Mr. Shannon appears for the prosecution.

A. H. Anderson was up for being drunk and disorderly and pleaded guilty. The officer said he was looking for another man named Anderson and spoke to the defendant in a saloon. The latter got very indignant and said he would take the stripes of the officer. The latter told him to cache himself but ten minutes later the same Anderson returned and declared the officer could not take him to jail. The officer proved to him that he was mistaken and for talking back to a policeman Captain Starnes fined him 12 and costs.

Harry Woolridge and William Hingst had a little mix-up on Front street shortly after midnight and Corporal Piper also took a hand in it. They were charged with riotous and disorderly conduct and fined 22 each and costs.
