LIQUOR LICENSES.

A Big Temperance Deputation Waits Upon the License Commissioners Each of Whom Expresses Bis Opinton—Hay Service Commissioners Each of Whom Expresses Bis Opinton—Hay Service Commissioners and the Service Commissioners Commissioners and Service Commissioners and Service Commissioners McGregor. Longford, Milligan, Gallfrattly, Burgess, Arthurs, Kerr and Denovan. The City Cosmoil's temperance element was represented by Aid. Fleming, Tait, Hewitt and R. A. Macdonaid, while Morality Inspector Archisbold, with newly clipped whiskers, represented the police authorities. Dr. Powell was the most prominent of the medical profession and Eigin Schoff of the legal.

Of the ladies who were present in strong force there were noticed: Mrs. Shaw, Mrs. Dorsey, Mrs. K. Spott, Mrs. Hughes, Mrs. Abercroinhie, Mrs. Jacob Spence, Mrs. F. Spence, Mrs. Coxhead, Mrs. V. L. Scott, Mrs. Hughes, Mrs. Abercroinhie, Mrs. Joach, Mrs. MacMath, Miss Watkins. Then among the many others present were Peter Small, on the outskirts of the crowd, who of course could not keep away, and who seemed deeply interested (wherever the Increme Commissioners are, generally you will find this same Peter). The separation in Toronto has, however, been in some aces run up the centre of the store, liquors ings sold on one side of this and groceries or e other. To remedy this condition of affairs ridechae Commissioners last your adopted a solution, declaring that hereafter no short shem and press the carrying out at the resultion adopted.

Such in short was the request of the temperance people, that no shop license to sell iquor be granted to anyone in the grocery business. The answer of the commissioners was to this effect; Mr. Ryan was out and out for a strict separation as asked for; Mr. Proctor believed that grocers might have heenest provided that their liquor shops be quite removed from where they sell groceries, and Mr. Armstrong said he'd do the best he could but had not yet made up his mind.

stating that he had issued the circular calling the meeting and that the commissioners had kindly consented to meet in the Prohibition rooms. A few gentlemen would be called upon to speak and he announced Ald. Tait.

Ald. Tait said that while the people had some time ago decided upon the separation of the gale of liquors from that of groceries and while the Board of Commissioners had endeavored to enforce the by-law, it was still only a sham separation and to remedy this evil they wanted the commissioners to carry out their resolution of last year. It was plain that the will of the people had not been carried out. He justified his making a short speech by saying that the size and respectability of the deputation was more elequent than speeches.

their duty in the matter, which he was sure they would if they had no other guide but their own consciences.

Rev. Dr. Sinfford followed and said that in a few cases the law as to separation had been faithfully observed, but in many more it had been syaded. As to the common report that undue influence is being attempted to induce the commissioners to go back on their resolution of a year ago, he said that the temperance people want to fight in the open field and have their enemy come out from behind the trees.

At this point Mr. Proctor asked: "Do you want it so that no man in the grocery business can get a licence?" and a chorus of "Yes" and if "Hear, hear!" gave him his answer. Mr. Proctor said there was no difficulty in making an entire separation of the sales, but the disquisification of the grocers was another thing. Rev. Dr. Thomas of the Jarvis-street Baptist Olurch spoke shortly and expressed himself as being in shorough sympathy with the movement.

Gladstone to Second the Condelence Metion in the House—Mr. Lincoln's Nomination as United States Minister to England a Pleasant Surprise to Lord Salisbury. London, March 28,—In accordance with Mr. Bright's own wish the funeral will be of the simplest description. Yesterday was the anniversary of the death of Mr. Beight's

Mr. Chamberlain writes: "By Mr. Bright" Mr. Chamberlain writes: "By Mr. Bright's death we have lost the most unique figure among English statesmen and popular leaders of the present generation. The consistency and completeness of his career and the massive simplicity of his character mark him out from all others. Now, having fought his last fighs, his death is a universal loss to both party and his death is a universal loss to both party and country."

The Standard says: "Mr. Bright was not, and did not profess to be, a great statesman, but he was one of the most disinterested social reformers, powerful orators and bouest politicians that the country has ever produced."

Mr. Bright has left four sons and three daughters.

It is expected that Mr. Gladstone will make the speech seconding the motion of condolence and probable adjournment of this House, moved by the leader of the Government in the Commons to morrow.

It is believed Mr. Bright will eventually be buried in Westminster Abbey, though at first his remains will be deposited in the family burial-place near Roedhale. This would be very appropriate, as emphasising the riew that "peace bath her victories no less senowned than those of war." Mr. John Murley was seen this morning. He says it would be a glory to the Abbey. The last great inneral there was the burial of Darwin. Mr. Morley says that Whittier was Mr. Bright's favorite poet.

All the blinds of the Reform Club, the dead Liberal's favorite haunt, were immediately drawn on receipt of the news of his death.

In the House of Lords this afternoon the Marquis of Salisbury, speaking of Mr. Bright, said: "He had special qualities for which his will be admired and noted in history. He was the greatest master of English oratory in the present generation, the eloquence of his style giving fitting expression to his burniag noble thoughts. He possessed a singular rectivade of character. He was inspired by pure patriotism from the beginning of his carees to its close."

The result of the vote on the nomination surprised Mr. Sherman, the chairman of the committee which reported it favorably. property belonged to the Board of Works.
Ald. Volves blushed a deep red, made a mild protest and sat down.

The Board of Works recommended that $10,000 be paid to Mr. E. J. Jurvis for the Glen-road bridge in full of all demands. On motion of Ald. Carlyle the clause was referred lack so that it might be remodelled with a view of taking the sense of the people on the subject.

Ald. Gillespie was very sarcastic referring to the experts' reports and the $8000 bill presented for their services. He thought it an extraordinarily heavy bill for the result, which mainly showed that Toronto was on Lake Ontario and that the Island acted as a breakwater. This Mayor, though admitting that the bill was a large one, held that the city had got full value for its money in the report furnished as setting at rest the question of the water supply and sewerage questions. The public mind had got so confused with the many schemes, such as gravitation, etc., presented, that it required the best opinions on the continent to finally settle the matter. The account was referred to the special committee appointed to deal with the matter.

The clause asking for the purchase of 100 fs. of Mr. Larratt W. Smith's property for waterworks purposes was allowed to stand, as it is possible the city may take n the whole property for park purposes. The Ferry bylaw was sent on to Council without amendment. The Markets and Health Committee recommended that no butcliers' licenses be issued before April; nor after Oct. 1 in each year, and that the fee be $10. The clause was struck out as militating against small traders and liable to create a monopoly.

In the Purks and Gardens report the following recommendation was adopted;

Your committee have considered the Mayor's message, asking for immediate consideration of the matter of speaking or preaching in the public pirks and squares of the city on Sundays, during the warm weather, togother with a quantity of correspondence relating thereto, and in view of the disgraceful scenes of last year and the great annoyance that has been occasioned citizens visiting the parks on Sundays in the past, your committee would strongly recommend that all preaching, speaking or discussing in any manner whatsoever, in the public parks and squares of the city on Sundays he hereafter strictly prohibited, and that the Police Department be asked to see that this rule is strictly adhered to.

The chairman explained that the clause "all preaching, speaking or discussing in any manner whatsoever" was not intended to refer to private conversations. Ald, Vokes opposed the clause on the ground that it was an interference with the liberty of the subject.

meeting was the exhibition lease. There were several chuses which stuck in the aldermen's throats, but the main one was the Zoo sub-lease snark, which seemed to very much complicate the affairs. Another point was that there was no provision for the proper supervision of mortgages given by the association, as Ald. Gillespie ploiesed out, could plunge auto debt up to the ears and the city would find itself hable. Ald Gillespie also wanted a cast noy clause preventing the sale of intoxicating liquore on the grounds, It was ultimately resolved to hold a special meeting of the Executive on Monday next to finally pass upon the much vexed question.

The Government had in fact presented a two-sided shield to the House and no matter which of the lieutenants was to be followed the end was the same, the Government was to be supported.

He had no doubt that the majority of the House would support the Government. The Liberal opposition would be in the main with this majority, and as this was a very suspicious position for the Opposition to occupy, is, for one, thought the hecessary to explain the vote he intended to give. The motion of the member for Muskoka was, in his opinion, laden with mischief, as it sought to engender religious animosity and to kindle mischief. In a country with 2,000,000 of Roman Catholiss and 3,000,000 of Protestants it was in the hishest degree mischievous to seek to make these people, like the Jews and Samaritans, not willing to hate any dealing with each other. We had in this question the right of local self-government on the one side and meddlesome interference and oversight on the other. To affirm the principle laid down in Cali O'Riem's motion would be to rut an end vincial rights. The Terrislature of Quelless was free to deal with the funds of the Province as it chose. The province was soverequifor this purpose. The property in questions had come into the possession of the Jesuits for the propagation of religion. After the property had been escheated by the Crown the order, when revived, set up a moral claim set the property and it was this moral claim set the property and it was this moral claim only that Mr. Mercier had recognized.

The "Degam" Tesched Us.

It had been said by some that the Jesuits would make an improper use of any money awarded to them; and that this was a proper reason for refusing to consider their moral claim. It would be just as reasonable for a moral man owing money to another who proper reason for refusing to consider their moral claim. It would be just as reasonable for a moral man owing money to another who was an idle, drunken fellow, to say to himself. I won't pay my creditor this money because if I do he will only spend it in getting drunk and will beat his wife when in that condition.

He thought those gentlemen who had been converted on this question by The Toronto Law Journal could not fail to be converted over again by the argument of Lond Selborns who contended that the Roman Oatholies should not be prohibited from referring their disputes to the Pope, who sated as an inipartial arbitrator. The judgment of the Pope had not of course the force of the judgment of an ordinary tribunal, because he had no means of enforcing his judgment. The authority of the Pope rested wholly on the acceptance of his views by those who belonged to the society that regarded him as their head, and those who placed themselves under him had the right to ask him for counsel.

There was, he thought, nothing more dangerous than to pass opinions on the religious helief of a portion of the community, in a popular assembly. He was not afraid that the rights of Protestants would suffer in this country. How gould fair play be expected from the Catholics unless the Protestants exhibited a sprit of tolerance? He was unwilling to concede to any Roman Catholic institution in this country anything that would not be granted to a Protestant institution. If their defgymen were sincers and would preach religion not politics is thought Protestantism would be perfectly safe in Canada. While as anxious as any one to oppose encroachments by any denomination he would rather be then victum of wrongful judgment by others than be, the instrument in the hands of anybody to wrong his fellow country.
