As Volunteers in Medical College.

DRS. LARGE and Rush commenced their medical studies together at Trinity Medical College in October, '93, and graduated together in April, '97, the same class of which Drs. J. A. Jackson and F. C. Stephenson were members. While in college they were amongst the most earnest and faithful promoters of the Christian and missionary work of the institution in all its phases. It is but justice to them to note that the Christian work of the College during this time became a much more influential factor amongst the students than ever before. In fact, at the close of the spring term in '96 it was felt that instead of one Young Men's Christian Association between the two large medical held the unbounded respect and regard of their classmates. In their studies too, both held highly creditable positions throughout their course, Dr. Large standing next to the silver medallist in his final examination.

After graduation, Dr. Rush took a course in the Post Graduate University of New York, and then spent some months in independent medical missionary work in Mexico. He returned in July of the present year, and was shortly after appointed by our own Board to the medical work among the Indians on the coast of British Columbia.

Dr. Large, after graduation, obtained a much coveted position on the home staff of the Toronto General Hospital for the year commencing July 1st, 1897. At the expiration of this term of most valuable experience he also was ap-

Who will volunteer to support one or both of these missionaries? If an individual or a district will relieve the General Board of the responsibility of supporting these young men, other young doctors or ministers will be sent out with the funds which the Board has appropriated for the support of Drs. Rush and Large.

colleges, the time had come when each College ought to have one of its own. Accordingly, the division was effected, and Dr. Large enjoys the honor of having been the first President of the Trinity Association, and, without doubt, contributed much to the splendid success which has attended the Association ever since.

Besides the improvement in the general Christian work, the Missionary Volunteer Band and Study Class, of which Dr. Rush held the position of leader for two successive years, was changed during this time from a monthly to a weekly gathering, and increased greatly in attendance and interest.

Both men threw themselves heartily into college life and pointed to the Indian work on the coast, to which place he preceded Dr. Rush by only a few weeks.

THE preparation of our report of campaign work done this year is a heavy task. We hope to have it ready for our next number.

THIS issue, we trust, will help our Leaguers to plan for the fall and winter work. Read carefully the suggestions of seventy-two of our ministers, also read "Daily Watch" and plan to have a part in the Forward Movement in evangelistic work and Bible study. We hope every article in this CAMPAIGNER will be suggestive or encouraging to our readers.
