A conflict of opinion prevails in the tory ranks as to the advisability of passing the franchise bill in the shape in which it is drawn. At their cancus on Saturday a number of maritime province members demanded that it should be amended so as to continue the manhood suffrage to those eastern provinces which now have it. A number of Bleu members objected also to the provision giving women the privilege to tote.

The government whips are holding tory members here until it is finally settled whether the franchise bill and the liquor legislation can be proceeded with. The obstacle to progress in the latter case is that strife has broken out among members of the sub-committee in reference to details of the proposed bill, and so far they have not been able to complete it.

The star chamber sub-committee on liquor licenses met this morning, Mr. Dalton McCarthy in the chair. A strong effort was put forth by Mr. Burns of Gloucester, to have the hours for the sale of liquor on Saturday evening extended to 10 p. m. This proposal was voted down after a long discussion. The British Columbia members attended, and said the city of Victoria must be exempted from the clause limiting the number of licenses. They asserted it was too stringent, and would injure the business which was attracted to Victoria, which now, with a population of 6000, has sixtyone licenses. It was agreed to allow that place a license for each 200 inhabitants, which would give them thirty instead of cutting them down to seventeen. LICENSES AT THE ISLAND From Our Special Correspondent POLITICS AND PARTIZANISM AT THE Portland, May 4.

The question of what action the city council should take in the matter of controlling, curtailing or prohibiting liquor to be sold at the Island, by memorials or deputations to the license commissioners, was taken up at the meeting of the council last night. There was a spirited debate, which lasted over two hours and a half, on the sub-Montreal was reached about 11 o'clock ; the railway is 8.30, but as we had to get out about fifteen times, more or less, to mend couplings, sto, and turn ourselves into a construction squad and get the ro ad in order good enough to run over, the time made under the circumstances wasn't bad. The Toronto men were entertained during the day by the Montrealers, and after arranging all the preliminaries, the team found its way to the Bonaventure street depot. Here everything was in confusion. An immenae crowd of friends of the team were on hand to see the last of us for some months. A similar feeling had brought all the population of Caughnawaga over to say farewell to their thirteen braves, and to judge by some of the emotional leavetakings among them, the boasted stoicism of the Indian race has vanished, and only exists in the novels of Fenimore Cooper and the like.

How we got our baggage checked, how we got the dusky savages aboard, how we all managed to get through the crowds and into our Pullman will, for ever, be a mystery. Suffice it to say, we got there and found time to be attentive listeners while Mr. M. I. F. Quinn, ex-president of the engrossed address of that organization, couched in most fattering and complimentary terms, to Mr. W. K. McNaught, one of the team, and the president of the station amid round after round of cheers, and with the strains of Auld Lang Syne, ringing in our ease.

A before stated, we reached Portland at 3.30. For the basefit of these who are all the commissioners wanted to know the 8.30. For the basefit of these who all the propulation of the commissioners wanted to know the 8.30. For the basefit of these who are a subject would come up.

As before stated, we reached Portland at 3.30. For the benefit of those who don't know, I might say that we were due at 12.30—the inevitable Grand Trunk again. The dreary monotony of the trip was pleasantly varied by the courtesy of the Pullman conductor and porter and of Mr. Geo. W. Hill of the customs department, Island Pond, Vt. One of our number, a prominent "feeder of the home," completely overcome by emotion and other causes, was prostrated during the entire journey, and as we are bound to assist our country in every way and at all times, we couldn't allow even sickness to destroy a member's usefulness. We laid him out and affixed to his back the following proclamation:

He was opposed to fighting out political animosities in the council chamber. He did not think it was at all gentlemanly in Ald. Clarke to make charges against Mr. I oherty on a floor on which he (Ald. Clarke) knew could not be replied to by the accused. It ill became a member of the local legislature to make such an assertion when he knew that he could move for a special committee of that house to investigate any charges against Mr. Doherty in his official capacity as license commissioner. Mr. Doherty belonged to as wealthy and as respectable a house as the firm of H. E. Clarke & Co. There was a biblical injunction to the effect that we should not bear false witness against our neighbors. The same charges had been made at the last session of the Ontario legislature by the gentlemen whom Ald. Clarke succeeded, yet that gentleman was afraid to move for a special committee to investigate these charges. The speaker was sure Ald. Clarke would regret what he had said.

Ald. Clarke replied that he had not mentioned any names. However, as the cap seemed to fit someone, he supposed they could wear it.

Ald. Clarke then announced that he would withdraw his amendment. After further discussion the following amendment was submitted therefor by Ald. Evans and Steiner: "That this council does not consider it necessary to make any further representations to the license commissioners in reference to the granting of licenses to hotels on the island, but is astisfied to leave the matter in the hands of those whom the government has appointed to deal with it."
