REV. ALEX. BURNS

The Catholic Register's Tribute to His Memory.

By the death of the Rev. Dr. Burns, Toronto has lost one of her most eminent citizens; the province, and indeed the Dominion, a leading spirit of the times. A man of broad, sound principles, clear judgment and fearless character; his voice and pen, through an active life, were ever employed for high and noble purposes. As an educator, preacher, lecturer and writer, he had few superiors in the Dominion.

While true to the principles and teachings of the Methodist Church, he ever evinced a fund of ready sympathy with those who differed from him in creed, and to our own positive knowledge, and to that of thousands of our co-religionists in Canada, to none was he more friendly and kindly considerate in every way than to his Catholic fel-

He was an Irishman by birth, a Canadian in his life, and by his earnest and enthusiastic championing of Ireland's cause, at the time of Parnell's great and effective agitation and par-Mamentary policy, he won a warm place in the hearts of the Irish people and supporters of Irish home rule in Canada. In his advocacy of the Irish na-tional cause, he spared not himself, nor did he allow religious or other considthemselves, to stand between him and his purpose.

To the last, Ireland's cause was with him a favorite subject of conversation. Speaking casually upon the subject, just when the tide of war with the ganized body. South African republics was at its height, he gloried in the leadership of Irish generals, and in the valor of the Irish troops, and warmly asserted the possibility of home rule. Ireland had only to keep her head, go to the people of the United Kingdom upon the wave time to prove, and this war, so far, of goodwill which he predicted and has abounded in surprises which have which came, and, as he expressed it, no completely upset the surmises of those government could refuse her just and best facted to express opinions. Bye-Election June 26-West Huron Liberels Meet.

A writ has been issued for an election to fill the vacancy in the legislature, caused by the death of Andrew T. White, of North Renfrew. Nomination will be on June 19 and election on June Gens. Rundle and Brabant in the Or-26th. The West Elgin commission resumed ts sitting at the parmament building, ed was that of officials at Osgoode Hall as to the condition of the pallot boxes and of the box sent to the building containing all the votes cast in the elections. J. S. Cartwright, clerk of the ballots that were destroyed, said there was no evidence to show that the ballots had been tampered with.

The annual meeting of the West Huron Reform Association was held on Friday at Dungannon. There was a large representation from every part of the riding. The old executive was unanimously elected and organization effected. Addresses were given by Messrs. Holmes, of West Huron; Mc-Mullen, of North Wellington; McClure, of Colchester, N. S., and J. T. Garrow, and resolutions indorsing the Dominion and local governments were unanimously passed, and the proceedings closed with cheers for the Queen, Sir Wilfred Laurier and Premier George

THE APPROACHING CAMP. To the Editor of The Advertiser:

Many of the kind people of London were good enough during last camp to send me illustrated papers and magazines for the use of our men. They were much enjoyed. Might I again, through your columns, solicit similar kindnesses for the approaching camp? Pictures and papers concarning the present war would be much appreciated. I shall arrange to have them called for, if donors or lenders will kindly drop me a line. Yours faithfully, ALFRED S. DANN, faithfully. Honorary Chaplain, 26th Regt.

the Army in Africa.

A Forecast of Developments in the Transvaal.

What About Kruger?-Builer in the Background-Roberts the Idol of the British People.

[Special London Cable Letter.] London, June 2.-Popular opinion has proclaimed the advent of victory in South Africa. The nation has made up its mind that the war is over, that the prestige of British arms is restored, that President Kruger is vanquished, that priceless territory has been annexed that humanity has not been staggered, and that, led by that little Sir Galahad, "Bobs," Great Britain's army has fulfilled the most optimistic expectations. It is scarcely surprising, in view of the bewildering rapidity of Lord Roberts' progress during the past week, that the troubles still ahead of the army in South Africa receive only a passing thought. Nevertheless among the few more serious-minded who have intimate knowledge of the Boers and the plans of the war office, there ex-of immediate developments in the Transvaal can be gained by reviewing the events in the Free State, or Orange River Colony. There, though the country is formally annexed, and is subjected to a winnowing process by a long line of British troops, certain opposition still exists. The preponder-ance of numbers is bound to eventually reduce the inhabitants to subjection, and so it will be, probably, with the Transvanl, the occupation of Pretoria and Johannesburg being followed by operations similar to those uninteresting movements now undertaken by ange River Colony.

STATUS OF KRUGER. The personal status of President Kruger since he left the capital is of June, 1896, in the presence of one creating some discussion. A reporter of the Associated Press learns that Lord Salisbury will consider him to filled to this day. BULLER IN THE BACKGROUND. One of the most curious features of the closing chapters of the great war is the oblivion into which Gen. Buller has fallen. Gens. French. Hamilton and others are all more frequently talked of and cheered than the former commander-in-chief, who seems to have become an unknown quantity in the shadow of the Biggarsberg.

THE IDOL OF THE HOUR. Words fail to describe the national gratefulness to Lord Roberts, Wellington never was to England what Roberts is today in the eyes of the general public. A dukedom and the Order of the Garter, at the Queen's disposal through the death of the Duke of Argyll, are the least rewards that could be bestowed on him. Already people are talking of the scenes which will mark his home-coming. Conscientious critics occasionally try to bring out Lord Kitchener's name, but their efforts have small effect on the popular sentiments. One evidence of Lord Roberts' capability is the uses to which WIRELESS TELEGRAPHY. While Buller, White and other generals failed to develop the plant sent out to them, and looked askance at the innovation, relying solely on the old-time heliograph, Lord Roberts always has with him a body of wireless telegraphists, by which he keeps in constant communication with the various units of his enormous army. Several messages have been sent over 60 miles. The reports of naval experi-ments with this device are also sat-isfactory, the British battleship Hannibal, while under way, clearly reading the battleship Jupiter's messages at 32 miles distant. Other severe tests have resulted favorably to Marconi. The fact of the Duke of Connaught having taken Lord Francis Clinton Trouble May Yet Be in Store for Hope's Castle Blayney, county Monaghan, for the season, with the option for five years, seems to indicate the establishment of a royal residence in Ireland. But whether the Queen will occupy the residence which May Yohe (the American actress), otherwise Lady Hope, has just vacated, in order to fulfill theatrical engagements in Australia, it is impossible to say. But Castle Blayney is one of the finest properties in Ireland, and it is understood that if the Duke and Duchess of Connaught are satisfied with it they will take it for a long term.

The Duke of Argyll announces that Inverary Castle, with its immense do-main, is for rent.

A SCANDAL AIRED IN COURT. A most remarkable case came up in court when Mrs. Brinkworth sued the estate of the late Wm. Beckett, a former member of parliament, for continued support of herself and her alleged children. Mr. Beckett was head of one of the wealthiest private bank-ing firms in England, and eminently respected in parliament and in society. It transpires that Mrs. Brinkworth lived as his mistress for many years, and that the couple amused themselves by buying children whom they passed off as their own, as Beckett wished to use the children to "bluff" his own family into consenting to the payment of large sums to his mis-sir Charles Tupper is a well-preserved old man, strong fighter, hard hitter, etc., but those qualifications do not exempt him from the obligations of common honesty. It may have been very courageous for him to telegraph to Robert Birmingham: Your message of May 22 received. You will never receive another dollar from any fund which I can control," but the publications of Mr. Birmingham's letter to Sir Charles gives the other view of the case. Here is what Birmingnam wrote:

"My ramily think it is about time that my long overdue salary and expenses should be paid, a statement of which I sent you July 6th, 1899, and a further one I now inclose, and oeleve that you will have no difficulty in placing the necessary funds at Mr. Haggart's disposal to do so. You will, of course, remember that it was at your urgent and personal request that withdrew from the office to which had been practically appointed, and that you personally pledged yourself to pay me the very modesit salary of 1,500 per annum, and this was agreed to in your office in the Bastern Block four days after the general election of your colleagues and another member of the House of Commons. which promise has remained unfulpublic until Lord Roberts is ready to when you are in Toronto next week, Birmingham."

Sir Charles Tupper is not a poor man. As he boasted the other day, on the forty-fifth anniversary of entrance to public life, he has spent the greater part of these forty-five years in office, enjoying a good salary. As a Dominion Minister, he got President Kruger is willing to assist without any degradation of dignity "do" poor Birmingham out of the $1,500 a year which he gave his personal pledge to pay? It appears that Birmingham had been appointed $1,500 a personal to a permanent office under Government, the salary of the which would suffice to support his family, but Sir Charles wanted his help after the 1896 elections, and gave his personal pledge that those services would be paid for. That promise was broken. Birmingham was dismissed, unpaid, and new organizers were ap-pointed in his place. Now, when he presents his account to Sir Charles for payment, that hoary-headed pudiator impudently replies: will never receive another dollar from any fund which I can control." Sir Charles may have the best of reasons for disliking Birmingham, but his first duty is to pay the debt After that he will be at lib-to denounce the "danged scoundrel" to his heart's content. But the fact that a creditor is a "danged scoundrel" does not release a debtor from the obligation to pay a debt. It does not justify repudiation, or the breaking of one's pledged word. There are a good many Canadian Conservatives who would prefer a leader whom they could respect, and some of then make no secret of their opinion that their party can never hope to resume office while Sir Charles Tunner remains at the head of it. The Birreingham episode will not make Sir Charles more popular with the rank If the leader would not keen faith with the party organizer, what other Tory could trust him?

AN ELEPHANT AGAINST THE

BAGPIPES. It is a fact that pipers in Highland regiments are posted to companies, and always follow them wherever they go. On one occasion a company of the Gordons was marching from a place called Jellunder to Fort Kangra, situated on one of the lower ranges of the Himalayas. Accompanying them was an elephant, on which were placed sick and exhausted men. After a few days' march we were deprived of music on the company of the company account of the piper's feet becoming blistered, and he was relegated to the back of the elephant. On the last day's march, before entering a new station, someone suggested that in order to brighten us up the piper might be requested to play on the elephant's back at the head of the company. To this the officer assented, and accordingly the piper was handed his pipes. When began to tune them it was evident that the elephant had no appreciation of such sources, for he shook his head. flapped his big ears menacingly, raised his trunk, with which he embraced the piper round the waist, and violently threw him and his pipes into a ditch as a mark of his disapproval of such

FOREVER [Annette Kohn, in the Independent.] Every golden beam of light Leaves a shadow to the sight; Every dewdrop on the rose To the ocean's bosom goes. Every star that ever shone Somewhere has a gladness thrown,

All that lives goes on forever, Forever and forever. Every link in friendship's chain Forged another link again; Every throb that love has cost Made a heaven and was not lost. Every look and every tone Has a seed in memory sown.

Forever and forever. Never yet a spoken word But in echo it was heard; Never was a living thought, But some magic it has wrought, And no deed was ever done That has died from under sun. All that lives goes on forever, Forever and forever.

All that lives goes on forever

So. O soul, there's no farewell Where souls once together dwell: Have no fears, O beating heart, There is no such word as part. Hands that meet and closely clasp Shall forever feel the grasp. All that lives goes on forever, Forever and forever.

THE UNSUCCESSFUL. We met them on the common way: They passed and gave no sign-The heroes that had lost the day, The failures, half divine.

Ranged in a quiet place we see Their mighty ranks contain Figures too great for victory, Hearts too unspoiled for gain.

Here are earth's splendid failures, come From glorious foughten fields; Some bear the wounds of combat, some Are prone upon their shields.

To us, that still do battle here, If we in aught prevail, Grant, God, a triumph not too dear, Or strength, like theirs, to fall. -Elizabeth C. Cardozo.
