

THE SUNLIGHT WAY

Sunlight Soap is better than other soaps, but is best when used in the Sunlight way (follow directions).

Hard rubbing and boiling are things of the past in homes where Sunlight Soap is used as directed.

Sunlight Soap will not injure even the daintiest fabric or the hands, and the clothes will be perfectly white, woollens soft and fluffy.

The reason for this is because Sunlight Soap is absolutely pure, contains no injurious chemicals—indeed, nothing but the active, cleansing, dirt-removing properties of soap that is nothing but soap.

CARTS IN SCOTLAND.

They Were a Cause of Wonder in the Eighteenth Century.

In Scotland at the beginning of the eighteenth century produce was carried in sacks on horseback or on sledges, or later in the century on tumblers, which were sledges on "tumbling" wheels of solid wood with wooden axletrees, all revolving together. These machines were often so small that in a narrow passage the cart could lift them bodily, for they held little more than a wheelbarrow. They had wheels a foot and a half in diameter, made of three pieces of wood joined together like a butter flin, and which quickly wore out and became utterly shapeless, so that a load of 600 pounds was enormous for the "farish" animals to drag. Yet even these vehicles were triumphs of civilization when they came into use when the century was young.

Carting is a later invention still, and it was not until 1723, first carried its tiny load of coals from East Kilbride to umbuslang, "crowds of people," it is reported, "went to see the wonderful machine. They looked with surprise and returned with astonishment." In many parts of the lowlands they were not in ordinary use, even till 1760, while in the northern districts sledges or creels on the backs of women were chiefly employed to the end of the century. The wretched condition of the roads was the chief cause of the reluctant adoption of carts.

In the driest weather the roads were unfit for carriages and in wet weather almost impassable, even for horses—deep in ruts of mire, covered with stones, winding up heights and down hills to avoid swamps and bogs. It was this precarious state of the roads which obliged judges to ride on circuit, and a practice began as a physical necessity was retained as a dignified habit, so that in 1744 Lord Dun resigned his judgeship because he was no longer able to "ride on circuit."—Scottish Review.

LIFE IN ANCIENT GREECE.

No Remains Whatever of Grecian Domestic Architecture.

Of the domestic architecture of the Greeks nothing whatever remains, writes Joan Schooner in the Architectural Record Magazine. In ancient Greece private houses never had any architectural interest. A citizen of Athens or Sparta was too busy with state affairs to spend much time at home. He wanted to be in the public place where he could find his friends and fellow citizens. Moreover, the climate allowed him to live in the open air during the greater part of the year. It was on the agora that the citizens assembled in public meeting. It was there, from a rostrum, that the orators harangued the crowd; hence the need of a good voice and a clear enunciation; hence, too, the famous pebbles of Demosthenes. It was in the open air that Socrates and the sophists held their discussions alongside the Lysians, under the plane trees or on a public place. It was in the academy gardens that Plato patronized and in open air gymnasia that the youths practiced their athletic games. There was no reason of detour for a domestic architecture with such a people and in such a climate. It is not necessary to have palatial administrative buildings for governing a people that live in the public places. Besides, what significance would the term comfort, which is so full of meaning to us twentieth century westerners, living in cold, damp climates where fog, wind and rain prevail during half the year—what sense, we ask, would this word have for the robust Greeks of the fifth century B. C., whose children Aristophanes pictures to us on their way to school bareheaded, in spite of the falling snow, and singing as they go?

LOOKING TO WINTER.

Autumnal Renovation of Heat and Light Apparatus.

It is after vacation days are ended that the real home life begins and we wish everything at its freshest and best for the season of good cheer that is to follow. Merchants and manufacturers understand this, and infinite pains are taken to have ready the latest findings and conveniences for the autumnal shopper.

When the house has been thrown wide open to the sun and air after its whole or partial closing for the summer the first thing is to go over it carefully, taking account of stock to see what needs repairing or what should be replaced. And just here it should be remembered that it is the poorest kind of economy to put a large amount of money into the repair of something that is not good of its kind or that has long since served its purpose when a little additional outlay will replace it with something far better.

This applies particularly to the plumbing and heating. There is no middle road between good plumbing and bad. If there is the slightest doubt as to its integrity, have it attended to at once.

Range and Furnace. Are the pipes damp and rusty of either furnace or stove? Replace them and the notice from the "rattiest" of the kitchen "the pipes is busted on me" the fire won't burn" brings widespread consternation in its wake.

Is the lining to the kitchen range all right? Do the various drafts and dampers do their allotted work? Does the stove smoke or the oven fail to bake? Consider it carefully. If the cracks can be closed with cement or a new lining be put in with the assurance that nothing more is needed, well and good. If, on the contrary, you are running the chance of being inconvenienced all winter long, economize on something else and get a new, first class, guaranteed stove with all the latest improvements. If the old furnace is out of repair, now is the time to replace it with one that is new and not liable to leave you in the lurch in the dead of winter.—Ladies' World.

A STRONG HEART AND STEADY NERVES

Very important it is in this age of competition to have a clear cool head, a strong heart and steady nerves. Too much rush and bustle, work and worry, fall to the lot of the average business man—his heart and nerve system will not stand it—he gives them too much work to do. Women also are doing the same thing attending to their household duties and looking after their social obligations. The constant strain under which they have to continue day in and day out, the irregularities of habits and loss of rest will soon shatter the strongest system. Before long you become nervous, starting at the least sudden sound, the heart flutters and palpitates, specks float before the eyes, the pulse becomes weak and irregular, you have faint and dizzy spells, lack of self-confidence, rush of blood to the head, irritability of temper, shortness of breath, starting in sleep, sensation of pins and needles, sleeplessness, restlessness and finally physical breakdown or nervous prostration.

THE ONLY WAY.

We are a hustling people, we—determined to arrive; To get where we the show can see We strenuously strive. We want to be of those that win. Of those that take the pay. And this creates the butter-in When there's no other way.

Of course it's nice to be of those Unto the manner born. Who are a part of all the shows And never left forlorn. But they are few who stand within Dame Fortune's favored ray, So you must be a butter-in When there's no other way.

Much talk there is of dignity, Of cultivated pride. But he who basks on these you'll see Ignobly shoved aside. There are some things you'll hate like sin, Your hair turn gray, But it's up to the butter-in When there's no other way.

The man who stands in pensive pose Is jostled by the throng; Crushed are his horns and bumped his nose. His patient wait is long. Bewildered by the clang and din, He'll in the background stay, Unless he turns a butter-in When there's no other way.

Modern Weapon.

If Cupid were up to date instead of going around with a back number bow and arrow the chubby little unadorned mischief maker would hang them on the wall as relics and get a neat little shopping bag filled with love microbes. Then when the young man was loosened ing up and buying two small glasses of red lemonade the little chap could slip up behind and drop a few microbes in each glass and they would do the rest.

Strange that as bright a boy as Cupid never thought of that before. If instead of fiddling around like an Indian he would bring science to his aid he could have the whole world married off in about four weeks. Then he could spend the other eleven months in sack cloth and ashes repenting what he had done. As it is, he is kept so busy that he gets no time to repent.

The Secret.

No wonder that the men who sit around the dinner table To settle the affairs of state Orhand out quite are able. They have a chance without expense To get first hand much good horse sense.

Proved It to Him.

"He has written a great play." "How does he know it is so wonderful?" "No one will produce it for him."

Theoretical Knowledge.

"He can't understand why the boys do not remain on the farm." "Was he never there?"

Help Him Up.

Oh, pity the man with a jag on. Who sees snakes and bugs and a dragon! Oh, lend him a hand And help him to land High up on the tall water wagon!

PERT PARAGRAPHS.

The reason why some people can't train their minds is because they have no material to work on. Boys who sass back are apt to get their punishment by growing up into married men who daren't. Patience, perseverance and practice are the winning cards that widows bank on. The man who lives in a boarding house is apt to think that the whole world is full of prunes. The easier a man falls in love the bigger chunks of experience he accumulates. A new engagement ring makes a girl wonderfully fond of calling upon her acquaintances. If we could all of us reach the top it wouldn't be the top. Some people can't take a vacation because they haven't anything to vacate. No sane man was ever in love, but that doesn't disconcert the lover. Opportunity is a knocker that people like to meet. Don't stand fault with yourself; your friends will attend to that.

A Claim For Lost Beauty.

Monseur Durand, a respectable middle-aged citizen of a French provincial town, says The Figaro, is married to a charming lady of prepossessing appearance. The couple led a quiet and contented life together until Whiskey last month, when Madame Durand left home to go to church.

On the road an officer of the dragons came cantering along. Whether it was Madame's bright red dress or the nodding white feathers in her hat, has not yet been fully established, but the officer's horse first shied, then got out of hand, and rushing at the approaching figure, knocked Madame Durand down. The poor lady was badly bruised and became unconscious. Conveyed home, it was found that her face was badly lacerated, necessitating several stitches. A month passed, and notwithstanding the surgeon's skill, scars remained which permanently disfigured Madame's beauty.

The husband, however, instituted legal proceedings against the officer who rode the horse for damages, the claim being worked in the following quaint terms:— "Whereas complainant, whose wife's beauty of face is now completely ruined, has suffered the loss of the enjoyment of the said beauty through defendant's culpable action, plaintiff considers himself entitled to compensation." After this, it may cause some surprise that the value at Mr. Durand assesses his loss is—$100.

The story is told of an old Roman hero who desired to found a great city, and for a sum of gold he purchased from a barbarian tribe as much land as he could cover with the skin of an ox. By cutting the hide skillfully into one long strip, he encompassed enough space to establish a stronghold. The human skin is full of little tubes, which are called sweat-glands. If all these glands were unraveled and laid end to end, they would be long enough to fence in an area of over a square mile! When they are all working properly they rid the body of two quarts of poisonous matter every 24 hours. If the surface of the skin is not kept clean and the mouths of these minute tubes open and free, all the substances extracted from the blood will be forced back into the system. Suitable bathing and rubbing will keep the outside clean, but the inside must be kept free of impurities. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and "Pleasant Pellets" relieve the glands of much unnecessary work, by opening up the bowels and kidneys. The strain is relieved; the bloom of youth returns; the mind feels clearer, and the body becomes stronger and more able to resist disease. The common sign of the business man's slavery is "weak stomach," the natural consequence of the rapid eating, the indigestible pastry, the coffee and pie or doughnuts, with which many a man stuffs his stomach under the name of "quick lunch." The best way to get a strong stomach and sound health is to use Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery until perfectly cured.

TORONTO LIVE STOCK.

Receipts of stock on the city cattle market yesterday showed a marked decline from those of last Thursday. Deliveries yesterday were 36 cars by C. P. R. and 35 by G. T. R., comprising altogether 838 cattle, 1151 hogs, 2161 sheep and lambs and 98 calves.

Butchers' Cattle.—For the best picked lots butchers' quotations are nominally unchanged or from $4 to $4.15 per lb.; medium, $3 to $3.05; inferior butchers' $2.50; butchers' cows, $2 to $2.50; canners, $1.50 to $2 per cwt. Hiding butchers, weighing from 1100 lbs. up, were worth from $2.40 to $2.70 per cwt.
Feeders and Stockers.—For the better class of feeders the demand was fairly good, with the result that the market was well covered up at fractionally unchanged prices from those prevailing on Thursday. Harry Murby's quotations are as follows: Best feeders, 1000 to 1150 lbs., at $3.75 to $3.70; medium feeders, 1000 to 1150 lbs., at $3.25 to $3.50; best feeders, 850 to 1000 lbs., at $3 to $3.25; best yearling steers, 600 to 800 lbs., at $3 to $3.25; good stock heifers, 700 to 850 lbs., at $2.50 to $2.60; medium stock heifers, 700 to 850 lbs., at $2.40 to $2.50; common light stockers, 400 to 600 lbs., at $2 to $2.25.

Milk Cows.—Good milk cows are in demand, and all offering find a ready market. Prices show a wide range, but from $35 to $40 would be a fair basis of values.
Veal Calves.—The run of calves—$8 was a fairly heavy one. Wesley Dunn, as usual, was the heaviest buyer, and took 76 of them at an average of 75 cwt., or at from $2.50 to $3.50 per cwt.
Sheep and Lambs.—The run of sheep and lambs was moderate; heavy, some 2161 altogether, while the market generally was characterized by a weaker tone. Wesley Dunn bought 900 lambs, which cost $5.50 per cwt., and 400 sheep, for which he paid $4.25.
