ALEX. McCARTY, STAR SHORTSTOP, WHO IS WANTED BY MANY

offered $4,000 for this youngster who first played professional baseball this year, the Chicago Nationals are after him, Cleveland could use him, Connie Mack has heard tales of his prowess, and the rest of the American and National League moneyed men would like to get him. To all offers Wheeler turns a deaf ear. South Bend has a chance to cop the pennant in the Central League, and Wheeler won't sell McCarty, the real star of his team.

McCarty comes from Bradley, Ill., and Wheeler discovered him playing on the Notre Dame College team this spring. Wheeler talked the youngster into signing a contract, and now South Bend fans say McCarty is a better man at short than Ownie Bush, the Detroit star. Bush learned the game with South Bend in the Central.

McCarty is said to be remarkably fast in getting balls away, being able to throw fast and accurately without stopping to straighten up or brace away. In the Central League he has fielded .948, and is batting .267.
