THE Edinburgh Scotsman announces that "Messrs. John Dewar & Sons, distillers, Perth, London and Jullymet, Perthshire, have received a royal warrant of appointment as purveyors of whisky to her Majesty the Queen." Surely the Queen is not an in-dorser of any brand of whisky. If she is not, how comes this firm by the "Royal warrant" advertised?

Is THE Downger Duchess of Sutherland tells the truth about the reason why she tore up the letter that she was ordered to produce in court, there are a good many people who will say that she followed at least a natural course, which the majority of persons would have adopted under like circumstances, even at the risk of being sent to jail for contempt.

THE Ottawa Free Press suggests that the Dominion Controller of Customs will resign his office as soon as the Earl of Aberdeen becomes Governor-General. "No loyal man," says our contemporary, "would serve under a viceroy who is a Gladatonian Home Ruler, and consequently, in the opinion of Mr. Wallace, a rebel, a traitor, opinion of Mr. Wallace, a rebel, a traitor, and one who desires the dismemberment of the British Empire." Leave that to Mr. Wallace. He would serve under the king of the Cannibal Islands if the emoluments were forthcoming.

Now that it has been decided that the London hotol-keepers can close their bars by solar time instead of by standard time, which is 25 minutes earlier, Inspector Henderson will have half an hour taken off his day at night and added on to the morning. Solar time will make the hour of opening 25 minutes later. It is not the early morn. ing traffic, but the late night business, that the bar-owners are after, however.

Our city contemporary rushes to the defence of Mr. J. J. Curran, M. P. for Montreal. It says he is personally at-tacked because it is pointed out that he was for years a standing applicant for a portfolio, and because his importunity was such that he got one. To state what is a notorious fact is not to personally attack a man. Then our contemporary says it is man. Then our contemporary man. Then our contemporary to say that Mr. Curran is not earning the $5,000 a year that he has been voted. When it is known that the country is now paying large sums of money to out side lawyers for doing legal business that it was asserted would be transacted by the Solicitor-General, surely not even so subservient an organ of the Administration will say that the money paid Mr. Curran is not wasted. To call in question the usefulness of Mr. Curran's office, to point out that he tarries at Montreal while outside lawyers do the business that it was alleged the Solicitor-General would perform is, says the Free Press, an upon the person of the genial in." What nonsense! Our con-Irishman. temporary is even in error when it speaks of Mr. Curran as an Irishman. Mr is a Canadian. He was born here, and has lived all his life in this country.

* An Ottawa correspondent, who has been looking into the matter, maintains that several hundred thousand dollars could be saved on the Northwest mounted police if haved on the Northwest mounted police if the force were economically managed. In 1881 the total strength of the mounted police was 293; last year it had increased to 952, and the expense of maintenance has gone up from $290,000 to $625,000 a year. The assertion is made that a few infantry companies of militia could keep the Indians quiet; indeed, but for the misgovernment and neglect there would never government and neglect there would never have been any trouble with the Indians. have been any trouble with the Indians.

And as for the excuse that a large and expensive Dominion Government force is needed to prevent illicit liquor traffic, that no longer holds good now that the pro-hibitory enactment has been withdrawn by the Ottawa Government, and the local authorities are empowered to grantlicenses. With a force of 300 mounted police, a few militia companies, and the work of looking after the liquor traffic relegated to the inland revenue and customs officials, aided by the local authorities, the Northwest country sould be better looked after than it now is,

MR. M'CARTHY'S PROGRAMME.
Our Toronto correspondent asserts that D'Alten McCarthy does not mean to insert too many irons in the fire. He is a busy man, and he has told more than one of his friends that he will consider that he has done his full duty if he devotes his political energies solely to the advancement of the Dominion issues that have been raised at Ottawa in regard to Dominion respect for Provincial rights and the reduction of mational taxation. This, our correspondent learns, will be pretty effectively shown when the platform upon which Mr. McCarthy and his friends are now putting the finishing touches is given to the public, as the will be in a week or two.

TOPICS OF TO-DAY.

Green shoes were much worn by the ladies at the private view of the English Royal Academy last week. What next?

The United States Census Bureau has The United States Census Bureau has issued a bulletin which shows that there are 47 Chinese temples in the United States, valued at $62,000, claiming 100,000 worshippers. Forty of these temples are in California, four in New York, two in Idaho and one in Oregon.

Table Talk for June has as usual, its many attractive features and in addition, several unusual ones. Among the latter is a very interesting article on "Electrical Cooking" by Helen Louise Johnson, director of this department at the World's Fair. The "Housekeeper's Inquiry Department," also by Mies Johnson, is very large and instructive, containing fifty recipes, in answer to requests from its progressive readers—a small cook book in itself. "How to Manage Coal Fires," by the very practical Mrs. Grayson, is destined to be of much use to a great number to whom this has ever been one of the main perplexities of house-keeping. Published by Table Talk Publishing Company, 1113 Chestnut street, Philadelphia. $1 per year. Table Talk for June has as usual, its many If the people of Canada do not, at the earliest opportunity, rise up against the ontinuance of a system that is selfdiscredited from the start, they will stand in their own light. The municipal lists, the fairness of which no one ever objected to are an immense improvement upon CIVIL SERVANTS AND CREDIT

The Idler for June is a beau ideal summer periodical. Its every page is entertaining reading, and its illustrations admirable. Bret Harte contributes the opening story, entitled "An Ingenue of the Sierras," illustrated by nine pictures by A. B. Boyd. Robert Buchanan relates how he came to write his first books, which were published 30 years ago, when he was still a boy. "Balder's Ball," by P. Von Schonthan, is most amusing, and is admirably illustrated by J. Gulich. "The Lord Lieutenant at Dublin Castle," is one of the "Lions in Their Dens" series, and is profusely illustrated from nineteen photographs of members of Lord Houghton's family and the exterior and interior of the castle. "The Fear of It" is the title of the contribution by Robert Barr (Luke Sharp), and concerns a strange and as yet unknown people. Sophie Wassilief, in the June Idler, commences her "Memoirs of a Female Nhilist." Mona Caird writes an introduction to the Memoirs of "Mademoiselle Sophie," the persecuted heroine. Scott Rankin in his series of "People I Have Never Met, "contributes a picture presenting his ideal of Bret Harte. Archibald Forbes writes of "My Servant John," in his characteristic and entertaining style. The subject discussed by "The Idler's Club" is "The Artistic Temperas ment." The Idler is published by S. S. McClure (Limited), 743, 745 Broadway, New York City, and the price is 25 cents a number, or $3 a year. The Idler for June is a beau ideal summe the anomaly to exist. We happen to know that the large majority of civil servants pay their honest debts, and have never thing that he buys it will not be a great effiction to him, seeing he gets his salary regularly every month, and if the merchant umber, or $3 a year.

"Well, old Deacon Brewster was always in a hurry. One day, when he made up his mind to get married, he rode over to Widow Monson's farm in a yellow buggy, hustled into the house right in the middle of dinner, and gasped:
"'Widder Monson, I'm a man of business. I am worth $10,800 and want you for a wife. I give you just three minutes to answer."
"I don't want ten seconds, old man,' she replied, as she shook out the dish-cloth. 'I'm a woman of business, worth $16,000, and I wouldn't marry you if you were the last man on earth! I give you four seconds to git!"
