Monroe Candidates Hold Monster Meeting

AT BOWRING'S, SOUTHSIDE.
The West End candidates, Croble, Linagar and Brown, held a most enthusiastic meeting at Bowring's (Upper) Southside store, last night. From 800 to 1,000 voters were present. Mr. A. Whitten was unanimously elected chairman and after a short address called on Mr. Linagar to speak. Mr. Linagar made a splendid speech.

PROOF OF INCOMPETENCY.

He is in the fight particularly to see that the working men get a square deal, and under the banner of Mr. Monroe this will be obtained. Mr. Linagar referred to the empty fish stores in the city and thought this alone was sufficient proof of the incompetency of the present administration. The electorate have it in their power to have a return of the prosperous conditions of a few years ago, and this depends on the action they take at the polls on Monday next. The record of the Coaker combination is well known. Mr. Monroe's policy is clearly defined. If people want a continuation of the conditions of the past five years or a change for the better, it is theirs to decide.

Mr. W. J. Browne who was next called upon to speak, received a splendid ovation. Amongst the matters which he dealt with was the Prohibition Act. This, he said, is not only not enforced, but there is discrimination practiced. Men of riches are able to secure any quantity of liquors for the mere asking, whilst men who are not so well blessed with the world's riches, are forced to get a permit to secure a small quantity, and pay for both permit and liquor. Mr. Monroe's manifesto promises to mind the state of affairs, and assure a square deal to all, in this matter as in all others. Speaking of the Gander Proposition, he said it was being used as a kite to delude the electorate. It is only a nonsensical argument; to state that this will come into effect only if the Hickman administration is returned; this proposition will come into force no matter what party is returned. The issue before this country was clear, and on Monday all would unite for the one set purpose—Clean up, Keep Clean, and a Square Deal to All.

Mr. John Croble in a speech lasting nearly an hour and a half, made a very powerful appeal, showing those present how impossible it was to have a stable Government with the Coaker-Hickman combination.

FISHERIES MUST BE MAINTAINED

The fisheries, he said, are, and must be, the main stay of this country. When the fishery is good, everything is prosperous, and all classes of people benefit accordingly. The fisheries of the country must be preserved at all costs and steps must be taken to see that our people procure the voyage. One of the main reasons of the fishery is the price. It is useless to endeavor to force people to pay a fixed price, and no laws or regulations that we can make can force them to pay more than they are prepared to. The infamous fish regulations introduced by Mr. William Coaker, had for their main idea the fixing of a price which people should pay for our fish, and everyone knows what a disastrous effect these regulations had on the country. Touching on labor matters, Mr. John said there are many things imported in the country which could very well be manufactured by our own countrymen. With regard to our railway all the engines which are now imported would very well be made here and thus give our own people a means of earning a living from other sources than the rock-sheds. Bolders and engines have been made here and by actual test have proved better than the imported product, and when the Monroe Party is returned it will see that in future all work of this nature will be done by our own people.

THE ISSUE CLEAR.
The issue before the electorate is a clear one, and in their hands is the responsibility. They know the record of the Coaker Government, and they have Mr. Monroe's promise for reform. On Monday they must choose, and their decision will be a momentous one.

The meeting concluded with cheers for Croble, Linagar and Brown, and Mr. Monroe, that did not cease until the candidates had departed. The West End campaign now draws to a close and the people everywhere have voiced their demands for a CleanUp, Keep Clean, and a Square Deal To All.

Household Notes.

Steam shredded coconut in a clean napkin just before using it in the frosting.
Serve sliced pineapple and fresh strawberries on lettuce leaves with French dressing.
Cut extra pie crust into fancy shapes sprinkle with cinnamon and sugar, and bake.
Scrub small potatoes thoroughly, boil without paring and put through the potato ricer.
