What Sir Michael Cashin Stated at the Great Victory Meeting at Petty Harbor Last Night.

More than 250 voters of Petty Harbor, Maddox Cove and the Goules gave a royal welcome to Sir Michael Cashin at Petty Harbor last night, when they assembled in St. Andrew's Hall. It was known in the settlement that the Premier would visit there during the evening to meet the people, and when he arrived accompanied by Hon. John R. Bennett, and Messrs. Mullaly and Martin, the voters were present to receive him. At 8.15 a meeting was called in St. Andrew's Hall, the chair being taken by Mr. Thomas Whitten, sr., one of the most highly respected fishermen of the settlement. The chairman intimated that the meeting was called to welcome Sir Michael Cashin to Petty Harbor, and called upon Hon. Mr. Bennett to address the gathering. Hon. Mr. Bennett, in opening, said it afforded him extreme pleasure to introduce Sir Michael to the fishermen of Petty Harbor, one of St. John's West's most important fishing settlements. Sir Michael was a fisherman himself, and a man who was intimately acquainted with the fishing industry and was more fully qualified to deal with the requirements of the fishermen of the country than any other leader who ever appealed for the suffrages of the people. Premier Cashin, he said, represented an important fishing settlement for the last 27 years, and naturally being a fisherman himself, was in full sympathy with the hardy toilers who seek their livelihood from the deep, and one who would do all that is possible for the fisherman throughout the country. His colleagues and Sir Michael Cashin, he said, would address the voters as the meeting progressed. Hon. Mr. Bennett continuing dealt at some length with the policy of the Liberal Progressive Party, and criticized most caustically the tactics of the opposition, who through the Freeman and by other means were attempting to inflame the passions of the people, and create a stampede, with the hope of "sunning" themselves under the Government canopy, and using indiscriminately the people's money. Their attempt to throw dust in the eyes of the electorate in the hope of diverting their attention from the real issues by such fake cries as Confederation and graters must go, was almost too silly to deal with, but for fear that any one voter might be deceived, he wished to point out that the only confederation plot known of was the connection of R. A. Squires with the Belsis and the $5,000 affair. These appeals to passion and prejudice made by the Opposition, could only emanate from a diseased brain. It was a weak cause indeed the Coaker gang had when they resorted to such means. St. John's West had always produced a class of candidates who never stooped to such low-down tactics, and it was almost incredible that men who call themselves citizens should so far forget the ethics of politics. He wished to impress upon the voters present that when polling day came around they would use their judgment, and not be carried away by false appeals. The casting of a ballot was not a personal matter, it was a sacred duty and much depended on it. The voter should not consider his own personal interests, he should take a broader view and vote in the interests of his country, his children and future generations. The voter should not be swayed by cheap talk or by idle promises that were impossible of execution. The idea of cheese factories in settlements where scarce judgment, and not be carried away by false appeals. Leo Carter Weeps for France.

"I wept for France"—Young Carter said. Cried the voter, "Say no more. But sit you down in my 'front room' For my heart is very sore."

"I wept for France"—Young Leo said. Cried the voter, "Say no more. My boy died in the great advance His death I do deplore."

"Some news of him I now beseech O Leo, tell me true, Did you see him charge the deadly breach Where the shrieking shrapnel flew?"

"I wept for France"—Young Carter said. Said the voter "Say no more. It's plain to me from your fearful glance The sights have grieved you sore."

"Doubtless your tender heart has bled For the wounds of bleeding France And the slaughtered babes and broken men Must have nerved you in the advance."

"I wept for France"—Young Leo said. "Pray let me finish it all. I wept for France at a movie show In the Total Abstinence Hall."

Uprose the voter in manly wrath And beat poor Leo sore "Not a vote you'll get in the city, I bet, Or likewise down the shore."

Wants to Have Facts Published, Cahill Declares

Wonderful Difference in Him Since He Began Taking Tanlac—Gains 12 Pounds.

"I have just finished my fourth bottle of Tanlac and have actually gained twelve pounds," said J. J. Cahill, weighmaster for G. M. Barry, living at 9 Barnes' Place, St. John's, Newfoundland, while in Connors' drug store at St. John's, recently. Mr. Cahill was born and reared in St. John's and is popular with all who know him.

"I want this statement published in all the papers," continued Mr. Cahill, "for Tanlac is one medicine everybody ought to know about. I believe anyone who tries it on account of reading my statement will be glad I have told them what the medicine has done for me."

"My stomach has bothered me nearly all the time for the past six years. Most everything I would eat gave me indigestion and sometimes the gas on my stomach would nearly stop my breath. Often during the day a pain would strike me in the stomach run around through my left side into my back, and almost double me up. This pain would come on me so often and so severe that I could never get in a full day's work. I lost my appetite entirely and there were certain things, which I like best, that I could not eat at all without just suffering agony afterwards."

"Several of my friends and neighbors told me Tanlac was good, as it had helped them, so I began taking it, thinking if it helped others it might help me, too, and it certainly has made a wonderful difference in my feelings. Why, I now eat like a wolf and that pain has left my side and back entirely. I can eat my favorite foods now and am never troubled any more with my stomach. Even pork, cabbage, and the heaviest of foods seem to agree with me perfectly. I was also bothered quite a bit with rheumatism before taking Tanlac, but that trouble has disappeared, too, so I have gotten more benefit than I really expected. I am simply feeling like a new man and am glad of the opportunity to make a public statement for what it may be worth to others who are trying to get relief. At the time I began on Tanlac I only weighed one hundred and twenty-eight pounds, but I now balance the scales at one hundred and forty and I am still gaining all the time."

Indigestion from which Mr. Cahill has been suffering is not only one of the most distressing, but one of the most prevalent of all diseases. It is also one of the most difficult to treat and has baffled the medical profession for years, the most skilled specialists being unable to cope with it successfully.

Tanlac, the celebrated medicine, which has proven of such great benefit to those suffering from this trouble, contains certain medicinal properties, which being purely vegetable, are rapidly taken up by the system thereby stimulating the appetite and aiding digestion by assisting the stomach in converting the food into nourishing elements that build up tissue and nerve force.

Tanlac is sold in St. John's by M. Connors, under the personal direction of a special Tanlac representative—adv.
