The Tariff Reform propaganda, which was inaugurated by "Joe" Chamberlain has been a hard nut for the British Unionist to digest. It has never been popular even with the Conservatives of the North of England. It defeated Balfour in Manchester and is likely to keep the Conthe North who manufacture for a presented at all. What then is the world trade cannot afford to have the cost of production increased by tariffs on food and raw materials. On the other hand, the dropping of the tariff plank means the disruption of the Conservative Party, many of which are largely interested in land and the home market, which they want protected.
