To Prevent Coughing.

Coughing is the worst thing for a cough, and in most instances of coughs there is more coughing than is necessary to subserve the purpose of the cough, that is, to remove the offending material.

The following directions will help one minimize coughing in all instances, while in the milder cases may stop the cough altogether after little perseverence: When tempted to cough, take a deep breath, filling if possible, every air cell, holding it until the warming, soothing effect comes or so long as is reasonable, and mark the mollifying result on the cough, which, even when the latter seems unavoidable, will often be found under control.

Repeat if necessary. The explranation of this is that there is a liberation of nitrogen in the air cells which has a quieting, sedative effect on the irritated mucous membrane.—Dr. A. P. Reed in National Magazine.

Many are the unfortunate youngsters foolishly nicknamed "Mamie," and "Sally" and "Maudie" and "Lizingie," and "Sally" and "Maudie" and "Lizingie, who grow up to deteat the short-sightedness of the ill-advised fathers and mothers who thoughtlessly fostened these sobriquets upon them.

The aforementioned young woman avers that if parents are not arsighted and unselfish enough to consider the possible future attitude of the child to its own name, they shouldn't be privileged to name it hard and fast.

Let them, she suggests, bestow upon it at emporary title suiting their pleasure, with the restriction that when it arrives at years of discretion it shall be privileged to correct the mistakes of its progenitors, and choose its own name.

There's nothing in a name, maybe, as the poet says. But it's such a name, they personal thing that it does seem as if we ought to have some hard in the privileged to correct the mistakes of its progenitors, and choose its own name.

How are the unfortunate young water the short as induced and unselfish enough these sobriquets upon them.

The solutions of the illiance is provened the subject the cough the s

Truth seekers and general investigators are AS TO NICKNAMES.

AS TO NICKNAMES.

Parents are thoughtless persons.

A least this is the conviction of a young woman whose sil-advised parents called her "Susie" in her babyhood, which sobriquet has stuck to her ever since.

She was properly christened "Susanna," but with the curious lack of foresight so often exhibited by families her fond relatives instantly abbreviated it to "Susie." All the neighbors knew her as "Susie." Her schoolmates dubbed her "Sue." Only her teachers, with that better sense of the fitness of things, supposed to belong to teachers, gave her the full title of "Susanna."

As soon as the young woman reached be proper age to reason are parents sno took matters in her own hands, re-named herself Anna, and gave it out that she was "Susie" no more.

As "Anna" she is known to the friends and acquaintances of later life. But when she goes back to the old town, it is to smile to hear those who were old and young and middle-aged when she was young, address her fondly as "Susie."

And though she live a thousand years and go down to the grave full of honors and gray hairs, "Susie" she will always be in that neighborhood, and "Susie" is doubtless the title that will be written upon her tombstone in the famwritten upon her tombstone in the family burying-lot.

Many are the unfortunate youngsters foolishly nicknamed "Mamie," and "Sam.

As soon as the young woman reached a proper age to reform her parents she took matters in her own hands, re-named

Hoax—Actors are proverbially super-stitious, aren't they? Joax—Yes; some-times they even expect the ghost to walk.

Mr. Buggins—Never mind, my dear.
I'll see that your grave is kept green.
Mrs. Buggins—That's just like you, you mean, horrid, hateful thing. You just know how unbecoming green is to me.
