Special to Evening Telegram. LONDON, Nov. 26. Since the British Press and public have had time to discuss the German Foreign Minister's account of the Moroccan situation with Grey, public opinion has taken a decided turn in favor of the government's policy and the Foreign Secretary's diplomacy. A few journals criticize the secret diplomacy, and ask the question whether Britain had sufficient cause to join with France in event of war, but there is a marked decrease of attacks on the Foreign Office, except by a small group of Liberal papers, always pro-German. One reason for the reaction is that of Kiderlen's statement in the Reichstag, that the Committee ignored important steps in the negotiations, and another that any other than a repudiation of Grey by the Government would be considered as a German victory. The principal questions the country is asking are: "What were Germany's demands before Lloyd George's speech, July 21st, and what were they afterwards?" Sir Edward is expected, will satisfy the curiosity on every essential point on Monday. The publication yesterday of the secret clauses of the Anglo-French Agreement of 1904, relating to Egypt and Morocco, under which, it is alleged, Britain heavily committed herself to the military support of France in certain eventualities, but which turned out to be of minor importance, has dispelled the idea that Britain and France did not have a definite military alliance. An uncomfortable feature of the situation is that the Foreign Secretary is bound to justify the Government's course in Monday's speech; but if his account of the negotiations contradicted the German Chancellor on important points, Anglo-German hostilities are certain to break out. Grey, in his speech, will move that the foreign policy of His Majesty's Government be considered, and then begin a debate that will likely occupy two days, and take a wide range. Hardie, Socialist, will propose an amendment in relation to the presence in Persia of Russian and British soldiers, and the danger these set up to Persian independence, which Britain has bound herself to maintain.

The Pall Mall Gazette last night repeats explicitly what heretofore had been only rumored, that Germany demanded the dismissal of Lloyd George from the Cabinet after his famous speech, as she did Delcasse in 1904. The paper adds that the Foreign Secretary absolutely declined to consider such a suggestion, and also declared that Germany stayed her hand from war at the last moment through the influence of financiers. From rumors certain facts seem to be established that France had arranged a definite plan for a joint campaign, which included the despatching of 150,000 British soldiers to the Continent, which included almost the whole regular army, leaving the defence of the country to territorials. Generals of the French staff visited England to confer with British Generals, and the Government stopped the railway strike by confiding to the leaders that the country was on the verge of war, and appealing to their patriotism. An officer of the home fleet, writing of the outlook, corroborates Bessford's charges, that the crisis found the fleet insufficiently coaled, undermanned, and lacking a necessary reserve of ammunition and guns.

Special Evening Telegram. PEKING, Nov. 25. The position of the Premier, Yuan Shi Kai, is becoming more intolerable every day. Neither the Manchus nor the Chinese trust him. Many Chinese believe that while he is reassuring foreigners with a view to obtaining a loan and placating moderates with pretended pacific measures, he really intends to crush the rebellion by force.

White, cream and fancy serges, comprising black hairline stripes on white grounds, are great favorites of the moment.

HEALTH RESTORED TO THIS FAMILY

Wife's experience with Dr. Chase's Nerve Food led to husband's cure. "Since childhood I was afflicted with biliousness and sick headaches," writes Mr. A. K. Van Wyck, Park Hill, Ont., "and as all the doctors' medicines and prescriptions failed to do me any permanent good, I had lost faith in all medicines. It was by accident that I came to use Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, for it had been recommended for Mrs. Van Wyck and did her so much good that she wished me to try it. I did so, and was surprised at the results. It is now three years since I discontinued the medicine and I have not had an attack of the old trouble. I hope that others may benefit by my experience." The cures effected by Dr. Chase's Nerve Food are lasting because it builds up the system and removes the cause of trouble. 50 cents a box, 6 for $2.50; at all dealers, or Edmondson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

CLASSICAL MUSIC. Classical music is a depressing commodity which operates mainly to decrease the box receipts. It may be otherwise described as a mild sport which everybody pretends to enjoy but nobody understands except the critic for the morning paper, and sometimes it makes him groggy. The average man would soon admit that he is in love with the cox as to confess that classical music gets his goat. Most of our classical music is imported at great expense, but a good deal of the most classical never gets past the board of health. It requires a bill and several kilowatts of self-control to enjoy classical music properly. It is feared that it will never become truly popular until it is sandwiched in between ragtime and a buck-and-wing dance. It is a painful sight to see a large, overfed citizen trying to digest an orchestra program in the hope of hearing "Old Black Joe" with variations as an encore. It is harder to cultivate an appetite for classical music than it is to subdue a cowlick. Since fashion set the seal of approval upon classical music our recital halls are thronged with enthusiasts who couldn't tell a Beethoven symphony from a water-color of Niagara Falls by moonlight, and this led to considerable agile four-flushing as to whether Paderewski composed "The Pirates of Penzance" or "The Lady of the Lake." Every community is justly suspicious of the man who can sit through a Grieg concerto without stifling a yawn or looking at his watch. The best classical music is always written in some language that sounds like a violent altercation in a Chinese laundry, and it is never really classical until you can't scramble through the first act with a libretto.

Wedding Bells.

The Deanery, Riverhead, was the scene of a pretty wedding last night, when Mr. Patrick Courtney, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. William Courtney, led to the altar Annie, daughter of Mr. James Fitzgerald. Rev. Father McDermott united the happy couple in the holy bonds of wedlock. The bride looked charming, attired in a costume of cream tulle, with black plume hat. Miss J. Fitzgerald, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid, whilst Mr. J. L. Courtney, brother of the groom, was best man. After the ceremony, the wedding party drove to their future residence, Freshwater Road, when all sat down to a sumptuous repast, and an enjoyable time was spent, the health of the happy couple being duly honored. The groom is a member of the Cadet Band, well-known in musical circles, and is deservedly popular. The bride, lately in the employ of Hon. G. Knowling, is also very popular, and held in high esteem by her co-workers. The numerous and valuable presents bore testimony to the esteem in which both bride and bridegroom are held. The Telegram extends congratulations.

A Noble Victory.

Editor Evening Telegram. Dear Sir,—On behalf of my mother, sisters and brothers permit me to sincerely thank you for the use of your columns to express publicly our protest against that petition recently presented to the Municipal Council asking to change the pay hour for employees of the Sanitary Department. I just wish that the promoters of said petition were present at our home on Saturday evening and witnessed the joy that was to be seen on our countenances when we read from the People's Paper the report of the Council's weekly meeting by which we learned that Mayor Hills and his associates stood firm and voted as one man and upheld their former ruling. Their action on this, to us, very important question we can assure them will be ever remembered in our prayers. Yours gratefully, A SANITARY MAN'S SON. Saturday Evening, Nov. 25, 1911.

Anniversary Sunday at Cochrane Street St. Church.

Sunday was indeed a red letter day at Cochrane St. Church, it being the anniversary of Harvest-tide Services of the Sunday School. It was truly the young people's day, and the numbers in which both young and old attended all the services was in itself a living testimony to the unanimity of the congregations in general. The Sunday School occupied the galleries, while the centre of the church was reserved for the congregation and the Methodist Guards, who were present in charge of Capt. Blackwood. The entire scene was one to inspire. The committee made ample preparation for the services, and on entering the church all were presented with a printed order of service. This feature was very helpful to the people and everybody felt that they had an active part in the services, and the heartiness of the responses proved that they did their part well. Another feature, and a unique one at that, was the array of fruits and vegetables which decorated the rostrum. The sight was a real harvest festival of free-will offering. The morning service was conducted by the pastor, Rev. W. H. Webber, his subject being "Wounded and Half-dead Men." In a short practical sermon the preacher emphasized the influence of the life of Jesus Christ in the world. Jesus was famous because his chief work was always doing good and helping others. What was wanted to-day was clean living, virtuous lives, well trained and properly disciplined and all round Christian manhood. The afternoon service was presided over by Mr. A. Soper, Superintendent of Gower St. School, who indeed made a model chairman. Mrs. Karmpy delighted all as she told the story of the negro's hut and the parson. Mrs. Farisdale's solo and Miss Parsons's recitation were well rendered. The Primary Department sustained their part well. Dr. Wakefield gave some very wholesome advice, both for the body and the soul, and reminded all to be careful of the seed they were sowing. The report of the year's work was read by Secretary Peters. The climax of the day's gathering was reached at the evening service when the church was filled to overflowing. The Rev. Dr. Rogers was the preacher, taking as his theme "The Joy in Harvest." In his language the learned Doctor referred to the universal joy of harvest and the people's belief in a personal God. It was necessary to remind men of their dependence on Almighty God. Reference was made to our national mercies. We as a people had much to praise God for—the open church, the open Bible. In closing an affectionate appeal was made to the young people present to become followers of the meek and lowly Jesus. Miss Curtis pleasingly rendered the solo "My Task." Much credit is due Mr. Arthur Mews, who trained the scholars to sing so nicely; also Messrs. Parsons and Thistle, who manipulated the cornets, and all the officers and teachers, not forgetting the esteemed Superintendent, Hon. H. J. B. Woods.

SURELY SETTLES UPSET STOMACHS

Indigestion, Gas, Heartburn or Dyspepsia vanish in five minutes. Every year regularly more than a million stomach sufferers in the United States, England and Canada take Pape's Diapepsin, and realize not only immediate, but lasting relief. This harmless preparation will digest anything you eat and overcome a sour, gassy, out-of-order stomach five minutes afterwards. If your meals don't fit comfortably, or what you eat lies like a lump of lead in your stomach, or if you have heartburn, that is a sign of indigestion. Get from your Pharmacist a 50-cent case of Pape's Diapepsin and take a dose just as soon as you can. There will be no more sour risings, no belching of undigested food mixed with acid, no stomach gas or heartburn, fullness or heavy feeling in the stomach, Nauseas, Debilitating Headaches, Dizziness or Intestinal griping. This will all go, and, besides, there will be no sour food left over in the stomach to poison your breath with nauseous odors. Pape's Diapepsin is a certain cure for out-of-order stomachs, because it takes hold of your food just the same as if your stomach wasn't there. Relief in five minutes from all stomach misery is waiting for you at any drug store. These large 50-cent cases contain more than sufficient to thoroughly cure almost any case of Dyspepsia, Indigestion or any other stomach disorders.
